OHIO RIVER FLOOD FEARED

Today

Coolidge Says No.
They Beautify.
Mind Over Matter.
Do One Thing Well.

By ARTHUR BRISBANE

[The opinions expressed in this column are strictly those of Mr. Brisbane and not necessarily in consonance with the policies of The Review-Tribune.]

FOR the United States, according to President Coolidge, the Mexican question comes to this:

"Shall property of American citizens in Mexico be confiscated or taken without being paid for?"

President Coolidge answers "No," which will suit the average American.

GEORGE HILL, head of the big American Tobacco Co., says that since women smoke, tobacco advertising should be prepared appealing to them. Advertising geniuses all over the country will immediately besiege Mr. Hill with special "Lady's cigaret advertising. Success will depend on good pictures, plus two words: "They beautify."

HAS mind power over matter, as Christian Scientists allege? Yes, Dr. Boyd, experimenting with drugs on 50 students, gave half of them the real thing, the other half swallowed milk capsules.

Drug victims, in the last stages of affliction, are soothed by hypodermic injection of distilled water, which they believe to contain morphine. Mind has power over matter, imagination is more powerful than fact.

But mind won't cure cancer, put your filling in a tooth, heal an abscess or set a broken bone. Don't push "mind over matter" too far, especially if there is a good doctor near you.

SEVENTEEN-YEAR-OLD George Young, who swam the Catalina channel, learns that advertising is cash. He is in vaudeville at $1,000 a night. Instead of buying a "quiet little bungalow" for his mother in California, he will be able to buy her a Beverly Hills house with swimming pool and projection room attached.

Do one thing well. That is what pays.

HOWARD GOULD'S wife sued him and the court gave her $30,000 a year. Charlie Chaplin's wife sues him and the court gives her, while she is waiting, $4,000 a month, or $48,000 a year. Gould is worth probably fifty or sixty millions. Chaplin is worth three or four millions.

Everything in this country improves in value, even the rights of an angry wife.

ONCE, upon a midnight dreary, when funds were low and prospects bad,

Do Not Make a False Impression

The world is a harsh judge and is perfectly willing to condemn us by outward appearances. In the street, at the theater, in the restaurant, every day people are judging us by what we do and say. They go away carrrying an impression of us—and it depends upon our manners whether it is a good impression or a bad impression.

That is why it is important to give attention to the little courteous observance and social formalities that bespeak the true lady and gentelmen, and make the world a better place to live in

Lock Men at Dam No. 8 Expect 28 or 30 Feet.

RAINS BLAMED

Flood Stage Reached by Other Rivers in State.

Fed by a two-day rain, the Ohio river may reach a flood stage within the next 24 hours, rivermen here said today.

A gauge of almost 21 feet was reported at dam No. 8 at noon, and the river was rising at the rate of six-tenths of a foot an hour.

Flood Stage is 33.9 Feet.

Although without definite advices from Pittsburgh, where rain was still falling during the forenoon, and Allegheny river ice floes were moving, lock men at East Liverpool predicted a stage of 28 or 30 feet would be reached here.

Flood stage at the dam is 33.9 feet. The water reaches the River Road between the downtown and East End district at about 33 feet. Houses in Jethro and other lowlands are flooded by a 30-foot stage.

The rain, which followed snow Tuesday afternoon, is said to be general throughout Ohio, West Virginia and the Allegheny mountain watershed, which is drained by the Allegheny and Monongahela rivers.

Ice Gorge Dynamited.

The village of Irondale, Jefferson county, was endangered yesterday when an ice gorge formed in Salt run, near the vehicle bridge. The gorge was moved by charges of dynamite and soon the creek which had overflood its banks and reached the back yards of several homes had receded. Practically all danger of a flood in that section had passed today, it was believed.

Both the north and west forks of Beaver creek which merge at Fredericktown were swollen today, residents of the district said, but there was no danger of a flood in the village, which occupies a site high above the creek level.

Beaver creek, which flows through Lisbon, was out of its banks at several places. The lowlands in the vicinity of Lincoln Gardens, at Brown's bridge in Madison township were inundated.

Sandy creek, near Hanoverton, was also overflowing.

Rural mail carriers in the vicinity of Millport in the west end of the county are reported to have been unable to make deliveries yesterday because of flooded highways. Unimproved roads have been turned into seas

CAPITAL HINTS SETTLEMENT OF DISPUTE WITH CALLES REGIME

Peaceable Negotiations Predicted in Controversy With Mexico.

DIPLOMATIC GAME

New Efforts Toward Peace in Nicaraguan Warfare.

By GEORGE R. HOLMES.

MEXICO CITY, Jan. 20.—A temporary injunction against the operation of the new petroleum law, pending a response by the government to charges that the law is illegal, was today granted to three large oil companies which have filed injunction suits.

The duration of the injunction is for three days.

No matter what the decision of the lower courts may be, it is expected that the dispute will be carried to the supreme court.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 20.—Settlement of the land-law controversy with Mexico by peaceful negotiations, rather than resort to an open break, was still regarded as the paramount policy of the administration today, despite Secretary of State Kellogg's denial that he had committed this government to arbitration.

Secretary Kellogg's latest statement was coincident with reports from Mexico City quoting President Calles as saying while he favored peaceful adjustment there could be no arbitration of the Mexican constitution itself.

In diplomatic quarters here, these statements were taken as a necessary part of the diplomatic game. Neither government is desirous of exhibiting any signs of receding from the position it has assumed in the controversy, and both governments have to contend with domestic opposition of more or less strength. Hence, it is pointed out, the approach to arbitration must be cautious.

Coolidge's Attitude.

President Coolidge has summarized the Mexican problem as embracing the question: "Shall the property of American citizens be confiscated without its being paid for?"

Put bluntly on that basis, the controversy does not lend itself to arbitration, for this government cannot put itself in the position beforehand, at least, of being willing to concede that the question is open to doubt.

President Calles has summarized the controversy thus: "Has Mexico the right to adopt a constitution?"

On that basis, the Mexican government similarly cannot concede that the question is open to arbitration, for to do so would put the Calles regime in the position of being willing to arbitrate Mexico's sovereignty. Adoption of a constitution is an attribute of sovereignty which no government could relinquish.

The charge against Mrs. Kay was preferred by her sister, Mrs. Bertha Lyder.

ADMINSTRATION CHIEFS LAUNCH FINAL DRIVE FOR SENATOR-DESIGNATE

Friends of Illinois Man Resort to Art of Demosthenes in Efforts to Talk Governor Len Small's Appointee Into Being Allowed to Take Oath of Office.

COLONEL IS HALTED AT PORTALS WITH MAJORITY WAITING TO BAR HIM

Led by Senator Watson of Indiana, Republican Spokesmen Seek to Gain His Admission by Force of Argument, Demanding Respect for State's Sovereign Power to Name Man.

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 20.—Unleashing a flood of oratory in the senate, administration leaders this afternoon launched a final drive to talk Col. Frank L. Smith (R.) of Illinois, into being allowed to take his oath as a United States senator.

With Smith halted at the portals and knowing that a majority of the senate is waiting to bar him, Republican spokesmen sought to gain him admission by the force of argument. Led by Senator Watson (R.) of Indiana, they demanded the senate respect the sovereign power of Illinois to name a senator of his own choice.

Although Smith appeared certain of disappointment, administration forces were wielding a tremendous influence to gain his temporary admission to the senate. As the debate entered its second day, a re-check of an earlier poll indicated Smith would be denied the oath of office by a vote of 48 to 37. Unless there develops a last minute turnover, even his supporters conceded his defeat.

Democratic-Insurgent Coalition.

The battle over admitting Smith found the old Democratic-Insurgent coalition revived and uniting against him. Their attack was based chiefly on the Reed campaign committee's revelations that Smith accepted $207,000 in gifts from public utilities of Illinois for his primary campaign while serving as chairman of the state's utilities commission, that his personal expenditures were $287,000—far more than Newberry's—and that in all $450,000 was spent in his behalf. With this record in the primary, the coalition maintained that Smith was not entitled to ever become a member of the senate.

The administration threw its support to Smith and its spokesmen contended that he was entitled to his oath of office, even if his alleged primary misdeeds justified his expulsion later. The Republican leaders argued that the senate had no right to reject the credentials given by Governor Len Small, but rather were compelled to accept them on their face.

Bitterness In Debate.

The debate meanwhile developed considerable bitterness. The Insurgents particularly were angered by the attitude of regular Republicans, pointing out that the senators who are now defending Smith were the first to demand that one of their own group—Senator Nye, of North Dakota—should be denied the oath a year ago.

Both factions expressed a willingness to decide the issue by a vote before adjournment tonight. Unless there are last minute changes it was apparent Smith would be denied the oath. The first day's debate, however, showed that Senators Borah (R) of Idaho, King (D) of Utah, and Steck (D) of Iowa, who were reported opposed to Smith, had been won over to the plan to give him the oath. While this reduced the majority against Smith, it still left him a half dozen votes short of a seat in the senate.

May Pass Upon Woods' Nomination.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 20.—Unless forced to postpone it because of the Smith case, the senate today will pass upon the nomination of Cyrus E. Woods, of Pennsylvania, as a member

Boy, Who Floats Out Into Lake on Ice, Believed Lost

CLEVELAND, Jan. 20.—Hope virtually was abandoned here today of rescuing a boy who floated out into Lake Erie last night on a cake of ice.

The youth was seen signalling for help about a mile from the shore. Coast guard boats and fire tugs ploughed through ice choked waters in an effort to save him but darkness overtook them.

Although the search was maintained all night, it is believed that the youth succumbed to the cold and slipped from his icy craft.

Police are making a check in an effort to establish the missing boy's identity.

Captain Greene, 64, Ohio River Packet Line Owner, Dies

CINCINNATI, Jan. 20.—Captain Gordon C. Greene, 64, widely known in all Ohio river cities and founder of the Greene steamboat line which operated extensively along the Ohio, died in his Hyde Park home here today.

Capt. Greene, owner of 25 steam boats during his career, was perhaps the best known riverman in the middlewest.

MURDER PUZZLES CANTON POLICE

CANTON, O., Jan. 20—Another murder mystery faced the Canton police department today, following the discovery late yesterday of a man's body in the settling basin of the garbage disposal plant.

Chief of Police John Wise declared that a hole in the back of the victim's head indicated that he had been murdered.

Identification was made difficult as the man's clothing had been torn off as the body was swept through a sewer main.

KENTUCKY EVANGELIST, WHO ADMITS SOULS ARE NOT SAVED AT PRIZE RING, TELLS CHURCH-GOERS HIS IMPRESSION OF TUNNEY-DEMPSEY FIGHT

Dr. Clyde L. Fife, one of the Radio Log Cabin Boys from Kentucky, who sat at the ringside on the night that Jack Dempsey lost his heavyweight championship crown to Gene Tunney, last night told a capacity crowd at the Tabernacle church of Christ, Pennsylvania avenue, his impressions of the Philadelphia battle.

Seeing a title prize fight does not corrupt an evangelist from the Blue Grass state, judging from the sermon preached by Dr. Fife.

Taking as a pattern the Apostle Paul, who went to the Roman races, saw the contests and then preached a sermon on "Let No Man Take Thy Crown," Dr. Fife went to the Tunney-Dempsey battle, saw the bout and took the same text.

During his sermon Dr. Fife said:

"Having been requested by one of the more conservative New York papers to go as a press correspondent to the Dempsey-Tunney prize fight in Philadelphia and write my impressions of the fight, and to draw such lessons and 'write your reactions, impressions as from one of the most famous evangelists in the United States.' I herewith gladly present what I have to say and straight off the bat.

"First of all, let me say that it was the most marvelous crowd I was ever in; 140,000 people from all parts of the world. The vice-president, cabinet members, senators, foreign ambassadors and nearly all the elders and deacons of churches whom I ever knew. They would sock me on the back and say: 'Hello, Clyde, what are you doing here?'

"'Reporting for a New York paper.'

"'Well, what do you think of that?'

"If you can conceive a mighty valley with hills on each side, silhouetted against the dark blue sky and all in the shape of a bowl and people sitting thick as blades of grass, you can imagine the immensity of it all, for it looked to be a quarter mile long and half as wide anyhow. Every soul there saw everything. One could read the finest type of a newspaper under the white light. A great, immense and marvelous county fair crowd, two per cent, women, known as the weaker sex and wrongly so-called.

"There it was—in the cradle of American liberty, a soldier boy, a marine, clad in a marvelous dressing gown—the gift of his buddies and the marine insignia on the back of it. It was enough to make thrifty Ben Franklin and peaceful, brotherly, William Penn, turn over in their graves—140,000 present and a $2,000,000 gate.

"Yes, 140,000 pop-eyed fans as orderly as any church I ever attended. Not a detail overlooked by the master of this mightiest assembly ever gathered on American soil.

"I talked personally with Tex Rickard. Just a plain man about the exact size of Billy Sunday, and quiet, unmoved. Wore blue serge suit worth about $20, a gray hat like mine and not the slightest trace of affectation. I liked him immensely. He said he was glad I came and treated me like I was just a brother cow puncher from Goldfield and had he known I have slept on the ground out in that country, he might have liked me even better.

"The men who came there pure and clean for a gala day, went away as clean as they came. Rich men were there with their boys. I am poor, but I wished to God for my Junior, for there wasn't a thing he could not have seen. But those who were rotten in life went away the same way. I never saw a man drunk, I never smelled any whiskey on any one and saw only one pint bottle and it was empty and had been set under a drinking fountain. Every man in his place. Tex Rickard never came in sight of the fight.

"It was a marvelous amount of cash for an evening's pleasure, this two-million-dollar gate, but no one would come again tonight to see it done over. It was settled and those fans play the role of bankers, business men, and all lines of professional life this morning.

Put bluntly on that basis, the controversy does not lend itself to arbitration, for this government cannot put itself in the position beforehand, at least, of being willing to concede that the question is open to doubt.

President Calles has summarized the controversy thus: "Has Mexico the right to adopt a constitution?"

On that basis, the Mexican government similarly cannot concede that the question is open to arbitration, for to do so would put the Calles regime in the position of being willing to arbitrate Mexico's sovereignty. Adoption of a constitution is an attribute of sovereignty which no government could relinquish.

Ohio Coal Miners Crush Proposal for "One Big Union"

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 20.—Hopes for an Ohio miners "one big union," vanished here today when delegates to the 37th convention of District No. 6, United Mine Workers, overwhelmingly defeated a resolution offered from the convention floor.

Following a partial report of the resolutions committee the convention endorsed the old age pension bill offered at the present legislature, and the bills introduced to limit the activities of justices of the peace to their own townships.

SMITH ILL AS HE AWAITS TOGA

WASHINGTON, Jan. 20.—Senator-designate Frank L. Smith, Republican, of Illinois, was considerably relieved today from an ear affliction with which he has been suffering. An abscess in the ear was lanced last night and afforded relief. Smith expected to again be present in the senate today, where his claims to a seat are being contested.

Employes in Hankow Financial Zone ask Wage Increase.

LONDON, Jan. 20—Further rioting broke out at Foochow today where the Nationalists are beyond the control of the Chinese authorities, according to a Central News dispatch from Shanghai.

The rioters were reported to have looted one American and two British schools at Foochow.

The latest reports from Hankow stated that banking facilities were disorganized due to the demands of the banks' employes for increased wages.

SALEM MAN GETS PRISON SENTENCE

Pleading guilty to an indictment charging him with issuing a fraudulent check, W. M. Brown, Salem, was sentenced to serve from one to three years in the Ohio penitentiary by Judge W. F. Lones in common pleas court, Lisbon, yesterday. The indictment charging him with obtaining money under false pretense has been dropped.

William House, also of Salem, who was indicted for breaking and entering in the day time and committing larceny, has been sentenced to serve from one to two years in prison, following a trial by a jury. Motion for a new trial has been overruled.

ASSAULT CASE JURY DISAGREES

After being locked up for two hours, a jury in common pleas court at Lisbon disagreed in the case of Elizabeth Kay of Middleton, indicted by the January grand jury on two counts charging assault and battery.

The case went to the jury at 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon. Shortly after 5 o'clock word was sent out from the jury room that an agreement appeared impossible.

The charge against Mrs. Kay was preferred by her sister, Mrs. Bertha Lyder.

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 20.—L. C. Price, Democrat, former resident of Tuscarawas county, has been named state prohibition inspector, according to an announcement made here today by state prohibition commissioner B. F. McDonald.

ADMINSTRATION CHIEFS LAUNCH FINAL DRIVE FOR SENATOR-DESIGNATE

Friends of Illinois Man Resort to Art of Demosthenes in Efforts to Talk Governor Len Small's Appointee Into Being Allowed to Take Oath of Office.

COLONEL IS HALTED AT PORTALS WITH MAJORITY WAITING TO BAR HIM

Led by Senator Watson of Indiana, Republican Spokesmen Seek to Gain His Admission by Force of Argument, Demanding Respect for State's Sovereign Power to Name Man.

By WILLIAM R. HUTCHINSON.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 20.—Unleashing a flood of oratory in the senate, administration leaders this afternoon launched a final drive to talk Col. Frank L. Smith (R.) of Illinois, into being allowed to take his oath as a United States senator.

With Smith halted at the portals and knowing that a majority of the senate is waiting to bar him, Republican spokesmen sought to gain him admission by the force of argument. Led by Senator Watson (R.) of Indiana, they demanded the senate respect the sovereign power of Illinois to name a senator of his own choice.

Although Smith appeared certain of disappointment, administration forces were wielding a tremendous influence to gain his temporary admission to the senate. As the debate entered its second day, a re-check of an earlier poll indicated Smith would be denied the oath of office by a vote of 48 to 37. Unless there develops a last minute turnover, even his supporters conceded his defeat.

Democratic-Insurgent Coalition.

The battle over admitting Smith found the old Democratic-Insurgent coalition revived and uniting against him. Their attack was based chiefly on the Reed campaign committee's revelations that Smith accepted $207,000 in gifts from public utilities of Illinois for his primary campaign while serving as chairman of the state's utilities commission, that his personal expenditures were $287,000—far more than Newberry's—and that in all $450,000 was spent in his behalf. With this record in the primary, the coalition maintained that Smith was not entitled to ever become a member of the senate.

The administration threw its support to Smith and its spokesmen contended that he was entitled to his oath of office, even if his alleged primary misdeeds justified his expulsion later. The Republican leaders argued that the senate had no right to reject the credentials given by Governor Len Small, but rather were compelled to accept them on their face.

Bitterness In Debate.

The debate meanwhile developed considerable bitterness. The Insurgents particularly were angered by the attitude of regular Republicans, pointing out that the senators who are now defending Smith were the first to demand that one of their own group—Senator Nye, of North Dakota—should be denied the oath a year ago.

Both factions expressed a willingness to decide the issue by a vote before adjournment tonight. Unless there are last minute changes, it was apparent Smith would be denied the oath. The first day's debate, however, showed that Senators Borah (R) of Idaho, King (D) of Utah, and Steck (D) of Iowa, who were reported opposed to Smith, had been won over to the plan to give him the oath. While this reduced the majority against Smith, it still left him a half dozen votes short of a seat in the senate.

May Pass Upon Woods' Nomination.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 20.—Unless forced to postpone it because of the Smith case, the senate today will pass upon the nomination of Cyrus E. Woods, of Pennsylvania, as a member

Boy, Who Floats Out Into Lake on Ice, Believed Lost

CLEVELAND, Jan. 20.—Hope virtually was abandoned here today of rescuing a boy who floated out into Lake Erie last night on a cake of ice.

The youth was seen signalling for help about a mile from the shore. Coast guard boats and fire tugs ploughed through ice choked waters in an effort to save him but darkness overtook them.

Although the search was maintained all night, it is believed that the youth succumbed to the cold and slipped from his icy craft.

Police are making a check in an effort to establish the missing boy's identity.

Captain Greene, 64, Ohio River Packet Line Owner, Dies

CINCINNATI, Jan. 20.—Captain Gordon C. Greene, 64, widely known in all Ohio river cities and founder of the Greene steamboat line which operated extensively along the Ohio, died in his Hyde Park home here today.

Capt. Greene, owner of 25 steam boats during his career, was perhaps the best known riverman in the middlewest.

MURDER PUZZLES CANTON POLICE

CANTON, O., Jan. 20—Another murder mystery faced the Canton police department today, following the discovery late yesterday of a man's body in the settling basin of the garbage disposal plant.

Chief of Police John Wise declared that a hole in the back of the victim's head indicated that he had been murdered.

Identification was made difficult as the man's clothing had been torn off as the body was swept through a sewer main.

KENTUCKY EVANGELIST, WHO ADMITS SOULS ARE NOT SAVED AT PRIZE RING, TELLS CHURCH-GOERS HIS IMPRESSION OF TUNNEY-DEMPSEY FIGHT

Dr. Clyde L. Fife, one of the Radio Log Cabin Boys from Kentucky, who sat at the ringside on the night that Jack Dempsey lost his heavyweight championship crown to Gene Tunney, last night told a capacity crowd at the Tabernacle church of Christ, Pennsylvania avenue, his impressions of the Philadelphia battle.

Seeing a title prize fight does not corrupt an evangelist from the Blue Grass state, judging from the sermon preached by Dr. Fife.

Taking as a pattern the Apostle Paul, who went to the Roman races, saw the contests and then preached a sermon on "Let No Man Take Thy Crown," Dr. Fife went to the Tunney-Dempsey battle, saw the bout and took the same text.

During his sermon Dr. Fife said:

"Having been requested by one of the more conservative New York papers to go as a press correspondent to the Dempsey-Tunney prize fight in Philadelphia and write my impressions of the fight, and to draw such lessons and 'write your reactions, impressions as from one of the most famous evangelists in the United States.' I herewith gladly present what I have to say and straight off the bat.

"First of all, let me say that it was the most marvelous crowd I was ever in; 140,000 people from all parts of the world. The vice-president, cabinet members, senators, foreign ambassadors and nearly all the elders and deacons of churches whom I ever knew. They would sock me on the back and say: 'Hello, Clyde, what are you doing here?'

"'Reporting for a New York paper.'

"'Well, what do you think of that?'

"If you can conceive a mighty valley with hills on each side, silhouetted against the dark blue sky and all in the shape of a bowl and people sitting thick as blades of grass, you can imagine the immensity of it all, for it looked to be a quarter mile long and half as wide anyhow. Every soul there saw everything. One could read the finest type of a newspaper under the white light. A great, immense and marvelous county fair crowd, two per cent, women, known as the weaker sex and wrongly so-called.

"There it was—in the cradle of American liberty, a soldier boy, a marine, clad in a marvelous dressing gown—the gift of his buddies and the marine insignia on the back of it. It was enough to make thrifty Ben Franklin and peaceful, brotherly, William Penn, turn over in their graves—140,000 present and a $2,000,000 gate.

"Yes, 140,000 pop-eyed fans as orderly as any church I ever attended. Not a detail overlooked by the master of this mightiest assembly ever gathered on American soil.

"I talked personally with Tex Rickard. Just a plain man about the exact size of Billy Sunday, and quiet, unmoved. Wore blue serge suit worth about $20, a gray hat like mine and not the slightest trace of affectation. I liked him immensely. He said he was glad I came and treated me like I was just a brother cow puncher from Goldfield and had he known I have slept on the ground out in that country, he might have liked me even better.

"The men who came there pure and clean for a gala day, went away as clean as they came. Rich men were there with their boys. I am poor, but I wished to God for my Junior, for there wasn't a thing he could not have seen. But those who were rotten in life went away the same way. I never saw a man drunk, I never smelled any whiskey on any one and saw only one pint bottle and it was empty and had been set under a drinking fountain. Every man in his place. Tex Rickard never came in sight of the fight.

"It was a marvelous amount of cash for an evening's pleasure, this two-million-dollar gate, but no one would come again tonight to see it done over. It was settled and those fans play the role of bankers, business men, and all lines of professional life this morning.

U. S. CLAY MINES LEASE TRACT

Warehouse to be Erected Near Beleek Street.

The United Clay Mines Corporation, headquarters of which are located in Trenton, N. J., today took over a one-acre tract of land along the C. & P. railroad near Beleek street, on which will be erected a warehouse for domestic and imported clays.

According to C. C. Engle, general sales manager, a railroad switch will be run to the site. Clay bins and a modern brick office building are included among the improvements which will cost about $25,000. Work on the warehouse will be started next spring.

The company operates mines in New Jersey, Maryland, South Carolina and Florida and also deals in ball and china clays imported from England. Clays used in the manufacture of general ware and paints and in the rubber and pulp paper industries will be handled, Engle said.

The company has maintained small yards in East End for about five years. H. A. Miles, 1240 Erie street, is the East Liverpool representative.

Saxony, Germany, is planning an extensive automobile road system.

A railroad is being constructed into the banana district of Panama.

U. S. CLAY MINES LEASE TRACT

Warehouse to be Erected Near Beleek Street.

The United Clay Mines Corporation, headquarters of which are located in Trenton, N. J., today took over a one-acre tract of land along the C. & P. railroad near Beleek street, on which will be erected a warehouse for domestic and imported clays.

According to C. C. Engle, general sales manager, a railroad switch will be run to the site. Clay bins and a modern brick office building are included among the improvements which will cost about $25,000. Work on the warehouse will be started next spring.

The company operates mines in New Jersey, Maryland, South Carolina and Florida and also deals in ball and china clays imported from England. Clays used in the manufacture of general ware and paints and in the rubber and pulp paper industries will be handled, Engle said.

The company has maintained small yards in East End for about five years. H. A. Miles, 1240 Erie street, is the East Liverpool representative.

Saxony, Germany, is planning an extensive automobile road system.

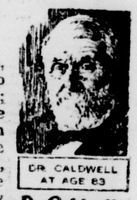

A railroad is being constructed into the banana district of Panama.

MOOTED PROBLEM FOR HIGH COURT

A question of whether a person entitled to compensation for injuries under provisions of the state compensation act has the right to sue for damages, has been certified to the supreme court by the Cabell county circuit court. The case is that of E. S. McVey against the Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone company.

It was docketed by the supreme court yesterday.

McVey brought suit in the Cabell court for $25,000 for injuries said to have been received by his wife, when struck with an exchange plug jerked out of the board by an operator sitting at her right hand. The basis of the charges of neglect are that the incompetent and "reckless" operator was allowed to work by her.

A supplement to the main question certified is whether the declaration states facts to constitute a cause of action against the telephone company.

Attend Revival.

Number of members of the congregation of the Nazarene church attended the opening of the revival services last night in the Chester Nazarene church in charge of Rev. Stella B. Crooks. Rev. F. F. Freese, pastor of the local church, is in charge of the singing.

School Board to Meet.

Members of the Grant district board of education will meet in regular session next Monday evening. Routine business will be transacted.

GISH PICTURE IS APPEALING

Lillian Scores in "Scarlet Letter" at American.

When Nathaniel Hawthorne wrote "The Scarlet Letter," the world knew that he had produced a classic, but it remained for Lillian Gish to prove to the world that he had also written one of the greatest dramas of all times.

"The Scarlet Letter," Miss Gish's latest starring vehicle, is a drama almost appalling in its magnitude. It took her six years to persuade a producer to let her play it, but her ambition is justified in the remarkable play now being shown at the Ceramic theatre. "The Scarlet Letter" is certain to take its place as a classic of the screen.

The theme of the new Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer production is the story of a woman surrounded by intolerant Puritans, who carries a badge of shame through life to shield the man she loves. In such scenes as the amazing pillory scene, where her lover, under pretense of exhorting her, voices his love and his remorse, and she vows deathless love, the drama of the situation is so tense as to be almost unbelievable.

Miss Gish is beautiful as well as compellingly convincing as the ill-fated "Hester Prynne" of the story, and Victor Seastrom's direction is remarkably fine. She plays the role of the Puritan girl facing life's greatest tragedy with an appealing wistfulness that grows into poignant tragedy as the powerful story unfolds.

In playing this part Miss Gish made what she referred to as a monument to her ancestors. Of early Puritan ancestry and herself a member of the Daughters of the American Revolution, the star took a deep personal interest in living the part of "Hester Prynne" before the camera.

Hanson New Type.

Lars Hanson, the Swedish star, makes his debut as her leading man. He is a figure of rugged strength, and a type entirely new to the screen. His artistry is immense. Henry B. Walthall gives a convincing portrayal of Dr. Prynne, Nemesis of the heroine, and Charlotte Corday as Mistress Hibbins, the village gossip. Karl Dane as "Giles" the village barber, Mary Hawes, William H. Tooker, James A. Marcus, Jules Cowles, Fred Herzog and little Joyce Coad are all ideally cast.

The settings are elaborate and beautiful, and the photography so beautiful that it at times suggests oil painting.

PLANT WORKERS TO STAGE SHOW

Plans are being arranged for a show to be staged by employes of the Homer Laughlin China company during March in the hig school auditorium, East Liverpool.

School Attendance Normal.

Don't Let a Cough or Cold "Go Down"

If you let a cough get down into your bronchial tubes or lungs, it stops being merely a nuisance and becomes a real danger.

A "head cold" is only a bother while it stays in your head. But once it gets down into the danger zone, serious trouble threatens.

Act promptly to check the cough; to keep the head cold from "going down." Sure and lasting relief is as near as the nearest drug store.

Quickly and unfailingly Ayer's Cherry Pectoral goes straight to the seat of danger. Real medicine, reaching deep with its soothing, healing power, penetrating through and through the irritated membranes of your throat and bronchial tubes.

If you are catching cold; if you have a "head cold"; if your chest is tight; if you have a cough — even if bronchitis has developed — Ayer's Cherry Pectoral at once! Keep your cold from going down into the danger zone.

Cherry Pectoral is pleasant, safe and dependable — for children and grown people. At all druggists—30c; twice as much, $1.00. 1b26d

Legislative Over-Production

The legislative factories are beginning their work of law-making again. Here is one field where serious over-production is possible. Says the secretary of the national industrial council:

"An increasing number of new law promoting groups outside of those serving in the legislatures of the country are revealed in an investigation of the state legislation outlook. These organized instigators of new laws representing active minorities and special class groups are annually descending on state capitals in greater flocks, each with its own panacea or special class advantage in mind and endeavoring by legislative decree to restrain, reform or arbitrarily control the conduct, morals, business methods and domestic lives of othes.

"They virtually overwhelm any desire by legislators to enact nothing but that legislation which is essential for the effective and reasonable administration of governmental authority."

Almost everyone agrees that there are already to many laws. But everybody with a pet law to present to a legislature believes that restriction of law-making should begin after his is enacted.

Here is a place where private citizens should let the legislators know that restraint will be welcome; that they'd like to have legislators dare to say "no."

A Girl's $100

Of all the amazing facts laid bare in the government suit against former Ford stockholders, none makes a wider public appeal than the story of Miss Couzens' $100 investment.

When James Couzens, now United States senator, invested his own small savings in Henry Ford's new motor enterprise back in 1903, and had difficulty in getting together the few hundreds needed, he went to his sister, now Mrs. Rosetta V. Hauss. She had saved $100, and was willing to lend it to Brother James, not because she knew or cared anything about Henry Ford and his crazy inventions, but because she liked her brother and believed in him.

That little hundred went into the Ford pot and James saw that it participated duly in the Ford earnings. So it came about that in the next 10 years, Rosetta received $47,000 in dividends from the Ford Motor company. Then when it was recapitalized in 1915, she was given $50,000 in new stock for her holding. In the next four years, until Henry Ford bought out the minority stockholders, that stock grew to $260,000, while paying her dividends of $460,000. Her original investment of $100 had brought her three-quarters of a million in 16 years.

This is just a little story that is interesting because people and money are interesting. If there is any moral to it, perhaps it is that sisters should have faith in their brothers. And that may not be a safe doctrine to preach, because brothers, with the best intentions in the world, have been known to lose their sisters' money. Ordinarily faith without loans is safer. But what a glorious vindication this was of sisterly confidence!

The Chaplin Scandal

The world has not only liked Charlie Chaplin, but admired and respected him, as it awoke to his ability and significance. He had marital infelicities, like many another artist, but was very involved in any public disgrace. While scandal swept through Hollywood, it passed him by.

Now scandal whirls around him and threatens to submerge him. He is as pathetic a figure in life as he ever was on the screen.

It is well for the public to be fair to a sensitive and intelligent actor who has given it a vast amount of clean fun in the past and who may benefit hereafter a none too happy world by helping it to forget its troubles. Very serious charges have been brought against Chaplin in the divorce suit filed against him. They may or may not be true. He deserves his hearing, in public opinion as in court procedure. Fortunately the public is inclined to take this view of the matter, holding him innocent until he is proved guilty.

This argument applies as well to Chaplin pictures as to Chaplin himself. It looks unfair to boycott a picture because the actor who made it has been accused of unproved offenses. There should be time enough for that when both sides have been heard.

Physiological Movies

The surgeons haven't left much mystery about human benigs' nward parts, and soon there won't be any left at all. Everything vill be made plain by a device on which three British scientists re now working.

It is a sort of moving X-ray picture machine. Evidently some ther ray than the present X-ray will be used, to give the necesary speed of operation, but the principle will be the same. Instead of single photographs, then, of bones or teeth or organs, here will be regular movies of the organs in operation. The new amera will show digestive processes, the beating of the heart, he circulation of the blood, etc. Thus any case may be more accurately diagnosed, and much new light thrown on mysterious odily processes and functions.

That's interesting and useful, but disconcerting to old-fashioned, modest persons, who really don't fancy having other people look right into them and see what's going on inside. There won't be much privacy left, as this scientific age proceeds.

NEW YORK DAYBYDAY
By O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, Jan. 20.—No American street is so apparently shock-proof as Broadway. It has the languid manner of having seen and heard everything. It is not unusual for an open stage door to reveal half naked maidens one-two-three-ing to a director's baton with no curious passers-by stopping to peep.

An amusing drawing—I think it was in Life—illustrates the Broadway mind. A man was telling a friend that a Lady Godiva was to ride a horse down the big stem at a certain hour next day. "I'll be there' said the friend. "I haven't seen a horse in a long time."

While the rest of the world was declaiming shrinkage of skirts it is not exaggeration to say Broadway girls were halting in mid-stream brazenly to rouge their bare knees. Fifth avenue makes the fashions and Broadway embroiders the idea.

Several years ago the avenue introduced sheer flesh colored stockings for women and a few weeks later Broadway was showing net stockings with a mesh as big as a dime and it was not many months later they were wearing no stockings at all.

Last summer I was eye-witness to a close-up of Broadway immodesty. In a taxicab next to mine sat a blonde smoking a cigarette. A light shawl was around her shoulders and she wore brief rhinestone trunks and brassiere, but no other clothes.

She was one of those leaping Lena shiver dancers doubling in a theatre and cabaret and being late to the cabaret on a sultry evening, flung a shawl around her shoulders and hopped into a taxi. She wouldn't think of doing such a thing save on Broadway.

Moralists decry such didoes as a shameless show of decadence. They are nothing of the kind. Broadway is merely to busy with its own selfish affairs to be interested in the immodesty of others. It can at least be said of it that it has learned to mind its own business. That, messieurs et madames, is something, even on Broadway.

Manhattan has few alleys. I know of only two. Yet mystery tales of the metropolis continue to tell of pistoled bodies, murderous dens and other symbols of crime in dark alleys. No one incidentally so far as I know has written the romance of American alleys. London mews have been glorified glamorously by eminent authors yet apparently the only person to live in our alleys was a Tin Pan Alley creation named Sally.

All of which is remindful of the change that has come to Tin Pan Alley—which is not an alley but a piano thumping district given over to popular song making. Ten years ago a hundred or more lived sumptuously from fruits of their songs. One hit a year meant a limousine life. A song writer who wrote three hits in succession went into bankruptcy. Those today making "smart money" can be counted on the fingers of one hand. Phonograph records, the radio and lax copyright protection are contributing causes.

In the waiting rooms of radio stations are usually a group of dreamers of transcendental dreams. They cherish an almost futile hope of being broadcast to fame. Once in awhile some announced artist is unable to appear and they are given a chance but opportunity is seldom. Yet they come day after day with their ukes, violins and instruments of brass. Others want to sing, play the piano or deliver monologues. Recognition has, of course, come to a slim few in this fashion but the great majority are doomed to disappointment.

With few exceptions, too, the radio announcer is paid chiefly in personal glory. Some are able to ballyhoo for enterprises in which they are interested and perhaps enhance receipts, but mostly it is a non-paying profession.

HASKIN'S LETTER
By FREDERIC J. HASKIN

Maps for Aviators.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Jan. 20.—With the growth of aviation has come an increased demand for maps to guide aviators on long flights. The Department of Commerce has been charged with furthering the interests of civil aviation, and since the preparation of route maps will undoubtedly be one of the most important methods of doing this, the Coast and Geodetic Survey is preparing "to take the air," as it were.

Col. E. Lester Jones, director of the Coast and Geodetic Survey, points out that less than half the area of the United States is covered by the kind of maps needed by aviators. And pilots of airplanes must have maps. A pilot who is frequently out of sight of land must be guided over the land, even as the navigator of a ship is guided over the sea by charts and aids to navigation.

Col. Jones goes on to say that the aviator who can not see the ground must depend upon a barometer, but this is set to give elevations above the sea instead of the actual land surface. He may, therefore, believe himself to be several thousands of feet above the earth when as a matter of fact he is in imminent danger of striking a mountain slope or peak. Therefore maps of aerial routes must in some manner indicate the elevation of the ground. Also topographic features such as railroads, highways, rivers, cities, woods, and open country should be shown in their correct shapes and positions.

Such information as the above may be obtained from topographic maps. The trouble is, however, that at the present time only about 40 per cent of the area of the country is covered by such maps. Also much of this should be resurveyed in order to bring the maps up to date, since they were surveyed 40 or more years ago.

Supplementing Topographic Maps.

Col. Jones continues, "The Coast and Geodetic Survey for years has been extending accurate triangulation and leveling over the interior of the country for surveying, mapping, and other engineering uses. With this triangulation the highway system and the railroad system of the country can be correlated and placed in at least approximately their right positions on maps. The elevations furnished by the survey can be used for furnishing mean sea-level datum for surveying, mapping, and engineering operations. The topographic map can not be accurately made if the fundamental control work of the Coast and Geodetic Survey in the form of leveling and triangulation has not been completed for the area that it is to be mapped."

Few large areas of the United States have continuous topographic maps and something should be done about this for the industrial and commercial uses of the people as well as that route maps for airplanes may be accurately and expeditiously constructed. Col. Jones says that with only a slight increase of the engineering personnel the fundamental control systems of the country could be completed within ten years. After the work is once finished it will never have to be done again. The accuracy of the system of geodetic surveying used by the survey is so great that the needs of all time will be met and it will only occasionally be necessary to replace a triangulation station or leveling bench mark when old ones have been destroyed in some manner.

An accuracy almost uncanny is shown in the recently completed survey of a line of levels across South Dakota. The line extends from Sioux Falls westward to Edgemont, South Dakota, and forms a loop with another line about 75 miles south, running from Edgemont back to Sioux Falls. The circuit is 1,035 miles long and the closing error of the circuit, or the difference between the elevation of the bench mark from which work was started and the elevation of the same bench mark computed through the leveling, was only about one one-thousandth of an inch per mile. The Coast and Geodetic Survey's average closing errors of circuits of this kind is about six one-thousandth of an inch per mile.

While co-operating in the making of aerial maps for aviators is one of the newest things being done by the Coast and Geodetic Survey, it is not the only one of interest or importance. For instance, mariners are furnished with tide tables two years in advance and the Coast Pilot, which might be compared to an automobile trail guide such as is furnished to motorists, is published and distributed at the cost of printing and binding. In addition to this, Notices to Mariners, a joint publication of the Coast and Geodetic Survey and the Bureau of Lighthouses, is issued weekly so that mariners may be furnished with the very latest available data.

The Coast and Geodetic Survey dates back to 1807, when during the administration of Thomas Jefferson Congress authorized the establishment of a national Coast Survey. This bureau was to be under the jurisdiction of the Treasury Department, and the plan adopted for its organization was that submitted by Ferdinand R. Hassler. It was, however, impossible to take any actual steps toward putting this plan into action until 1811, when Hassler was directed to go to Europe to arrange for the construction of the necessary instruments and standards. The war of 1812 further interfered and Supplementing Topographic Maps.

Col. Jones continues, "The Coast and Geodetic Survey for years has been extending accurate triangulation and leveling over the interior of the country for surveying, mapping, and other engineering uses. With this triangulation the highway system and the railroad system of the country can be correlated and placed in at least approximately their right positions on maps. The elevations furnished by the survey can be used for furnishing mean sea-level datum for surveying, mapping, and engineering operations. The topographic map can not be accurately made if the fundamental control work of the Coast and Geodetic Survey in the form of leveling and triangulation has not been completed for the area that it is to be mapped."

Few large areas of the United States have continuous topographic maps and something should be done about this for the industrial and commercial uses of the people as well as that route maps for airplanes may be accurately and expeditiously constructed. Col. Jones says that with only a slight increase of the engineering personnel the fundamental control systems of the country could be completed within ten years. After the work is once finished it will never have to be done again. The accuracy of the system of geodetic surveying used by the survey is so great that the needs of all time will be met and it will only occasionally be necessary to replace a triangulation station or leveling bench mark when old ones have been destroyed in some manner.

An accuracy almost uncanny is shown in the recently completed survey of a line of levels across South Dakota. The line extends from Sioux Falls westward to Edgemont, South Dakota, and forms a loop with another line about 75 miles south, running from Edgemont back to Sioux Falls. The circuit is 1,035 miles long and the closing error of the circuit, or the difference between the elevation of the bench mark from which work was started and the elevation of the same bench mark computed through the leveling, was only about one one-thousandth of an inch per mile. The Coast and Geodetic Survey's average closing errors of circuits of this kind is about six one-thousandth of an inch per mile.

While co-operating in the making of aerial maps for aviators is one of the newest things being done by the Coast and Geodetic Survey, it is not the only one of interest or importance. For instance, mariners are furnished with tide tables two years in advance and the Coast Pilot, which might be compared to an automobile trail guide such as is furnished to motorists, is published and distributed at the cost of printing and binding. In addition to this, Notices to Mariners, a joint publication of the Coast and Geodetic Survey and the Bureau of Lighthouses, is issued weekly so that mariners may be furnished with the very latest available data.

The Coast and Geodetic Survey dates back to 1807, when during the administration of Thomas Jefferson Congress authorized the establishment of a national Coast Survey. This bureau was to be under the jurisdiction of the Treasury Department, and the plan adopted for its organization was that submitted by Ferdinand R. Hassler. It was, however, impossible to take any actual steps toward putting this plan into action until 1811, when Hassler was directed to go to Europe to arrange for the construction of the necessary instruments and standards. The war of 1812 further interfered and

YOUNG PEOPLE OF TODAY O. K., SAYS AUTO KING

Henry Ford Points Out They Have Been Given Freedom.

STAND ON FEET

Denies Charge That Motor Car Turns Youth Lose.

Editor's Note:—Playing the role of "mine host" at historic Wayside Inn, South Sudbury, Mass., Henry Ford, the world's richest man, gave to an International News Service special correspondent the first exclusive authorized interview ever granted to a noted woman writer on the subject of women.

Previously the Detroit automobile magnate described the passing of the old-fashioned mother, told how drudgery must be taken out of housekeeping and how the Ford laboratory is working on food products to be chemically compounded to eliminate production through domesticated animals, and household preparation of food.

By Theodate Geoffrey, world traveled journalist, mother of three children, author of "Powdered Ashes," "An Immigrant in Japan," etc., etc.

(Copyright, 1927, by International News Service.) All rights reserved—reproduction in whole or in part, strictly prohibited.

SOUTH SUDBURY, Mass., Jan. 20.—"I believe the young people of today are better than they ever have been because they have been given freedom and have learned to stand on their own feet."

Henry Ford made this statement with a strong emphasis, although his ordinary conversational tone is so low and quiet it is difficult to follow him.

His Opinion of Jazz.

It was his way of answering the oft-made charge that the automobile in turning young folks loose, away from parental control, had contributed to license and immorality. Henry Ford does not think so.

"Better than ever before," he insisted. "You know, if you cage up a lion for a long while, and then suddenly release him, it is pretty hard to answer for what he will do. He will probably be pretty wild because he is not accustomed to liberty. But if you were to let him run loose, and settle into the feeling of freedom he would get into certain ways of acting and you could have confidence in what to expect of his habits."

"Jazz?" he repeated the word, in answer to a question.

"Jazz is music with the tune taken out."

"I like some tune in the music to which I dance, but when they commercialized dancing and jazz they took all the tune out of it."

I had watched, a little earlier, Mr. and Mrs. Ford in the old ball room of the old "Red Horse Tavern," immortalized by the poet, Henry Wadsworth Longfellow. They were taking a lesson in the intricate maneuvers of the lancers, to the strains of an orchestra of four players, all workmen in the Ford factories, which they had brought with them from Detroit.

I asked if he looked for the revival of old-fashioned dancing to make people take more of their recreation in their own home.

"No," said Mr. Ford, frankly, "you can't expect the young people to do much with music or dancing in the homes. Records for the Victrola have helped and the radio; but recreation is really more of a community affair. Get a crowd together and they have more fun."

Attend School House Opening.

Mr. and Mrs. Ford had come from Michigan to Sudbury this week especially to be present at the opening of the very little red school house to which Mary and her little lamb went. Fourteen children from the families in the neighborhood are studying there.

"We have sixteen hundred children in our school at Dearborn," went on Mr. Ford, "and they all get instruction in practical arts and manual training.

Opposes Psychological.

"No, I do not advocate psychological tests to pick out what job a child shall be trained for. Let them study and try things and they will soon sort themselves out to the jobs they like and can do well. We get the timber for executives in our personnel by that natural process. A man soon shows what work he likes, is promoted, makes good.

"We give the children plenty of chance to see the way things were done in the old times, and to show them the fundamental processes. They can think out improvements. You have to let people think things out for themselves.

"We have the old mill on this prosperity, now restored and running, so that the production of bread, for instance, from the growing of the grain on the farm through the grinding and milling, and so forth.

"As a matter of fact, we have five village industry plants here as Sudbury already. One for instance, has to do with the weaving cloth. The children, as they graduate from the school, will have the opportunity of going into whatever industry interests them, and they can choose because they will have had practical experience of the various sorts, to judge by."

YOUNG PEOPLE OF TODAY O. K., SAYS AUTO KING

Henry Ford Points Out They Have Been Given Freedom.

STAND ON FEET

Denies Charge That Motor Car Turns Youth Lose.

Editor's Note:—Playing the role of "mine host" at historic Wayside Inn, South Sudbury, Mass., Henry Ford, the world's richest man, gave to an International News Service special correspondent the first exclusive authorized interview ever granted to a noted woman writer on the subject of women.

Previously the Detroit automobile magnate described the passing of the old-fashioned mother, told how drudgery must be taken out of housekeeping and how the Ford laboratory is working on food products to be chemically compounded to eliminate production through domesticated animals, and household preparation of food.

By Theodate Geoffrey, world traveled journalist, mother of three children, author of "Powdered Ashes," "An Immigrant in Japan," etc., etc.

SOUTH SUDBURY, Mass., Jan. 20.—"I believe the young people of today are better than they ever have been because they have been given freedom and have learned to stand on their own feet."

Henry Ford made this statement with a strong emphasis, although his ordinary conversational tone is so low and quiet it is difficult to follow him.

His Opinion of Jazz.

It was his way of answering the oft-made charge that the automobile in turning young folks loose, away from parental control, had contributed to license and immorality. Henry Ford does not think so.

"Better than ever before," he insisted. "You know, if you cage up a lion for a long while, and then suddenly release him, it is pretty hard to answer for what he will do. He will probably be pretty wild because he is not accustomed to liberty. But if you were to l him run loose, and settle into the feeling of freedom he would ge into certain ways of acting and you could have confidence in what to expect of his habits."

"Jazz?" he repeated the word, in answer to a question.

"Jazz is music with the tune taken out."

"I like some tune in the music to which I dance, but when they commercialized dancing and jazz they took all the tune out of it."

I had watched, a little earlier, Mr. and Mrs. Ford in the old ball room of the old "Red Horse Tavern," immortalized by the poet, Henry Wadsworth Longfellow. They were taking a lesson in the intricate maneuvers of the lancers, to the strains of an orchestra of four players, all workmen in the Ford factories, which they had brought with them from Detroit.

I asked if he looked for the revival of old-fashioned dancing to make people take more of their recreation in their own home.

"No," said Mr. Ford, frankly, "you can't expect the young people to do much with music or dancing in the homes. Records for the Victrola have helped and the radio; but recreation is really more of a community affair. Get a crowd together and they have more fun."

Attend School House Opening.

Mr. and Mrs. Ford had come from Michigan to Sudbury this week especially to be present at the opening of the very little red school house to which Mary and her little lamb went. Fourteen children from the families in the neighborhood are studying there.

"We have sixteen hundred children in our school at Dearborn," went on Mr. Ford, "and they all get instruction in practical arts and manual training.

Opposes Psychological.

"No, I do not advocate psychological tests to pick out what job a child shall be trained for. Let them study and try things and they will soon sort themselves out to the jobs they like and can do well. We get the timber for executives in our personnel by that natural process. A man soon shows what work he likes, is promoted, makes good.

"We give the children plenty of chance to see the way things were done in the old times, and to show them the fundamental processes. They can think out improvements. You have to let people think things out for themselves.

"We have the old mill on this prosperity, now restored and running, so that the production of bread, for instance, from the growing of the grain on the farm through the grinding and milling, and so forth.

"As a matter of fact, we have five village industry plants here as Sudbury already. One for instance, has to do with the weaving cloth. The children, as they graduate from the school, will have the opportunity of going into whatever industry interests them, and they can choose because they will have had practical experience of the various sorts, to judge by."

WELLSVILLE CITY HAS ENOUGH FUNDS TO MEET NEEDS

ELMER WALKER TELLS AUDITOR OUTLOOK'S O. K.

Eckfeld and Two Councilmen Make Trip to Lisbon.

LEVY UNCHANGED

Council Can File Amended Appropriation Later in Year.

The city of Wellsville will be able to operate through the year in good financial condition, according to an announcement by County Auditor Elmer Walker today following a conference yesterday at Lisbon with City Auditor Fred Eckfeld and Councilmen Connor and Peters.

Auditor Eckfeld and the solons had been authorized by council at a meeting on the night previous to confer with the county authorities in an effort to obtain a half mill levy increase to bring in more municipal revenue for the year, it being felt that receipts for the year would be insufficient to permit the municipality to operate conveniently.

The same levy that was in existence for operating expenses last year was made for the current tax duplicate, according to County Auditor Walker.

"This levy for operating expenses," asserts Walker, "stands at 2.26 mills has heretofore."

A comfortable balance was shown in all funds, according to the auditor, who pointed out that "with money being received from other sources during the year, it is quite likely that Wellsville will come through the year in good condition. The council can file an amended appropriation later in the year and then can be included those funds as received from other sources which will include fines and other possible receipts."

The following notice is being sent by the auditor to all those in charge of financial affairs of taxing districts:

"I hereby certify that the appropriations filed in this office by your taxing district for the year 1927 do not exceed the amount of the official estimates of revenues and balances of said taxing district, as made by the budget commission of Columbiana county, Ohio, for the year 1927."

No funds can be spent by any taxing district until after a copy of the notice has been received by the fiscal agent of that district.

WOMAN SAVES MINE EMPLOYE

Stops Engine as Blacksmith is Caught in Belt.

The presence of mind of Mrs. Maggie McNicol, of Salineville, probably saved the life of Frank Starkey, a blacksmith, employed at the Columbia Coal mine, two miles east of Salineville, when the latter was caught in a moving belt recently.

Mrs. McNicol, who chanced to be visiting at the plant, went into the engine room just as the accident happened and realizing the situation, shut off the engine.

Starkey was severely bruised and cut but, a preliminary examination revealed, sustained no broken bones.

ICY STREETS CAUSE MOTOR CRASHES HERE

Two Trucks, Two Pleasure Cars Towed in for Repairs.

NONE INJURED

Two Skid Over Hillside on Kountz Avenue Road.

Trucks owned by James Pugia and Feldman's Grocery store, and pleasure cars operated by O. F. Candoo and Earl Lockheart figured in motor accidents in Wellsville during the last two days as a result of slippery condition of streets.

Pugia's truck, engaged in hauling coal, slid off the roadway above Kountz avenue. A large tree in the path of the truck prevented it from descending the embankment. The front end of the machine was damaged.

Repairs to the Feldman company truck also were necessary after the machine skidded up over a sidewalk at Eighteenth street and rammed a telephone pole.

Car driven by O. F. Candoo slid on the ice east of the county bridge and crashed into the heavy curbing next to the embankment. The wheels were damaged.

Occupants of Lockheart's car were shaken up when the machine slipped over the Kountz avenue hill road. The car's momentum was checked in time to prevent it from turning over.

The four machines were towed into the Gilbert McGeehan garage, in Wells avenue.

IN MEMORIAM.

There is no death! The stars go down
To rise upon some fairer shore;
And bright in Heaven's jewelled crown
They shine forevermore.

REPORTS FROM STOCK MARKETS

NEW YORK, Jan. 20.—Stocks of the prominent and financially strong American oil companies retained their position of leadership in the early trading in the stock market today. Aggressive pool work in Sinclair, Mid Continent, Phillips, Marland and other well known oils resulted in a heavy turnover in the oil shares at a fractionally higher range of prices.

Selling of industrial stocks today was based somewhat on possibility of a contraction in the volumn of construction business, one of the corner stones of the post-war business boom.

Offerings of the motor stocks were much smaller in volume than in the two previous sessions of the market and prices were generally steady. Rails were quiet, with a slight buying movement in the St. Pauls and other low prices speculative issues. Profit-taking appeared in the oils in the second hour and early gains were wiped out.

FORM BOYS' CLUB AT YELLOW CREEK

At a meeting of the Yellow Creek Township Farm Bureau held at the township house this week, a movement was launched for the formation of a 4-H club for boys in that township. A committee composed of Willet Boyd and Paul Serafy was appointed to locate boys who are interested in this class of boys' club work and make plans for an early meeting of this group. Boys between the ages of 10 and 18 years are eligible to membership in the 4-H club, work in which is included pig, calf, poultry and potato activities.

Girls are to be enrolled in the Food and Clothing clubs, and this club work in Yellow Creek township last year was in charge of Miss Margaret Smith, who was designated the club leader. In this county last year 430 boys and girls were enrolled in club work, according to records just announced by County Agent Floyd Lower.

Mother! Now You Know How To Help Your Puny, Weak Child

It's You Duty to Aid Him To Grow Strong, Active and Sound in Body and Mind.

That little boy or girl of yours—that doesn't weigh enough—that isn't strong—has no appetite—lacks vigor and is perhaps backward, listless and timid.

What are you going to do with him?

Have you ever heard of McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Compound Tablets sugar coated and as easy for ailing children to take as candy?

Every druggist in America sells them—60 tablets, 60 cents—and the supremely good combination of upbuilding agents surely does help the sickly, run down, puny, frail little ones.

No need to give him any more nasty Cod Liver Oil—McCoy's Tablets, rich in vitamines, are made to take the place of that good but evil smelling, stomach upsetting medicine, and they surely do.

Try them as directed for 30 days, mother; and if at the end of that time you are not delighted with the improvement in your dear little one, get your money back.

You can get them at any druggist and remember, too, they are fine for thin, run down, underweight men and women who need more flesh, strength, vigor and vitality. Demand McCoy's—the original and genuine.

WELLSVILLE CITY HAS ENOUGH FUNDS TO MEET NEEDS

ELMER WALKER TELLS AUDITOR OUTLOOK'S O. K.

Eckfeld and Two Councilmen Make Trip to Lisbon.

LEVY UNCHANGED

Council Can File Amended Appropriation Later in Year.

The city of Wellsville will be able to operate through the year in good financial condition, according to an announcement by County Auditor Elmer Walker today following a conference yesterday at Lisbon with City Auditor Fred Eckfeld and Councilmen Connor and Peters.

Auditor Eckfeld and the solons had been authorized by council at a meeting on the night previous to confer with the county authorities in an effort to obtain a half mill levy increase to bring in more municipal revenue for the year, it being felt that receipts for the year would be insufficient to permit the municipality to operate conveniently.

The same levy that was in existence for operating expenses last year was made for the current tax duplicate, according to County Auditor Walker.

"This levy for operating expenses," asserts Walker, "stands at 2.26 mills has heretofore."

A comfortable balance was shown in all funds, according to the auditor, who pointed out that "with money being received from other sources during the year, it is quite likely that Wellsville will come through the year in good condition. The council can file an amended appropriation later in the year and then can be included those funds as received from other sources which will include fines and other possible receipts."

The following notice is being sent by the auditor to all those in charge of financial affairs of taxing districts:

"I hereby certify that the appropriations filed in this office by your taxing district for the year 1927 do not exceed the amount of the official estimates of revenues and balances of said taxing district, as made by the budget commission of Columbiana county, Ohio, for the year 1927."

No funds can be spent by any taxing district until after a copy of the notice has been received by the fiscal agent of that district.

WOMAN SAVES MINE EMPLOYE

Stops Engine as Blacksmith is Caught in Belt.

The presence of mind of Mrs. Maggie McNicol, of Salineville, probably saved the life of Frank Starkey, a blacksmith, employed at the Columbia Coal mine, two miles east of Salineville, when the latter was caught in a moving belt recently.

Mrs. McNicol, who chanced to be visiting at the plant, went into the engine room just as the accident happened and realizing the situation, shut off the engine.

Starkey was severely bruised and cut but, a preliminary examination revealed, sustained no broken bones.

ICY STREETS CAUSE MOTOR CRASHES HERE

Two Trucks, Two Pleasure Cars Towed in for Repairs.

NONE INJURED

Two Skid Over Hillside on Kountz Avenue Road.

Trucks owned by James Pugia and Feldman's Grocery store, and pleasure cars operated by O. F. Candoo and Earl Lockheart figured in motor accidents in Wellsville during the last two days as a result of slippery condition of streets.

Pugia's truck, engaged in hauling coal, slid off the roadway above Kountz avenue. A large tree in the path of the truck prevented it from descending the embankment. The front end of the machine was damaged.

Repairs to the Feldman company truck also were necessary after the machine skidded up over a sidewalk at Eighteenth street and rammed a telephone pole.

Car driven by O. F. Candoo slid on the ice east of the county bridge and crashed into the heavy curbing next to the embankment. The wheels were damaged.

Occupants of Lockheart's car were shaken up when the machine slipped over the Kountz avenue hill road. The car's momentum was checked in time to prevent it from turning over.

The four machines were towed into the Gilbert McGeehan garage, in Wells avenue.

IN MEMORIAM.

REPORTS FROM STOCK MARKETS

NEW YORK, Jan. 20.—Stocks of the prominent and financially strong American oil companies retained their position of leadership in the early trading in the stock market today. Aggressive pool work in Sinclair, Mid Continent, Phillips, Marland and other well known oils resulted in a heavy turnover in the oil shares at a fractionally higher range of prices.

Selling of industrial stocks today was based somewhat on possibility of a contraction in the volumn of construction business, one of the corner stones of the post-war business boom.

Offerings of the motor stocks were much smaller in volume than in the two previous sessions of the market and prices were generally steady. Rails were quiet, with a slight buying movement in the St. Pauls and other low prices speculative issues. Profit-taking appeared in the oils in the second hour and early gains were wiped out.

FORM BOYS' CLUB AT YELLOW CREEK

At a meeting of the Yellow Creek Township Farm Bureau held at the township house this week, a movement was launched for the formation of a 4-H club for boys in that township. A committee composed of Willet Boyd and Paul Serafy was appointed to locate boys who are interested in this class of boys' club work and make plans for an early meeting of this group. Boys between the ages of 10 and 18 years are eligible to membership in the 4-H club, work in which is included pig, calf, poultry and potato activities.

Girls are to be enrolled in the Food and Clothing clubs, and this club work in Yellow Creek township last year was in charge of Miss Margaret Smith, who was designated the club leader. In this county last year 430 boys and girls were enrolled in club work, according to records just announced by County Agent Floyd Lower.

That little boy or girl of yours—that doesn't weigh enough—that isn't strong—has no appetite—lacks vigor and is perhaps backward, listless and timid.

What are you going to do with him?

Have you ever heard of McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Compound Tablets sugar coated and as easy for ailing children to take as candy?

Every druggist in America sells them—60 tablets, 60 cents—and the supremely good combination of upbuilding agents surely does help the sickly, run down, puny, frail little ones.

No need to give him any more nasty Cod Liver Oil—McCoy's Tablets, rich in vitamines, are made to take the place of that good but evil smelling, stomach upsetting medicine ,and they surely do.

Try them as directed for 30 days, mother; and if at the end of that time you are not delighted with the improvement in your dear little one, get your money back.

You can get them at any druggist and remember, too, they are fine for thin, run down, underweight men and women who need more flesh, strength, vigor and vitality. Demand McCoy's—the original and genuine.

STRONG SERMON BY EVANGELIST

Rev. C. E. Rostofer Speaks on "Greatest Sin in Chester."

Rev. C. E. Rostofer, of Ashtabula, spoke last night at the revival services in the First Christian church when "Women's Night" was observed. His subject was "The Greatest Sin in Chester." Large crowd attended.

He spoke in part as follows: "The essential thing in any life or calling is to be aroused to a deep sense of need. Many in Chester as elsewhere have lost their sense of need of a saviour and this has led to indifference, carelessness and a dissipated life. It was the mission of John the Baptist to arouse in those cold, selfrighteous, stiff necked Pharisees a sense of need of a saviour; a conviction of sin and this is a conviction that a saviour is needed.

"It is the mission of the gospel today to awaken within us the conviction of our need of the Christ. This is Chester's greatest need. How can a man escape if he neglect so great a salvation. The gospel has sounded out from the pulpits of Chester for years and many have heard it but carelessly replied, we have no need of a saviour, my soul is safe as far as I know. This is the unpardonable sin, for the soul has become hardened, deadened and cannot respond."

Tonight has been designated as "Men's Night." Robert Thomas will sing a solo. Rev. Rostofer will have as his subject: "A Sermon to the Pastors of Chester." Women of the congregation will also attend the services.

Dr. F. M. Edwards discovered the formula after 20 years of practice among patients afflicted with bowel and liver complaint, with the attendant bad breath.

STRONG SERMON BY EVANGELIST

Rev. C. E. Rostofer Speaks on "Greatest Sin in Chester."

Rev. C. E. Rostofer, of Ashtabula, spoke last night at the revival services in the First Christian church when "Women's Night" was observed. His subject was "The Greatest Sin in Chester." Large crowd attended.

He spoke in part as follows: "The essential thing in any life or calling is to be aroused to a deep sense of need. Many in Chester as elsewhere have lost their sense of need of a saviour and this has led to indifference, carelessness and a dissipated life. It was the mission of John the Baptist to arouse in those cold, selfrighteous, stiff necked Pharisees a sense of need of a saviour; a conviction of sin and this is a conviction that a saviour is needed.

"It is the mission of the gospel today to awaken within us the conviction of our need of the Christ. This is Chester's greatest need. How can a man escape if he neglect so great a salvation. The gospel has sounded out from the pulpits of Chester for years and many have heard it but carelessly replied, we have no need of a saviour, my soul is safe as far as I know. This is the unpardonable sin, for the soul has become hardened, deadened and cannot respond."

Tonight has been designated as "Men's Night." Robert Thomas will sing a solo. Rev. Rostofer will have as his subject: "A Sermon to the Pastors of Chester." Women of the congregation will also attend the services.

REGULATION OF OHIO BARBERS IS ASKED IN BILL

PLAN LICENSE BOARD; EXAMS ARE PROPOSED

Present Tonsorial Shop Workers Would Register.

NEW TAX SYSTEM

Proposal to Restrict Auto Levies to Tags and "Gas."

LEAD ALL—PLAN LICENSE— n

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 20.—The house this afternoon was expected to take action on the resolution by Representative J. E. Finefrock, Stark county, proposing a correction and recodification of Ohio's school laws.

It is proposed that this work be done under direction of a special joint committee comprising two senators, two house members, the secretary of the Ohio Teachers' association, a president, or dean, of one of the State Normal school, and the inspectors of normal training.

The house late today is scheduled to recess until Monday night.

The senate did not meet today, having recessed over the week-end late Wednesday.

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 20—Regulation of Ohio barbers is sought in a bill, introduced by Representative H. S. Marshall, Cincinnati, pending in the house of representatives here today.

The bill provides for creation of a state commission to license barbers and to regulate this industry. Examinations would be provided for persons wishing to work as barbers. All present barbers would have to register after July 1, next, those not meeting requirements specified in the measure being compelled to take an examination.

A bill, providing for uniform method in levying taxes in local political subdivision and for preparation of budgets on the "pay-as-you-go" basis, was introduced by Representative C. H. Jones, Jackson. The bill is endorsed by the joint legislative committee on taxation and economy. It is a companion measure to the Krueger bill, now pending in the house, providing a uniform system for the issuance of bonds by these various local political subdivisions.

The Jones bill does away with the 10-mill interior limitation of the Smith one-percent tax act, provides an exterior limitation of 15 mills for combined tax levies, excepting those placed outside the limitation by a vote of the people, and restricts budgets to funds available.

A bill, by Representative O. S. Creighton, Marietta, increases from $25 to $50 the minimum fine which may be imposed upon a drunken auto driver. It also provides that such a driver may be deprived of driving rights for six months, in cases of first offense, and be imprisoned in the penitentiary from one to five years, if convicted a second time.

Itinerant jewelers in Ohio may disappear, if a bill, introduced by Representative Harry Davidson, Akron, becomes a law. The Davidson bill requires that jewelry sold at auction must be owned by the vendor six months prior to its sale, that the jeweler must be located in his place of business a year, or more, and limits him to one such sale annually. The sale must not last longer than 30 days. A penalty ranging from $100 to $500 is provided for violators of the proposed law.

Other measures pending in the legislature today include:

In the senate:

By Senator George H. Bender, Cuyahoga county, a resolution providing for submission at the November election of a proposed amendment to the Ohio constitution exempting automobiles from all taxes except license tag and gasoline taxes.

By Senator D. H. Dearmond, Butler county, authorizing abandonment for canal and hydraulic purposes that portion of the Miami and Erie canal between Middlestown and St. Bernard, Cincinnati. It is proposed to use the canal for a super-highway.

In the house:

By Representative Grant P. Ward, Franklin county, defining as public utilities companies and corporations, engaging, directly or indirectly, in supplying, for lighting, heating or power purposes, electricity, natural gas or oil, and transporting water, steam or air through pipes, or tubing, to customers, directly or indirectly, for heating or cooling purposes. The bill is designed to authorize the state utilities commission to regulate and fix rates for such concerns, including super-power electric transmission and pipe line companies.

By Representative J. E. Finefrock, Stark county, a resolution providing for recodification of Ohio's school laws. It is similar to the Comings resolution now pending in the senate.

IN MEMORIAM.

In memory of Mrs. Eliza Townley, who died one year ago today, January 20th, 1926.

Whose love can equal the love of a Mother;
Whose the devotion so loyal and true!
Who suffers so much with such a joy for another,
Who works with such pleasure as Mother for you!
You hail with delight the friendship of others,
You revel in love of the sweetheart you've won;
Yet where do you find a friendship like Mother's,
Unbroken till death calls and lifes work is done.

Lovingly remembered by Sons, Daughters and Grandchildren.

CHILE AND PERU DENY ARMING

WASHINGTON, Jan. 20.—Both the Chilean and Peruvian embassies here today disclaimed any knowledge of the reported arming of Peruvians against Chile following the break up of the Kellogg Tacna-Arica settlement negotiations.

Both embassies also stated there had been no development in the Tacna-Arica situation since the delivery of the Peruvian note to Secretary of State Kellogg on Monday. Nor has the state department made any further move toward bringing them to an agreement. Indications at the state department are that this government has exhausted its powers and will make no further move.

CRACK IN HILL BECOMES WIDER

Pennsylvania Avenue "Mountain" Moving, Says Engineer.

The 300-foot crack in the earth above Pennsylvania avenue near the Walter Bulger residence, which has been menacing street car and automobile traffic, was wider today, due it is believed, to thawing temperatures and a steady rainfall.

City Engineer Flay Clapsaddle visited the scene this morning, to make measurements of the earth movement by means of stakes which were driven December 26, the day after the crack made its appearance.

The ground, at the westerly end of the fissure, had moved several inches but so far as the engineer was able to determine there was no change in the crack near the Bulger home.

Representatives of The Steubenville, East Liverpool & Beaver Valley Traction company reported no slides along the avenue today.

Mahoning River at Flood Stage.

CLEVELAND, Jan. 20.—An unseasonal thaw, accompanied by heavy rains, has brought a mid-winter flood threat to many parts of Ohio.

The Mahoning river at Alliance has reached flood stage and water is standing several inches deep on the Lincoln highway east of that city.

Interurban tracks in several parts of Stark county have been inundated and transportation facilities crippled.

The Akron-Cleveland bus lines of the Northern Traction company have been temporarily suspended, due to the impassibility of roads in many places.

The Tuscarawas river has risen to an alarming stage at Dover. Workmen were forced to dynamite an ice gorge to insure a water supply.

Lorain reports several factories facing shutdowns as flood waters backed into their boiler rooms.

Further Rainfall Expected.

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 20.—With the Ohio rivers of the southern watershed approaching or past the flood stage, Weatherman Alexander today predicted flood stage for the Ohio river tributaries, and a flooding of the lowlands bordering on the Ohio river.

Reports from towns on the Ohio river near Cincinnati are not alarming, Alexander said, but with future rainfall expected tonight and Friday he expected the flood stage of 50 feet might be reached at Cincinnati sometime Friday when the flow of tributaries reach this stream.

At Coshocton the Kokosing river has reached the 25-foot stage while the flood stage is 20.5 feet.

The Scioto river at Circleville this morning stood 10.4 feet, compared with a flood stage of 10 feet.

The Olentangy, at Delaware, stood at 8.3 feet, and was rapidly approaching the flood stage of 9 feet.

At Athens the Hocking river gauge showed 14.5 feet and was expected to reach or pass the flood stage of 17 feet tonight or Friday.

At Zanesville the Muskingum river registered 20.5 feet, with a flood stage of 25 feet.

Railroad Worker Drowns.

CIRCLEVILLE, O., Jan. 20.—Search was being made today for the body of William Truex, 21, St. Paul, who was drowned when he fell from the top of a bridge over Big Walnut creek south of Asheville late Wednesday.

Employed by the Chesapeake & Ohio railroad, Truex was using a pike pole, trying to save new trestle work from being carried away by the raging waters. The pole became stuck in a large cake of ice which pulled him off the bridge. His body was carried down stream.

SPEAKER-COBB EXONERATION IS PREDICTED

New York Report Says They Will Get Clean Bill.

TRIS CONFIDENT

Rumored That Johnson Will be Made Pensioner.

NEW YORK, Jan. 20.—Ty Cobb and Tris Speaker are almost certain to be "exonerated and restored to good standing" as a result of the Johnson-Landis show down next week, according to a report in circulation today. The report was that Johnson would be retired as head of the American league and given a pensioner's job as president-emeritus, while Cobb and Speaker, already vindicated by Johnson's latest statement that they were dropped for incompetence and not dishonesty, would be, of necessity, restored to good standing.

CLEVELAND, Jan. 20.—In anticipation of being vindicated by Commissioner K. M. Landis, of all connection with an alleged "thrown" baseball game, Tris Speaker has gone into training to condition himself for reentering the game.

The former pilot of the Indians today began a two-hour grind in a local gymnasium to limber his muscles for the baseball diamond next season.

Speaker refused to discuss his case, except to reiterate his previous statements that he expects complete exoneration when American league officials meet in Chicago next Monday.

Seek Middle Ground.

Somewhere between two poles of interpretation lies the middle ground which most observers here believe will be found, and which will enable both governments to emerge from the situation with dignity and equity. But considerable diplomatic jockeying, and considerable maneuvering, will be necessary before it can be reached, observers here believe.

Meanwhile, the Robinson resolution, urging the state department to arbitrate, reposes in the foreign relations committee. It is believed the resolution will command a majority of the committee any time it is put to vote. Senator Borah, chairman, favors it, as do his supporters, as well as the Democrats. A combination of insurgent Republicans and Democrats could pass it in the senate.

Because of the Smith fight on the floor, the foreign relations committee cancelled its scheduled meeting today and will meet tomorrow.

Peace Move in Nicaragua.

MANAGUA, Nicaragua, Jan. 20.—New efforts towards peace between the Diaz government and the Liberal party led by Dr. Sacasa, now in revolt are reported in progress.

Some Liberals are understood to have suggested to Dr. Sacasa that he appoint delegates to a peace conference to be held in Managua or aboard the United States cruiser Rochester.

President Diaz, it is understood, has made a tentative proposal that peace terms be discussed on the basis of the Conservatives offering the Liberals participation in the government, providing they accept the United States as a guarantor of future elections.

Efforts to have mediation by Salvador have thus far failed, as President Diaz apparently has not found the proposed Salvador mediators acceptable.

The government announces the decisive defeat of Liberal forces at Naranjo, near the Costa Rican border, stating that the Liberals were forced to take refuge in Costa Rica.

MRS. CHAPLIN STEP AHEAD IN DIVORCE FIGHT

Charlie Gets Receivership Lifted, But Must Give Bond.

MONEY TIED UP

Contents of Safes in Star's Studio Disclosed

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 20.—Eighteen-year-old Lita Grey Chaplin was still ahead today in the divorce battle with Charles Chaplin in spite of the fact that Chaplin's attorneys have succeeded in securing a court order lifting the receivership from the famous comedian's Hollywood studio.

Mrs. Chaplin, through her attorneys, succeeded in making the receivership lifting order a move without any significance whatsoever because of the proviso attached to the order by Superior Court Judge Walter Guerin, calling for the deposit of a $1,000,000 bond before the order becomes effective.

Possible removal of the receivership from the studio, however, would not remove the restraining order placed on the comedian's personal properties and assets.

Mrs. Chaplin's attorneys by their determined efforts to block any move that might release the Chaplin millions succeeded in spreading on the court records secrets of Chaplin's finances for all the world to see.

Judge Guerin fixed the bond of Chaplin's Hollywood studie at $1,000,000 after receivers W. I. Gilbert and Herman Spitzel had disclosed the contents of two safes they had opened in the studio offices.

SIX HOT SHOTS ON BIG FIGHT

"I never saw a woman with a cigarette at the Dempsey-Tunney prize fight, and when you smoke them at home, sissy, you do worse than the women you sneered at for going to the fight.

"I never saw a man drunk and never saw but one half pint bottle of moonshine and it was empty and stuck under a water cooler.

"Jack stayed out of the ring too long. That is why the church goes to the devil before the onslaughts of the world filled with backsliding men and women with fatty degeneration of the heart and wheezing like a 10-year-old bull dog.

"Dempsey was asleep and hanging on the ropes in the third round, I believe, when he had socked Tunney with a wallop that would have killed a Jersey bull. Right there he lost his crown. It only takes one mistake to ruin a life and a career.

"The first lesson I learned is the immeasurable power of organized publicity. Good road, radio, airplanes, autos and rail service all helped. Gove the press time and they can make or damn any enterprise on earth.

"I learned the killing power of worry from Dempsey. Litigation, misunderstood. He fought two minutes, rested one. But we all wane in time. From John L. Sullivan to Gene Tunney, they all fall like a star.

Learns Soul Saving.

"We can't save souls by going to prize fights, but I learned helpful hints to soul winning I never dreamed before. The trained, sincere soul winner will bring home the bacon in souls saved.

"I got from this fight a point of contact I felt I was losing with men of the world. I was becoming critical of them and needed to understand them better, so I thank God I went to this memorable battle of the ages in the fistic world and believe by this new contact with men I shall reach many this year far on in sin.

"Next to me sat a man who seemed to know every hair of every fighter's head. When the lights came on again, I looked at my friend and he wore a surplice and was an Episcopal minister.

"Dr. Elliott of Harvard died the other day. He got about six inches in the papers. Rudolph Valertino lay a corpse at the same time with good four pages daily with a page of pictures. The world is not interested in brains and old men. They are keen on young men.

"I noted no evidences of suffering on the part of any of the fighters. If there was any, it was veiled. I have seen football players in my home town knocked out more times and deader to world than the man whom Monte Munn socked on the jaw.

"Is this an over-stimulation after the war? Are the people crazy to invest millions in a single stadium and tens of millions in admissions? To what extent will this go? Will the church come out on the top or on the bottom? Will this government stand under such gate receipts or will this country pass into the hands of Moscow? Is this the period of dissolution coming before the last days as described in the Bible? These are only a few of the questions that swept over me.

"I think this a wave of over-stimulation, a product of the frenzy of war, in a measure; but I also think that organized athletics and sports have come to stay. This will continue four or five years yet and then will come the greatest revival of religion the world has ever seen and it will come on the 19th centenary of the day of Pentecost, toward which I am living now and working.

History Repeats Itself.

"History repeats itself. Such festivals of sport preceded the downfall of Babylon, Greece, Rome, Spain, Portugal and other nations. What then must it spell for us, oh God? Of course theirs was attended with the depths of drunkenness and cruel brutality. But it had something of the same trend.

"I attribute this lavish expense to unprecedented prosperity of this country and to our national disease, which I call conspicuous consumption. In our last meeting in Wisconsin a young wife brought out what she called a $600 fur coat. It really cost about $175 but with that coat she put a sword right into every home in that town. Those women went after their husbands for $600 coats like she tigers with a bunch of kittens. It finally died out. An old Negro mammy blessed out her Negro husband for everything on her mind when he offered to buy a second-hand Ford. But when she was assailed by the neighbor who boasted of having had three major operations, she said to Sam: 'Sam, you black niggah, you go on and get dat secon han Ford. No black hussy like dat will evah boast roun over me. No, suh!'

"After this fight I re-read my Bible on the life of Jesus and Paul and found Jesus going where the people went. They said 'He associates and is the guest of harlots and sinners' yet he only reached out and had a message for such. Paul went down there to that Roman Arena. He was a Roman and did as the Romans do. So he talks about striving in these races and says: 'Let no man take thy crown' and that is my text for a moment.

Seek Incorruptible Crown.

"The liquid dew of youth, the splendor of coronation comes only to the victor. From the victorious Ben Hur in his chariot race to the moment when Referee Riley held up Gene Tunney's right hand, a sign of the victor, this striving has been going on. All the promises and crowns are for the overcomers. The loser sits in sorrow and defeat.

"If these strived for a corruptible crown, how much the more should we for the incorruptible? The corruptible perishes with the using, appetite fails, body sinks into the grave. When a man fails death stands by to give him the final wallop that lands him into eternity.

"The incorruptible crown stretches across two eternities. It never dims by use or competition, the cumulative power is in making men ready for eternity. The struggle ends only in death. When the good Queen of England was awarding medals for bravery she walked up to a poor boy with an arm and leg off and part of his face shot away and asked his name and what was the battle? The attendant responded: 'Inkerman was the battle and Trowbridge was his name.' 'Oh, God when will cruel wars ever cease?' and she stooped and kissed him as a mark of love and appreciation. I want every one here tonight to start again for the incorruptible crown and bear much fruit lest some man take thy crown."

The preacher closed his temperance sermon in a burst of oratory. "If I had my way," he shouted, "every drop of liquor in this country would be poured into the river! REGULATION OF OHIO BARBERS IS ASKED IN BILL

PLAN LICENSE BOARD; EXAMS ARE PROPOSED

Present Tonsorial Shop Workers Would Register.

NEW TAX SYSTEM

Proposal to Restrict Auto Levies to Tags and "Gas."

LEAD ALL—PLAN LICENSE— n

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 20.—The house this afternoon was expected to take action on the resolution by Representative J. E. Finefrock, Stark county, proposing a correction and recodification of Ohio's school laws.

It is proposed that this work be done under direction of a special joint committee comprising two senators, two house members, the secretary of the Ohio Teachers' association, a president, or dean, of one of the State Normal school, and the inspectors of normal training.

The house late today is scheduled to recess until Monday night.

The senate did not meet today, having recessed over the week-end late Wednesday.

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 20—Regulation of Ohio barbers is sought in a bill, introduced by Representative H. S. Marshall, Cincinnati, pending in the house of representatives here today.

The bill provides for creation of a state commission to license barbers and to regulate this industry. Examinations would be provided for persons wishing to work as barbers. All present barbers would have to register after July 1, next, those not meeting requirements specified in the measure being compelled to take an examination.

A bill, providing for uniform method in levying taxes in local political subdivision and for preparation of budgets on the "pay-as-you-go" basis, was introduced by Representative C. H. Jones, Jackson. The bill is endorsed by the joint legislative committee on taxation and economy. It is a companion measure to the Krueger bill now pending in the house, providing a uniform system for the issuance of bonds by these various local political subdivisions.

The Jones bill does away with the 10-mill interior limitation of the Smith one-percent tax act, provides an exterior limitation of 15 mills for combined tax levies, excepting those placed outside the limitation by a vote of the people, and restricts budgets to funds available.

A bill, by Representative O. S. Creighton, Marietta, increases from $25 to $50 the minimum fine which may be imposed upon a drunken auto driver. It also provides that such a driver may be deprived of driving rights for six months, in cases of first offense, and be imprisoned in the penitentiary from one to five years, if convicted a second time.

Itinerant jewelers in Ohio may disappear, if a bill, introduced by Representative Harry Davidson, Akron, becomes a law. The Davidson bill requires that jewelry sold at auction must be owned by the vendor six months prior to its sale, that the jeweler must be located in his place of business a year, or more, and limits him to one such sale annually. The sale must not last longer than 30 days. A penalty ranging from $100 to $500 is provided for violators of the proposed law.

Other measures pending in the legislature today include:

In the senate:

By Senator George H. Bender, Cuyahoga county, a resolution providing for submission at the November election of a proposed amendment to the Ohio constitution exempting automobiles from all taxes except license tag and gasoline taxes.

By Senator D. H. Dearmond, Butler county, authorizing abandonment for canal and hydraulic purposes that portion of the Miami and Erie canal between Middlestown and St. Bernard, Cincinnati. It is proposed to use the canal for a super-highway.

In the house:

By Representative Grant P. Ward, Franklin county, defining as public utilities companies and corporations, engaging, directly or indirectly, in supplying, for lighting, heating or power purposes, electricity, natural gas or oil, and transporting water, steam or air through pipes, or tubing, to customers, directly or indirectly, for heating or cooling purposes. The bill is designed to authorize the state utilities commission to regulate and fix rates for such concerns, including super-power electric transmission and pipe line companies.

By Representative J. E. Finefrock, Stark county, a resolution providing for recodification of Ohio's school laws. It is similar to the Comings resolution now pending in the senate.

IN MEMORIAM.

In memory of Mrs. Eliza Townley, who died one year ago today, January 20th, 1926.

Whose love can equal the love of a Mother;
Whose the devotion so loyal and true!
Who suffers so much with such a joy for another,
Who works with such pleasure as Mother for you!
You hail with delight the friendship of others,
You revel in love of the sweetheart you've won;
Yet where do you find a friendship like Mother's,
Unbroken till death calls and lifes work is done.

Lovingly remembered by Sons, Daughters and Grandchildren.

CHILE AND PERU DENY ARMING

WASHINGTON, Jan. 20.—Both the Chilean and Peruvian embassies here today disclaimed any knowledge of the reported arming of Peruvians against Chile following the break up of the Kellogg Tacna-Arica settlement negotiations.

Both embassies also stated there had been no development in the Tacna-Arica situation since the delivery of the Peruvian note to Secretary of State Kellogg on Monday. Nor has the state department made any further move toward bringing them to an agreement. Indications at the state department are that this government has exhausted its powers and will make no further move.

CRACK IN HILL BECOMES WIDER

Pennsylvania Avenue "Mountain" Moving, Says Engineer.

The 300-foot crack in the earth above Pennsylvania avenue near the Walter Bulger residence, which has been menacing street car and automobile traffic, was wider today, due it is believed, to thawing temperatures and a steady rainfall.

City Engineer Flay Clapsaddle visited the scene this morning, to make measurements of the earth movement by means of stakes which were driven December 26, the day after the crack made its appearance.

The ground, at the westerly end of the fissure, had moved several inches but so far as the engineer was able to determine there was no change in the crack near the Bulger home.

Representatives of The Steubenville, East Liverpool & Beaver Valley Traction company reported no slides along the avenue today.

Mahoning River at Flood Stage.

CLEVELAND, Jan. 20.—An unseasonal thaw, accompanied by heavy rains, has brought a mid-winter flood threat to many parts of Ohio.

The Mahoning river at Alliance has reached flood stage and water is standing several inches deep on the Lincoln highway east of that city.

Interurban tracks in several parts of Stark county have been inundated and transportation facilities crippled.

The Akron-Cleveland bus lines of the Northern Traction company have been temporarily suspended, due to the impassibility of roads in many places.

The Tuscarawas river has risen to an alarming stage at Dover. Workmen were forced to dynamite an ice gorge to insure a water supply.

Further Rainfall Expected.

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 20.—With the Ohio rivers of the southern watershed approaching or past the flood stage, Weatherman Alexander today predicted flood stage for the Ohio river tributaries, and a flooding of the lowlands bordering on the Ohio river.

Reports from towns on the Ohio river near Cincinnati are not alarming, Alexander said, but with future rainfall expected tonight and Friday he expected the flood stage of 50 feet might be reached at Cincinnati sometime Friday when the flow of tributaries reach this stream.

At Coshocton the Kokosing river has reached the 25-foot stage while the flood stage is 20.5 feet.

The Scioto river at Circleville this morning stood 10.4 feet, compared with a flood stage of 10 feet.

The Olentangy, at Delaware, stood at 8.3 feet, and was rapidly approaching the flood stage of 9 feet.

At Athens the Hocking river gauge showed 14.5 feet and was expected to reach or pass the flood stage of 17 feet tonight or Friday.

Rumored That Johnson Will be Made Pensioner.

NEW YORK, Jan. 20.—Ty Cobb and Tris Speaker are almost certain to be "exonerated and restored to good standing" as a result of the Johnson-Landis show down next week, according to a report in circulation today. The report was that Johnson would be retired as head of the American league and given a pensioner's job as president-emeritus, while Cobb and Speaker, already vindicated by Johnson's latest statement that they were dropped for incompetence and not dishonesty, would be, of necessity, restored to good standing.

CLEVELAND, Jan. 20.—In anticipation of being vindicated by Commissioner K. M. Landis, of all connection with an alleged "thrown" baseball game, Tris Speaker has gone into training to condition himself for reentering the game.

The former pilot of the Indians today began a two-hour grind in a local gymnasium to limber his muscles for the baseball diamond next season.

Speaker refused to discuss his case, except to reiterate his previous statements that he expects complete exoneration when American league officials meet in Chicago next Monday.

Seek Middle Ground.

Somewhere between two poles of interpretation lies the middle ground which most observers here believe will be found, and which will enable both governments to emerge from the situation with dignity and equity. But considerable diplomatic jockeying, and considerable maneuvering, will be necessary before it can be reached, observers here believe.

Meanwhile, the Robinson resolution, urging the state department to arbitrate, reposes in the foreign relations committee. It is believed the resolution will command a majority of the committee any time it is put to vote. Senator Borah, chairman, favors it, as do his supporters, as well as the Democrats. A combination of insurgent Republicans and Democrats could pass it in the senate.

Because of the Smith fight on the floor, the foreign relations committee cancelled its scheduled meeting today and will meet tomorrow.

Peace Move in Nicaragua.

MANAGUA, Nicaragua, Jan. 20.—New efforts towards peace between the Diaz government and the Liberal party led by Dr. Sacasa, now in revolt are reported in progress.

Some Liberals are understood to have suggested to Dr. Sacasa that he appoint delegates to a peace conference to be held in Managua or aboard the United States cruiser Rochester.

President Diaz, it is understood, has made a tentative proposal that peace terms be discussed on the basis of the Conservatives offering the Liberals participation in the government, providing they accept the United States as a guarantor of future elections.

Efforts to have mediation by Salvador have thus far failed, as President Diaz apparently has not found the proposed Salvador mediators acceptable.

The government announces the decisive defeat of Liberal forces at Naranjo, near the Costa Rican border, stating that the Liberals were forced to take refuge in Costa Rica.

MRS. CHAPLIN STEP AHEAD IN DIVORCE FIGHT

Charlie Gets Receivership Lifted, But Must Give Bond.

MONEY TIED UP

Contents of Safes in Star's Studio Disclosed

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 20.—Eighteen-year-old Lita Grey Chaplin was still ahead today in the divorce battle with Charles Chaplin in spite of the fact that Chaplin's attorneys have succeeded in securing a court order lifting the receivership from the famous comedian's Hollywood studio.

Mrs. Chaplin, through her attorneys, succeeded in making the receivership lifting order a move without any significance whatsoever because of the proviso attached to the order by Superior Court Judge Walter Guerin, calling for the deposit of a $1,000,000 bond before the order becomes effective.

Possible removal of the receivership from the studio, however, would not remove the restraining order placed on the comedian's personal properties and assets.

Mrs. Chaplin's attorneys by their determined efforts to block any move that might release the Chaplin millions succeeded in spreading on the court records secrets of Chaplin's finances for all the world to see.

Judge Guerin fixed the bond of Chaplin's Hollywood studie at $1,000,000 after receivers W. I. Gilbert and Herman Spitzel had disclosed the contents of two safes they had opened in the studio offices.

SIX HOT SHOTS ON BIG FIGHT

"I never saw a woman with a cigarette at the Dempsey-Tunney prize fight, and when you smoke them at home, sissy, you do worse than the women you sneered at for going to the fight.

"I never saw a man drunk and never saw but one half pint bottle of moonshine and it was empty and stuck under a water cooler.

"Dempsey was asleep and hanging on the ropes in the third round, I believe, when he had socked Tunney with a wallop that would have killed a Jersey bull. Right there he lost his crown. It only takes one mistake to ruin a life and a career.

Maybe you and the good wife are thinking about a new home. If so, we would be glad to talk your plans over with you. No obligation, understand. Just a little visit. Come in and see us.

We've sort o' lost interest in Mars. What if people do live on it? We couldn't sell 'em any lumber.

Don't you kind of envy the fellow who owns his own home? Maybe you have a home-owning idea in mind.

Do any of you masculine readers carry a pocket-piece? We are surprised how many do. We know a man who has carried a potato for many years. It is withered, shrunk and petrified until it has completely lost its identity. The surface is smooth and glossy. We know another man who has carried an 1834 half dollar for years because that was the date his mother was born.

Maybe it doesn't cost as much to own a home as you think it does. Have you investigated?

Ever Hear This One?

The preacher closed his temperance sermon in a burst of oratory. "If I had my way," he shouted, "every drop of liquor in this country would be poured into the river!" The congregation will now sing No. 262." And then he couldn't understand why the audience laughed. The name of the hymn was "Shall We Gather at the River."

Lincoln's birthday, then Washington's, then the income tax!

'WE'RE IN NAVY' IS SCREEN HIT

Beery-Hatton Picture Rocks Ceramic With Laughter.

If the laughter which rocked the Ceramic theatre last night may be taken as evidence, the knockout lauded during the opening sequence of "We're in the Navy Now," spells the audience's final verdict.

The whole gamut of the United States Navy's comical side is traversed in this superb Paramount feature. "We're in the Navy Now" sweeps over the prizefight arena with a rush of laughter and settles down to consistently exhilarating clean comedy in fun-infested scenes aboard an army transport bound for France.

As a pair of "goofy" gobs, the two stars,—Wallace Beery and Raymond Hatton, zig-zag through the Navy's intimate life in riotously funny fashion. The company includes Chester Conklin, as a transport captain; Tom Kennedy in the role of a petty officer; Lorraine Eason, the heroine; and Donald Keith, radio operator.

As a comedy cast—that coterie of artists is might hard to beat.

"We're in the Navy Now" hasn't missed a single laugh situation. It lands with a punch that will delight every ex-service man. It is just as truthfully funny about the Navy as "Behind the Front" was of the trenches and—it's even richer in comedy. Edward Sutherland, whose capable direction brought doughboy life to the screen in "Behind the Front," directed this new picture.

Hines Asks Right To Make Loans on Vets' Certificates

WASHINGTON, Jan. 20—With the approval of President Coolidge, Brig. Gen. Frank T. Hines, director of the veterans bureau will ask congress to pass promptly legislation enabling the veterans' bureau to make loans on adjusted compensation certificates.

Hines discussed the proposal with the president today.

Hines declared that 17,000 loans to soldiers have been made by banks all over the country.

TIRED OUT AFTER HOUSEWORK?

When Your Steps Drag and Your Hands Feel Heavy

SOMETIMES life hardly seems worth living after a busy, tiring day. Aches and dull pains, perhaps a headache, or perhaps just a general feeling of being too weary to take any interest in anything.

But you shouldn't feel that way. Ordinary housework shouldn't wear you out. You need Plant Juice, Nature's own tonic of herbs, roots, barks, leaves and blossoms. Plant Juice works wonders, and is pleasant to take. Read what Mrs. Morris of 108 E. 13th Street, Wilmington, Del., says:

"Three years ago I suffered from indigestion and nervousness, and had a general breakdown. At night I just laid awake waiting for daylight to come. I was so weak I could not do my housework, and was just a wreck. I was discouraged as I spent hundreds of dollars not even getting relief. I began on Plant Juice in a half-hearted way, but the results were remarkable. My stomach feels like a new one, and I can eat three solid meals a day and enjoy every crumb. My nerves are calm and steady; I sleep the whole night through and wake feeling right smart and my housework is a pleasure. I have not had a day of sickness since I first took Plant Juice and that was three years ago. Before taking Plant Juice I weighed 92 pounds, today I weigh 128."

When you notice a big improvement after the first bottle, don't stop taking it. Give Plant Juice a chance to do you some real good. It acts on liver and bowels. Regulates and tones you up in a natural way—no griping.

Your druggist can supply you. Ask for the original Dillingham's Plant Juice. It has helped tired people for over 30 years.

Asks Bill to Make It Felony to Drive Auto While Drunk

COLUMBUS, Jan. 20.—Driving an automobile while under the influence of drink will be made a felony in Ohio if the Ohio Police Chiefs' association and state legislature follow the recommendations to be made here today by H. E. McClure, police chief at Mansfield.

The chiefs' legislative committee will meet with Chief Harry E. French of Columbus, president of the organization and draft new bills to be presented to the legislature.

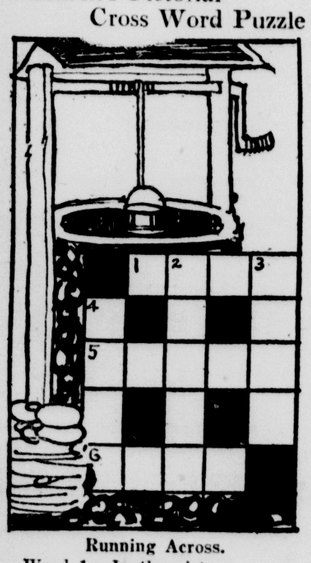

Chief McClure in asking for the passage of this proposed bill points out that heavy court fines and jail sentences have failed to stop the practice of driving while drunk, and will demand a more drastic punishment.

Sciatic - Neuritis

The sciatic nerve, situated at the back of the hip joint is frequently the subject of Neuritis, giving rise to the painful disease Sciatica. The symptoms are intense pains which shoot down the thigh to the foot, often aggravated by walking, and with painful points along the course of the nerve, very tender to the touch.

The trouble is a very obstinate one and does not readily respond to ordinary treatment. It takes more than the usual pain sedative even to alleviate the pain. The best way to get relief from the persistent nerve racking pains of Neuritis is to get a bottle of Allenrhu Special Formula No. 2, which comes in capsule form. Take them as directed and in about 24 hours you should be able to notice that they have considerably reduced, if not almost banished, all pain and soreness. Continue faithfully and in a reasonable time you should be able to work and rest in comfort once again. J. D. Holloway and Mathews Med. store keeps Allenrhu Special Formula No. 2 in stock all the time and sells lots of it.

Asks Bill to Make It Felony to Drive Auto While Drunk

COLUMBUS, Jan. 20.—Driving an automobile while under the influence of drink will be made a felony in Ohio if the Ohio Police Chiefs' association and state legislature follow the recommendations to be made here today by H. E. McClure, police chief at Mansfield.

The chiefs' legislative committee will meet with Chief Harry E. French of Columbus, president of the organization and draft new bills to be presented to the legislature.

Chief McClure in asking for the passage of this proposed bill points out that heavy court fines and jail sentences have failed to stop the practice of driving while drunk, and will demand a more drastic punishment.

Sciatic - Neuritis

The sciatic nerve, situated at the back of the hip joint is frequently the subject of Neuritis, giving rise to the painful disease Sciatica. The symptoms are intense pains which shoot down the thigh to the foot, often aggravated by walking, and with painful points along the course of the nerve, very tender to the touch.

The trouble is a very obstinate one and does not readily respond to ordinary treatment. It takes more than the usual pain sedative even to alleviate the pain. The best way to get relief from the persistent nerve racking pains of Neuritis is to get a bottle of Allenrhu Special Formula No. 2, which comes in capsule form. Take them as directed and in about 24 hours you should be able to notice that they have considerably reduced, if not almost banished, all pain and soreness. Continue faithfully and in a reasonable time you should be able to work and rest in comfort once again. J. D. Holloway and Mathews Med. store keeps Allenrhu Special Formula No. 2 in stock all the time and sells lots of it.

FREE DELIVERY PLANNED HERE

Provided postal requirements have been met, free delivery service will be established in Lisbon early in February, according to Postmaster J. Frank Adams. It has been made plain, however, that the service will not be established until 85 per cent of those residing within the corporate limits have complied with the requirements of the department.

In order to facilitate the early establishing of this service, the Firestone bank has announced its intention to distribute residence mail boxes free to applicants.

A survey of the village of Lisbon was made by the postal department early last year, when street signs were erected and within the last six months all houses were numbered.

Cited for Contempt.

Because Rolland Sprowl failed to pay his wife $10 per week for the support of a minor child after he filed an action for divorce against her, the court has cited Sprowl into court Jan. 21st at 10 o'clock to show cause why he could not be held in contempt. The support entry against Sprowl was made by Judge Spence Sept. 9th last. Sprowl has defaulted in his payments.

Report Affirmed.

In the matter of the application of the trustees of the A. M. E. Zion church of Salem to mortgage their property, an application for which was filed in court Nov. 16 last, the report of the trustees has been affirmed. The trustees sought a loan on their property for the purpose of completing an improvement program that has been aproved by the congregation.

Sale Confirmed.

A sale has been confirmed and a deed and distribution ordered in the case of the McKay Carriage company against G. A. Anderson for the foreclosure of a mortgage.

Similar entry has been made in the case of the Peoples Savings & Loan company of Lisbon against John W. Barnhart, an action that has been pending since August 11 last.

14 Divorce Actions.

Of the 37 new cases filed in common pleas court since January 3 up to the close of business Wednesday evening, 14 have been actions in divorce. This is a higher percentage of divorce actions filed in such a brief period of time than has been recorded in a year.

Court Schedule.

The appellate court of the Seventh Ohio judicial district will open at Ashtabula, Jefferson county, next Monday. Judge L. T. Farr will leave Lisbon Sunday for that county seat. The court will not sit in Columbiana county until the week of April 4. The fall term will open Nov. 14.

Motion Sustained.

A motion to secure the costs in the case of A. R. Johnson against Solomon Winslow and others has been sustained by Judge Lones. The plaintiffs have been ordered to deposit $25 to secure costs in this action within the next 30 days. The claim is for $1,200 for the alleged loss of property.

Old Case Revived.

An entry in one of the oldest cases pending in common pleas court has just been made when leave was granted the plaintiff, Minne Moore, to file a petition in the appeal from a lower court, wherein Lewis Ritchey is defendant. This appeal was filed in common pleas court Sept. 7, 1923.

Judgment Recorded.

Judgment on a cognovit note has been recorded in common pleas court for $1,176 in the case of the Salem Finance and Discount company against W. H. McGaffick and Lui Guliani.

In the case of G. B. McCormick against F. C. Stuller and Corwin Stuller, for the foreclosure of a chattle mortgage, the court has granted the defendants leave to answer the petition of the plaintiff at once.

"My Catarrh is all gone"

What freedom in those words! Only those can realize who know the distress of clogged nose, catarrhal deafness, offensive breath, raising of mucus, and lowered vitality due to catarrh. Yet thousands still endure catarrh needlessly, because they are treating symptoms instead of the cause.

Catarrh is an inflamed condition of the mucous membrane—the delicate lining of the air passages of nose, throat and head. When this is corrected, catarrh disappears.

Salves and ointments give only temporary relief. But Hall's Catarrh Medicine because it goes directly to the cause has been successful for over 40 years. Ask your druggist. Price 85c. F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio.

Recent investigation shows that the "pep," energy, endurance and NERVE FORCE of the average man past 40 may often be increased 100 per cent by getting into his system the marvelous restorative Radium power of ARIUM. By producing a vitalizing internal exercise—ARIUM acts to renew proper, normal functioning, just as Nature intended. A multitude of alarming symptoms often quickly disappear. You should see and feel a truly startling improvement in yourself each day.

Amazing testimony of physicians and users gives convincing proof of the remarkable power of ARIUM to help restore health and strength to the sick and afflicted. Dr. C. E. Morris of New York City says: "ARIUM puts back force and vigor into the veins and strengthens the entire system to fight off disease and signs of old age." S. C. H. of Patterson, N. J. writes: "I find ARIUM to be the real thing to put 'pep' into me." Mr. D. F. K. of Pennsylvania declares: "I have been using ARIUM for a week and am feeling 100 per cent better." E. E. M. of Jersey City says: "ARIUM increased my vital power; results more wonderful than I had ever dared hope for."

If you are a sufferer from prostate gland inflammation or enlargement, kidney trouble or bladder irritation with such distressing symptoms as lame back, pains in the head, sour stomach, frequent getting up nights, embarrassing nervous weakness and other middle age ailments you owe it to yourself to start taking ARIUM at once.

The Associated Radium Chemists, Inc., of New York, which supplies druggists with ARIUM, guarantees successful and satisfactory results in every case from its progressive use or money refunded, and also that a definite quantity of genuine radium is used in its preparation. ARIUM is easy and economical to take and may now be readily obtained in this city from any good druggist, such as Chas. T. Larkins, Carnahan's, Herche's Drug Store and Mathew's.

FREE DELIVERY PLANNED HERE

Provided postal requirements have been met, free delivery service will be established in Lisbon early in February, according to Postmaster J. Frank Adams. It has been made plain, however, that the service will not be established until 85 per cent of those residing within the corporate limits have complied with the requirements of the department.

In order to facilitate the early establishing of this service, the Firestone bank has announced its intention to distribute residence mail boxes free to applicants.

A survey of the village of Lisbon was made by the postal department early last year, when street signs were erected and within the last six months all houses were numbered.

Cited for Contempt.

Because Rolland Sprowl failed to pay his wife $10 per week for the support of a minor child after he filed an action for divorce against her, the court has cited Sprowl into court Jan. 21st at 10 o'clock to show cause why he could not be held in contempt. The support entry against Sprowl was made by Judge Spence Sept. 9th last. Sprowl has defaulted in his payments.

Report Affirmed.

In the matter of the application of the trustees of the A. M. E. Zion church of Salem to mortgage their property, an application for which was filed in court Nov. 16 last, the report of the trustees has been affirmed. 14 Divorce Actions.

Of the 37 new cases filed in common pleas court since January 3 up to the close of business Wednesday evening, 14 have been actions in divorce. This is a higher percentage of divorce actions filed in such a brief period of time than has been recorded in a year.

Court Schedule.

The appellate court of the Seventh Ohio judicial district will open at Ashtabula, Jefferson county, next Monday. Judge L. T. Farr will leave Lisbon Sunday for that county seat. The court will not sit in Columbiana county until the week of April 4. The fall term will open Nov. 14.

Motion Sustained.

A motion to secure the costs in the case of A. R. Johnson against Solomon Winslow and others has been sustained by Judge Lones. The plaintiffs have been ordered to deposit $25 to secure costs in this action within the next 30 days. The claim is for $1,200 for the alleged loss of property.

Old Case Revived.

An entry in one of the oldest cases pending in common pleas court has just been made, when leave was granted the plaintiff, Minne Moore, to file a petition in the appeal from a lower court, wherein Lewis Ritchey is defendant. This appeal was filed in common pleas court Sept. 7, 1923.

Judgment Recorded.

Judgment on a cognovit note has been recorded in common pleas court for $1,176 in the case of the Salem Finance and Discount company against W. H. McGaffick and Lui Guliani.

"My Catarrh is all gone"

What freedom in those words! Only those can realize who know the distress of clogged nose, catarrhal deafness, offensive breath, raising of mucus, and lowered vitality due to catarrh. Yet thousands still endure catarrh needlessly, because they are treating symptoms instead of the cause.

Catarrh is an inflamed condition of the mucous membrane—the delicate lining of the air passages of nose, throat and head. When this is corrected, catarrh disappears.

Salves and ointments give only temporary relief. But Hall's Catarrh Medicine because it goes directly to the cause has been successful for over 40 years. Ask your druggist. Price 85c. F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio.

Elks Retain Lead In County Amateur Basketball Circuit

TRIM LISBON IN GREAT GAME AT ROLLAWAY

Salineville is Handed Trimming at Columbiana.

EAST LIVERPOOL ELKS continued their drive toward first half championship honors in the Columbiana County Amateur cage league by toppling Lisbon last night at the Rolloway, 42 to 31, in a contest that saw a Lisbon team fully 50 per cent improved over the aggregation that bowed to the Antlers in a clash here earlier in the season.

While Bill Powell's lads were winning from the county seaters Salineville was taking an artistic trimming at Columbiana, the Boosters, who have been dead in their tracks for a couple of weeks, coming out of their lethargy to land a 55-39 decision in a free scoring battle.

The race waxes hotter with the end of the half, which arrives with next week's games, rapidly approaching. Damascus and Salem, closely pressing the Elks for titular laurels, had easy sledding during the week, each taking a couple of games by forfeit. Last night's contests ended the week's schedule, so far as actual play is concerned, with the exception of the Columbiana game here Saturday night. Wellsville was billed at Damascus tonight, and East Palestine at Salem, while the Mullins quint was scheduled for a return go at Wellsville tomorrow night. These three contests are forfeited, with the Quakers and Salem benefiting.

Although Guard and Captain Smith Anderson is back in town, he did not get into last night's battle, Joe Canne filling his shoes so well that he played the entire game alongside the clever "Chuck" McConville.

Wilson and Pusey rode the "pony express" in front of Center Wilde, this trio doing all of the scoring with the exceptions of three field goals and a foul by Canne and a foul by McConville. After watching them perform, Lisbonites averred they had "their money's worth."

A score or more of East Liverpool fans who took in the game felt none too easy in the first quarter as the Lisbonites, flashing a scoring spree that probably startled even themselves, rang up an 11-2 count on the Antlers in the first period. Regardless of whether Lady Luck had anything to do with it or not, the county seat combine bucketed their first seven tries at the hoop. All straight through, one after the other, fouls and field goals.

It might have taken the starch out of any squad but Powell's boys went nonchalantly about their work and proceeded to just about double Lisbon's streak in the second period. The Antlers rained the ball on the hoops for 21 straight points in that second stanba and when the shooting was all over the count stood: Elks, 23; Lisbon, 18.

In the third period the Elks' margin increased by three points, the tally being 32 to 24 at the intermission.

In the final canto the visitors collected 10 more points while the home guards were getting seven.

Johnson and Smith, new men on the Lisbon five since its performance here, boosted the team's strength considerably and the squad, as a whole, showed a well rounded out game.

Wilson, forward, was high scorer last night, with five field goals and three fouls for 13 points. Wilde registered six field goals for 12 counters.

Hamill and Tinson Lost to Team for Month at Least.

BETHANY, W. Va., Jan. 20.—Disaster, in a double measure, forged its way into the camp of Bethany college varsity basketball team here today, just at the time when Coach Nuss had practically eliminated the "over confident" spirit which has prevailed here from the beginning of the season, due to an ample share of seasoned material. It not only upsets the team after this big drawback has been erased, but it also rates the Bisons as "underdogs" in their titular conference battles of this week.

Jack Hamill and "Tiny" Tinson are the members of the team who were dealt severe blows. Hamill, due to sickness, has been removed to the Wheeling General hospital, and will probably be out of the game for the remainder of the season. He has not yet had an opportunity to show his wares, but Coach Nuss is living in hopes that he will recover by the end of January and be able to finish up the season.

Tinson's case, however, is probably the more serious to the team, as he has been a main cog in the regular lineup since the season opened. Tinson has been called home for an indefinite period because of sickness.

With these men not to be counted on for the titular contests this week and next at least, the Bison mentor has turned his attention toward perfecing a new combination. Alf Carey has been in Tinson's place, and Markley, Rush, Baker and Ryan will be forced to bear the brunt of the substitutions.

Games with Thiel and Westminster colleges Friday and Saturday are facing the Green and White cagers, and but one day remains for Coach Nuss to perfect the newly working five. However, he believes that Captain Beckwith and Carl Hamill have again "found themselves," and will be able to outscore the flashy forwards of the Pennsylvania schools in the crucial contests awaiting the West Virginians.

BOUT MAY MAKE FEATHER KING

CHICAGO, Jan. 20.—The all-star, double-windup boxing show offered by Promoter Jim Mullen at the Coliseum tonight, is attracting wide attention throughout this section. Possibility that a featherweight champion may be manufactured during the mixup between Ray Miller and Eddie Shea, has perked interest in the attraction. Mullen says he will ask the Illinois Boxing Commission to declare the winner of this bout the featherweight king. They go ten rounds to a decision.

In the second stellar performance, Spug Myers of Pocatello, Idaho, and Billy Petrolle, the "Fargo Express" will exchange punches with the hope in view of getting a shot at Sammy Mandell's lightweight crown. Either of these two bouts should be a credit to any show. All four men have trained faithfully and are reported in tip-top condition.

JACK SCOTT was released by the Cincinnati Reds in May, 1922, because of an injured arm that the club bosses figured had ended his pitching days.

JACK SCOTT

The other day the New York Giants used him in a wholesale trade, sending him to Philadelphia. Is still considered good enough to be used as trading material at least.

Won 16 and lost 7 games for Giants in 1923 and played a part in winning the pennant for McGraw. Sent to the Toledo club on option in 1924, he proceeded to win 20 games while losing the same number for the disjointed Toledo club. Recalled by the Giants in 1925, he won 14 games and lost 15, and last year managed to win 13 while losing 15.

Got his start with Macon in the Sally League in 1916 and received a tryout with the Pirates that same season. Played with Macon again, Columbia and Nashville, before the Boston Braves paid $750 for him. Failed to turn in any brilliant records with the Braves in three seasons and was traded to Cincinnati for Rube Marquard and Kopf.

Fight Results

AT NEW YORK—Bruce Flowers, of New Rochelle, N. Y., knocked out Johnny Ryan, of Ireland, in the third round.

Jack McVey, of New York, won decision over Eddie Dempsey, of Philadelphia, ten rounds.

Eddie Anderson, of Wyoming, won decision over Joe Souza, of Freeport, N. Y., ten rounds.

RENEY, MORRIS LAND MATCHES

A one point margin gave Ed Reney a victory over McDowell in the American pocket billiard tournament last night. The final count was 75-74.

C. Morris, however, found the going easier against T. Watson winning his match handily, 75 to 25.

Daher vs. Bennett and Hannan vs. Osborne are matches scheduled for tonight.

DEMPSEY MUST TAKE TURN AT TITLE CHANCE

Rickard Replies to Rumors of Bout With Tunney.

By DAVIS J. WALSH.

NEW YORK, Jan. 20.—Jack Dempsey either must fight the ultimate survivor of the Delaney Sharkey-Maloney heavyweight series or forfeit his immediate chance for a return whatever-it-was with Gene Tunney for the championship.

This, in effect, was Tex Rickard's reply today to stories in circulation that another Dempsey-Tunney meeting already was in the bag and that, the present heavyweight tourney being a lot of applejack, Rickard was to so connive that Dempsey would get the "shot" and the others would get the air, which generally can be found outside. The reply might be resignated as a commentary on Dempsey's recent allegation that he wasn't interested" in Rickard's tournament.

It was, incidentally, the promoter's first attempt at rattling the sword as far as Dempsey is concerned, although Rickard wished to disclaim that such was his intention.

"Dempsey will be here in about three weeks," he said, "and I don't think we will have any trouble about what should be done next summer. However, anybody who says I am trying to chase Dempsey into another Tunney match without giving the other contenders a chance is merely trying to make trouble for me.

"I will not put Dempsey in with Tunney next summer, unless he first proves that he is the best man for the spot. By that time, I will have developed a real challenger as a result of my tournament and I'd be crazy if I didn't make the most of such a man. I'll send him in with Dempsey if Jack will go, or with Tunney himself, if Jack decides against my plans. In either case, we will have a real title fight between two real fighters."

The suspicion is general that Jack is concerned only with one more fight, if that many. He left that impression with me before departing for the west some months ago.

"I'll fight my way back into condition with a lot of exhibitions," he said on that occasion. "You get all the work you need that way."

Ruppert Is Keyman In Landis-Johnson 'Showdown' Battle

Which Way Colonel "Jake" Will Jump in Monday's Meeting to be Watched Anxiously by Both Sides; Yank Owner's Influence Known to be Tremendous.

By Gene Hoffman.

CHICAGO, Jan. 20.—Colonel Jacob Ruppert, owner of the New York Yankees, was viewed today as the "key man" in the formations now being drawn for baseball's "showdown" battle, scheduled for Monday of next week, between Commissioner K. M. Landis and Byron Bancroft Johnson, president of the American league.

Col. Ruppert' influence is known to be tremendous, not only in his own circuit, but in moulding the policy of the national sport. Observers here, who have followed the Landis-Johnson feud closely, believe that whichever way the colonel jumps, that way goes the victory.

The "showdown" will be forced January 24 at the Congress hotel here when major league officials meet with Commissioner Landis, ostensibly to delve further into the mysteries of the fast-fading Cobb-Speaker scandal. Landis called the meeting after Johnson charged the commissioner with "tarring" two of baseball's greatest players, and trying to "pass the buck" to the American league.

In view of all that has gone before, this meeting can be nothing but a test of strength between the commissioner and President Johnson. The latter was conceded a fair chance to hold his own, until he aroused the ire of one of his erstwhile supporters, Col. Jake Ruppert, by hinting that "something was wrong" with the 1922 world series.

The Yankees lost that series to the Giants, and naturally the colonel did not relish this reflection on his men and organization. According to reports from New York, Ruppert "exploded" when he read Johnson's alleged statement.

Johnson appeared considerably concerned over the "explosion" of Ruppert. The American league prexy was emphatic today in denying that he had ever charged anything was wrong about the 1922 series. He said the whole trouble was that an imaginative reporter had jockeyed his (Johnson's) words so that they implied things he did not say. Johnson admitted he did mention the 1921 world series in talking about scandals, explaining that in view of the scandal epidemic it was surprising Landis had not seen something to investigate about 1922 because the Giants had won in five games.

"If at the time of the 1922 series I had been given a clew as to any wrong doing, I certainly would have investigated just as I have had agents go into other things," Johnson explained.

Whether this explanation will appease Col. Ruppert and win him back to the Johnson fold, remains to be seen. Ruppert has been one of Johnson's staunchest supporters for years, and it was believed that if there was one man in baseball who could work a miracle Monday by again patching up a truce between Landis and Johnson, it was Ruppert.

Which way the Colonel will "jump," may be revealed Sunday when the American league directors meet here with President Johnson to arrange final details of their program at Monday's "showdown" affair.

Save for the brief explanation concerning the 1922 world series, Johnson, as well as Commissioner Landis, remained incommunicado today. Neither would comment on any phase of the impending duel.

Concrete Streets, like Concrete Roads, are a good investment—not an expense

Defiance County Farmers Enter New Era of Prosperity Via Concrete Roads

Twelve years ago the farmers of Defiance County, Ohio, were suffering big losses as a direct result of bad roads.

After heavy rains, many of these roads became seas of mud, and it was impossible for days at a time to get to market at all.

But in 1914 Defiance County began to build concrete roads, and today has mile after mile of this firm, rigid, unyielding type.

Farmers in every section of the county can now deliver their poultry, eggs, milk and other perishable produce in prime condition—no matter what the state of the weather.

Nor is the farmer the only one who has benefited by the coming of concrete roads. Prosperity has steadily increased all along the line.

For example, the City of Defiance has developed into an important produce center, where several nationally known produce houses have opened receiving stations doing an annual business which runs into the millions.

The simple truth is that concrete roads soon pay for themselves, and they continue to return dividends in the form of greater all-round prosperity year after year—with practically no expense for maintenance.

Elks Retain Lead In County Amateur Basketball Circuit

TRIM LISBON IN GREAT GAME AT ROLLAWAY

Salineville is Handed Trimming at Columbiana.

EAST LIVERPOOL ELKS continued their drive toward first half championship honors in the Columbiana County Amateur cage league by toppling Lisbon last night at the Rolloway, 42 to 31, in a contest that saw a Lisbon team fully 50 per cent improved over the aggregation that bowed to the Antlers in a clash here earlier in the season.

While Bill Powell's lads were winning from the county seaters Salineville was taking an artistic trimming at Columbiana, the Boosters, who have been dead in their tracks for a couple of weeks, coming out of their lethargy to land a 55-39 decision in a free scoring battle.

The race waxes hotter with the end of the half, which arrives with next week's games, rapidly approaching. Damascus and Salem, closely pressing the Elks for titular laurels, had easy sledding during the week, each taking a couple of games by forfeit. Last night's contests ended the week's schedule, so far as actual play is concerned, with the exception of the Columbiana game here Saturday night. Wellsville was billed at Damascus tonight, and East Palestine at Salem, while the Mullins quint was scheduled for a return go at Wellsville tomorrow night. These three contests are forfeited, with the Quakers and Salem benefiting.

Although Guard and Captain Smith Anderson is back in town, he did not get into last night's battle, Joe Canne filling his shoes so well that he played the entire game alongside the clever "Chuck" McConville.

Wilson and Pusey rode the "pony express" in front of Center Wilde, this trio doing all of the scoring with the exceptions of three field goals and a foul by Canne and a foul by McConville. After watching them perform, Lisbonites averred they had "their money's worth."

A score or more of East Liverpool fans who took in the game felt none too easy in the first quarter as the Lisbonites, flashing a scoring spree that probably startled even themselves, rang up an 11-2 count on the Antlers in the first period. Regardless of whether Lady Luck had anything to do with it or not, the county seat combine bucketed their first seven tries at the hoop. All straight through, one after the other, fouls and field goals.

It might have taken the starch out of any squad but Powell's boys went nonchalantly about their work and proceeded to just about double Lisbon's streak in the second period. The Antlers rained the ball on the hoops for 21 straight points in that second stanba and when the shooting was all over the count stood: Elks, 23; Lisbon, 18.

In the third period the Elks' margin increased by three points, the tally being 32 to 24 at the intermission.

In the final canto the visitors collected 10 more points while the home guards were getting seven.

Johnson and Smith, new men on the Lisbon five since its performance here, boosted the team's strength considerably and the squad, as a whole, showed a well rounded out game.

Wilson, forward, was high scorer last night, with five field goals and three fouls for 13 points. Wilde registered six field goals for 12 counters.

Answers to Questions

By FREDERIC J. HASKIN

The keynote of the times is efficient service. In supplying its readers with a free Information Bureau in Washington the Review-Tribune is living up to this principle in deed and fact. We are paying for this service in order that it may be free to the public. Submit your queries to the staff of experts whose services are put at your disposal. Enclose two cents in stamps to cover the return postage. Address the East Liverpool Review-Tribune Information Bureau, Frederic J. Haskin, Director, Washington, D. C.

Q. How much does a new born elephant weigh? L. R.

A. The United States Zoological Park says that the approximate weight of an elephant at birth is 160 to 200 pounds.

Q. How many books on religion were produced in 1925 by American authors? W. E.

A. In a table compiled by The Publishers' Keekly the number of such publications is given as 706.

Q. What is the area of the Virgin Islands? A. R. C.

A. One hundred and thirty-two square miles.

Q. Can local surveyors obtain any of the data of the Coast and Geodetic Survey? F. L. M.

A. Four or five years ago the Survey inaugurated the practice of placing at the disposal of local and county surveyors data accumulated by the bureau so as to encourage more accurate surveys. Since then cooperation has been extended to approximately 4,000 surveyors. Through printed digests, in which counties are listed alphabetically, the descriptions of Coast and Geodetic Survey triangulation stations, magnetic stations, and precise level bench marks have been brought to the attention of surveyors of twenty-seven states. Digests for the other states will be prepared as soon as possible.

Q. Does the Washington Monument sway? J. L. H.

A. The Washington Monument bends slightly. This is rendered perceptible by means of a copper wire 174 feet long, hanging in the center of the structure, and carrying a plummet suspended in a vessel of water. At noon in summer the apex of the monument is shifted by expansion of the stone a few hundrdths of an inch toward the north. High winds also cause perceptible motion, depending upon the velocity. In still weather vibrations of the earth's crust are also registered by this instrument

Q. How many graves are there in Arlington? A. P. T.

A. An all inclusive count totals 35,460.

Q. Was Julia Marlowe born in the United States? L. G.

A. Caldbeck, England, is her birthplace.

Q. Does silk or wool retain body heat better? K. W. G.

A. Silk and wool are both non-conductors of heat. The latter retains body heat somewhat more than silk because of the air-holding spaces in the fibres and because of lower evaporation.

Q. In the Bible, what people are included in Gentiles? G. A.

A. In the Scriptures, the term Gentiles implies all peoples who did not accept the Jewish faith. They therefore comprised all nationalities except Jews.

Q. Please explain the term "fourth dimension." B. D. B.

A. The fourth dimension is a type of geometry, which conceives a hyperspace of "N" dimensions, in which space is conceived not of points, but of lines. Under such division, space has four dimensions, since four determinations are necessary to fix a line in space. Mathematicians agree as to the practical value of this idea as it leads to important simplifications of the mathematical language and gives greater clearness to the concepts of real geometry.

Q. When was the statute of Baron Von Steuben in Washington unveiled? J. F. G.

A. The date of the unveiling of the statue of Von Steuben in Lafayette Park, Washington, D. C., was December 7, 1910.

Q. How long did the glacial Lake Agassiz cover the land? J. J. N.

A. It is impossible to say how long a period the glacial waters of Lake Agassiz covered the greater parts of Manitoba, Saskatchewan,, North Dakota, and Minnesota. The lake from its earliest measurements appears to have been 110,000 square miles with a length of 700 miles,.width of 250 miles, and a depth of 700 feet. Besides the reclaimed land know known as the Red River Valley there remains still of Lake Agassiz the shrunken remnants constituting Lake Winnipeg, Lake Manitoba, Rainy Lake, Lake of the Woods, and Red Lake.

Q. In what school was carrying the ball introduced into football? P. C. B.

A. The introduction of the carrying feature into football is attributed upon a memorial tablet at Rugby to a schoolboy named William Webb Ellis, who in the closing minute of a drawn game in the autumn of 1823, "with a fine disregard for the rules of football as played in his time, first took the ball in his arms and ran with it, thus originating the distinctive feature of the Rugby game." In the 40 years that followed many clubs sprang up throughout England, some playing the kicking and others the carrying game, but all handicapped by a lack of uniform rules.

Hassler was not able to complete his commission until the end of 1815. Actual field work was therefore not possible until 1816. This continued for two years when it was suspended and not resumed until 1832. The scope of the work of the Coast Survey was increased in 1871 so that state surveys were included, and in 1878 this service became known as the Coast and Geodetic Survey.

In their work of surveying the coasts the engineers take many chances which would not be permitted the usual sea captain. It is their business to sail uncharted waters, noting dangers that might lurk in wait for the unsuspecting vessel. They are the ones who dragged the Alaskan waters so that pinnacle rocks might be avoided by the merchant vessels.

A Year Without a Wreck.

It is said that formerly one of the principal ways of designating such rocks was by naming them after vessels which had been wrecked upon them. That a certain number of vessels would be so wrecked each year was taken much as a matter of course among those living in Alaska. After the Coast and Geodetic Survey had wire-dragged the area conditions improved until last year not a single wreck was reported.

A study of earthquakes is being made by the survey so that these may be accurately predicted in order that people in the area so affected may be warned. It is, of course, impossible to prevent such phenomena, but people may be given some notice of an impending shock, so that they may be prepared. With respect to this, Col. Jones is particularly earnest in urging people to build their houses with a due regard to their stability to withstand such shocks.

One might go on indefinitely telling of the wonderful and often thrilling work of this organization. As one official has said, "almost any question, foolish or otherwise, involving any of the material sciences—astronomy, geology, mathemathics, hydrography, seismology, et al.—can be answered by some one of the scientists in this bureau." The best part of it is that these scientists seem able to put into actual use their scientific theories.

Answers to Questions

By FREDERIC J. HASKIN

The keynote of the times is efficient service. In supplying its readers with a free Information Bureau in Washington the Review-Tribune is living up to this principle in deed and fact. We are paying for this service in order that it may be free to the public. Submit your queries to the staff of experts whose services are put at your disposal. Enclose two cents in stamps to cover the return postage. Address the East Liverpool Review-Tribune Information Bureau, Frederic J. Haskin, Director, Washington, D. C.

Q. How much does a new born elephant weigh? L. R.

A. The United States Zoological Park says that the approximate weight of an elephant at birth is 160 to 200 pounds.

Q. How many books on religion were produced in 1925 by American authors? W. E.

A. In a table compiled by The Publishers' Keekly the number of such publications is given as 706.

Q. What is the area of the Virgin Islands? A. R. C.

A. One hundred and thirty-two square miles.

Q. Can local surveyors obtain any of the data of the Coast and Geodetic Survey? F. L. M.

A. Four or five years ago the Survey inaugurated the practice of placing at the disposal of local and county surveyors data accumulated by the bureau so as to encourage more accurate surveys. Since then cooperation has been extended to approximately 4,000 surveyors. Through printed digests, in which counties are listed alphabetically, the descriptions of Coast and Geodetic Survey tri-angulation stations, magnetic stations, and precise level bench marks have been brought to the attention of surveyors of twenty-seven states. Digests for the other states will be prepared as soon as possible.

Q. Does the Washington Monument sway? J. L. H.

A. The Washington Monument bends slightly. This is rendered perceptible by means of a copper wire 174 feet long, hanging in the center of the structure, and carrying a plummet suspended in a vessel of water. At noon in summer the apex of the monument is shifted by expansion of the stone a few hundredths of an inch toward the north. High winds also cause perceptible motion, depending upon the velocity. In still weather vibrations of the earth's crust are also registered by this instrument

Q. How many graves are there in Arlington? A. P. T.

A. An all inclusive count totals 35,460.

Q. Was Julia Marlowe born in the United States? L. G.

A. Caldbeck, England, is her birthplace.

Q. Does silk or wool retain body heat better? K. W. G.

A. Silk and wool are both non-conductors of heat. The latter retains body heat somewhat more than silk because of the air-holding spaces in the fibres and because of lower evaporation.

Q. In the Bible, what people are included in Gentiles? G. A.

A. In the Scriptures, the term Gentiles implies all peoples who did not accept the Jewish faith. They therefore comprised all nationalities except Jews.

Q. Please explain the term "fourth dimension." B. D. B.

A. The fourth dimension is a type of geometry, which conceives a hyper-space of "N" dimensions, in which space is conceived not of points, but of lines. Under such division, space has four dimensions, since four determinations are necessary to fix a line in space. Mathematicians agree as to the practical value of this idea as it leads to important simplifications of the mathematical language and gives greater clearness to the concepts of real geometry.

Q. When was the statute of Baron Von Steuben in Washington unveiled? J. F. G.

A. The date of the unveiling of the statue of Von Steuben in Lafayette Park, Washington, D. C., was December 7, 1910.

Q. How long did the glacial Lake Agassiz cover the land? J. J. N.

A. It is impossible to say how long a period the glacial waters of Lake Agassiz covered the greater parts of Manitoba, Saskatchewan, North Dakota, and Minnesota. The lake from its earliest measurements appears to have been 110,000 square miles with a length of 700 miles, width of 250 miles, and a depth of 700 feet. Besides the reclaimed land know known as the Red River Valley there remains still of Lake Agassiz the shrunken remnants constituting Lake Winnipeg, Lake Manitoba, Rainy Lake, Lake of the Woods, and Red Lake.

Q. In what school was carrying the ball introduced into football? P. C. B.

A. The introduction of the carrying feature into football is attributed upon a memorial tablet at Rugby to a schoolboy named William Webb Ellis, who in the closing minute of a drawn game in the autumn of 1823, "with a fine disregard for the rules of football as played in his time, first took the ball in his arms and ran with it, thus originating the distinctive feature of the Rugby game." In the 40 years that followed many clubs sprang up throughout England, some playing the kicking and others the carrying game, but all handicapped by a lack of uniform rules.

Hassler was not able to complete his commission until the end of 1815. Actual field work was therefore not possible until 1816. This continued for two years when it was suspended and not resumed until 1832. The scope of the work of the Coast Survey was increased in 1871 so that state surveys were included, and in 1878 this service became known as the Coast and Geodetic Survey.

In their work of surveying the coasts the engineers take many chances which would not be permitted the usual sea captain. It is their business to sail uncharted waters, noting dangers that might lurk in wait for the unsuspecting vessel. They are the ones who dragged the Alaskan waters so that pinnacle rocks might be avoided by the merchant vessels.

A Year Without a Wreck.

It is said that formerly one of the principal ways of designating such rocks was by naming them after vessels which had been wrecked upon them. That a certain number of vessels would be so wrecked each year was taken much as a matter of course among those living in Alaska. After the Coast and Geodetic Survey had wire-dragged the area conditions improved until last year not a single wreck was reported.

A study of earthquakes is being made by the survey so that these may be accurately predicted in order that people in the area so affected may be warned. It is, of course, impossible to prevent such phenomena, but people may be given some notice of an impending shock, so that they may be prepared. With respect to this, Col. Jones is particularly earnest in urging people to build their houses with a due regard to their stability to withstand such shocks.

One might go on indefinitely telling of the wonderful and often thrilling work of this organization. As one official has said, "almost any question, foolish or otherwise, involving any of the material sciences—astronomy, geology, mathemathics, hydrography, seismology, et al.—can be answered by some one of the scientists in this bureau." The best part of it is that these scientists seem able to put into actual use their scientific theories.

SYNOPSIS.

Quexter, narrator of the tale, is an American employed by a bank in Paris. He starts for Geneva to visit the headquarters of the League of Nations, stopping at Dijon between trains. He shares his room with another American who says he is a schoolmaster studying abroad. During the night the "schoolmaster" disappears.

Quexter arrives at Geneva finding that the League is discussing the illicit drug traffic. At the municipal casino he sees a stout, flashily dressed Italian whom he had noticed at Dijon and overhears part of a conversation between him and another man, with mention of a "Stella" and a mysterious "Center" under whose orders they all seem to be. Quexter picks up a bunch of flowers thrown by a dancing girl and finds a handkerchief among the stems. He uses it to bind up a cut finger and later sends it to the laundry.

Next day the stout Italian—Baldassare Marce—calls on him and demands

I looked over his shoulder and saw two individuals loitering on the sidewalk

the handkerchief. Quexter will give him no satisfaction and that afternoon he is kidnapped. Left to himself he escapes from the house only to fall into a well. He finds an outlet, swims through it and comes to a door which leads into a dungeon in which he finds the man who shared his room in Dijon being kept prisoner. Marce and a Jap are with him and are evidently planning to kill him shortly. By a ruse the two Americans escape and get to Geneva where they appeal to the police for protection. Quexter sleeps that night with the American who turns out to be a detective interested in unraveling the secrets of the illicit drug traffic for the American government.

The morning after the escape Quexter wakes up to find Claypole, the detective, disguised as an old man in the room advising him to get up and eat breakfast.

CHAPTER EIGHTEEN.

"You look surprised," he remarked. "I've been up these two hours, gallivanting around in these togs and playing the part of dear old grandad from the backwoods come to see the great town and all the folks on the sidewalk."

"What have you been doing?" I inquired.

"I have been putting a little ginger into those police," he replied. "They are getting their blamed warrant signed by the old fellow with the grippe. In about ten minutes we hike in a police automobile to old Count Emilco's two-storied tenement."

"Then I must be pretty smart," I said, devouring the last remnants of the omelette.

"No immediate hurry for you," replied Claypole. "You won't be making this trip with us."

I put down my fork and looked at him rebelliously.

"Claypole," I said, "I told you last night that I intended to see this business through. I'm right in with you, and I don't mean to be put out."

Claypole laid a hand on my arm.

"I know," he said. "But I've got another job for you. Do you know why I look like a dime character in a wild and woolly western film?"

"I do not."

"Well, friend, I have just rambled round to the high-class laundry establishment where your linen is now hanging out on the little old clothes line."

"I see. You've been after the handkerchief," I said.

"You bet," replied Claypole, "like a customs officer after a bootlegger, but they didn't take to the idea of entrusting your washing to any one short of Robert W. Quexter himself, so I guess you will have to step along and fetch it."

"Very well," I said, lathering my chin, "I will go the moment I am dressed. Where is this laundry to be found?"

"It's a kind of convent," said Claypole, "in a little one-horse burg in France where they take in washing.

This was apparently a usual practice in Geneva which, as a glance at the map will show, is surrounded on all sides save one by French Savoy. The particular convent which did the washing for some of the principal hotels in Geneva was situated at Ferney-Voltaire.

I had just finished shaving when a sudden thought struck me.

"Claypole," I said, "what about the little Japanese who was sent to retrieve the handkerchief yesterday? He will surely have contrived to get it by now."

"I think not," Claypole replied. "I'm pretty sure that it has not yet left the care of the holy nuns. Have you read the newspapers this morning?"

"No," I said.

Claypole handed me a copy of La Suisse open at the local news, where I saw a small paragraph marked with a line of red pencil. It was as follows: Automobile versus motor cyclist.

At 6:55 p. m. yesterday evening an automobile driven by M. C-P. resident, Avenue de Chantepoulet 415 bis, came into collision with a motor cyclist at the junction of the Avenue de Secheron and the route de Lausanne. The car was proceeding from Geneva in the direction of Versoix, and the motorcyclist in the opposite direction. The motor cyclist was thrown from his machine, a distance of 7 meters, sustaining severe injuries to his head. The victim received first aid at police post No. 17 in the rue Butini, and was afterwards transported to the cantonal hospital. His condition is grave, and he has not yet recovered consciousness. The name of the unfortunate man is not known, but he is of Japanese nationality. The gendarme Jacot conducted the preliminary investigations into the cause of the accident.

I laid the paper down and looked at Claypole.

"Strikes me," he said, "that the unfortunate messenger of the lord high muckamuck who calls himself the Center is now knocking at the heavenly gates."

"They have sent another man," I pointed out.

"Sure," he replied. "But somehow I think they have been a darned sight too busy chasing around after us. I got a kind of hunch you will find the handkerchief in the laundry."

I was by this time nearly ready.

"Look here, Claypole," I said, as I knotted my tie, what is the use of the handkerchief, anyway? I can't conceive why they should be wanting it so badly?"

Claypole did not answer for a moment, and as my back was turned to him I could not see the expression of his face. Presently he said:

"I will be frank with you. The fact is, I simply don't know. But clearly it is so vital that the gang will stick at nothing in order to get it."

I had a glimpse of his face in the mirror in front of me as he spoke. His quiet smile had disappeared; his eyes were hard and keen; and the racy slang of his ordinary speech was in abeyance.

"You remember," he went on, "I told you about poor Harold Lynch. He was murdered. We were never able to find out who did it, but I am pretty well sure it was the same gang. He was after a cigar case, but he never got it. This time it is a handkerchief."

"What will it be the next time?" I exclaimed.

"There is not going to be a next time," said Claypole quietly, "not if Cyrus P. Claypole and Robert W. Quexter can prevent it."

"I need not warn you of the danger," he continued. "That reminds me. I've got the police, after much persuasion, to give us some of that protection we asked for yesterday."

He rose and approached the window.

"There they are," he said, "They don't look particularly bright, but they were the best I could find. They have orders not to lose sight of you for an instant. They will follow you to the laundry, but you must behave as though you did not know of their existence."

I looked over his shoulder and saw in the street below two undistinguished individuals, quietly dressed, who were loitering on the sidewalk.

"There's a taxi waiting for you at the corner," continued Claypole. "Come straight back here when you have got the handkerchief and wait for me. Got your passport?" he added.

I nodded. He looked at me a moment, anxious as I thought, and unusually excited. Then with a return to his normal manner:

"Let's away," he chanted, "and part the glories of this happy day. Flourish and exeunt omnes."

We shook hands, and I left the room.

SYNOPSIS.

Quexter, narrator of the tale, is an American employed by a bank in Paris. He starts for Geneva to visit the headquarters of the League of Nations, stopping at Dijon between trains. He shares his room with another American who says he is a schoolmaster studying abroad. During the night the "schoolmaster" disappears.

Quexter arrives at Geneva finding that the League is discussing the illicit drug traffic. At the municipal casino he sees a stout, flashily dressed Italian whom he had noticed at Dijon and overhears part of a conversation between him and another man, with mention of a "Stella" and a mysterious "Center" under whose orders they all seem to be. Quexter picks up a bunch of flowers thrown by a dancing girl and finds a handkerchief among the stems. He uses it to bind up a cut finger and later sends it to the laundry.

Next day the stout Italian—Baldassare Marce—calls on him and demands

the handkerchief. Quexter will give him no satisfaction and that afternoon he is kidnapped. Left to himself he escapes from the house only to fall into a well. He finds an outlet, swims through it and comes to a door which leads into a dungeon in which he finds the man who shared his room in Dijon being kept prisoner. Marce and a Jap are with him and are evidently planning to kill him shortly. By a ruse the two Americans escape and get to Geneva where they appeal to the police for protection. Quexter sleeps that night with the American who turns out to be a detective interested in unraveling the secrets of the illicit drug traffic for the American government.

The morning after the escape Quexter wakes up to find Claypole, the detective, disguised as an old man in the room advising him to get up and eat breakfast.

CHAPTER EIGHTEEN.

"You look surprised," he remarked. "I've been up these two hours, gallivanting around in these togs and playing the part of dear old grandad from the backwoods come to see the great town and all the folks on the sidewalk."

"What have you been doing?" I inquired.

"I have been putting a little ginger into those police," he replied. "They are getting their blamed warrant signed by the old fellow with the grippe. In about ten minutes we hike in a police automobile to old Count Emilco's two-storied tenement."

"Then I must be pretty smart," I said, devouring the last remnants of the omelette.

"No immediate hurry for you," replied Claypole. "You won't be making this trip with us."

I put down my fork and looked at him rebelliously.

"Claypole," I said, "I told you last night that I intended to see this business through. I'm right in with you, and I don't mean to be put out."

Claypole laid a hand on my arm.

"I know," he said. "But I've got another job for you. Do you know why I look like a dime character in a wild and woolly western film?"

"I do not."

"Well, friend, I have just rambled round to the high-class laundry establishment where your linen is now hanging out on the little old clothes line."

"I see. You've been after the handkerchief," I said.

"You bet," replied Claypole. "like a customs officer after a bootlegger, but they didn't take to the idea of entrusting your washing to any one short of Robert W. Quexter himself, so I guess you will have to step along and fetch it."

"Very well," I said, lathering my chin, "I will go the moment I am dressed. Where is this laundry to be found?"

"It's a kind of convent," said Claypole, "in a little one-horse burg in France where they take in washing."

This was apparently a usual practice in Geneva which, as a glance at the map will show, is surrounded on all sides save one by French Savoy. The particular convent which did the washing for some of the principal hotels in Geneva was situated at Ferney-Voltaire.

I had just finished shaving when a sudden thought struck me.

"Claypole," I said, "what about the little Japanese who was sent to retrieve the handkerchief yesterday? He will surely have contrived to get it by now."

"I think not," Claypole replied. "I'm pretty sure that it has not yet left the care of the holy nuns. Have you read the newspapers this morning?"

"No," I said.

Claypole handed me a copy of La Suisse open at the local news, where I saw a small paragraph marked with a line of red pencil. It was as follows: Automobile versus motor cyclist.

At 6:55 p. m. yesterday evening an automobile driven by M. C-P. resident, Avenue de Chantepoulet 415 bis, came into collision with a motor cyclist at the junction of the Avenue de Secheron and the route de Lausanne. The car was proceeding from Geneva in the direction of Versoix, and the motorcyclist in the opposite direction. OHIO RIVER FLOOD FEARED

Coolidge Says No.
They Beautify.
Mind Over Matter.
Do One Thing Well.

By ARTHUR BRISBANE

[The opinions expressed in this column are strictly those of Mr. Brisbane and not necessarily in consonance with the policies of The Review-Tribune.]

FOR the United States, according to President Coolidge, the Mexican question comes to this:

"Shall property of American citizens in Mexico be confiscated or taken without being paid for?"

President Coolidge answers "No," which will suit the average American.

GEORGE HILL, head of the big American Tobacco Co., says that since women smoke, tobacco advertising should be prepared appealing to them. Advertising geniuses all over the country will immediately besiege Mr. Hill with special "Lady's cigaret advertising. Success will depend on good pictures, plus two words: "They beautify."

HAS mind power over matter, as Christian Scientists allege? Yes, Dr. Boyd, experimenting with drugs on 50 students, gave half of them the real thing, the other half swallowed milk capsules.

Drug victims, in the last stages of affliction, are soothed by hypodermic injection of distilled water, which they believe to contain morphine. Mind has power over matter, imagination is more powerful than fact.

But mind won't cure cancer, put your filling in a tooth, heal an abscess or set a broken bone. Don't push "mind over matter" too far, especially if there is a good doctor near you.

SEVENTEEN-YEAR-OLD George Young, who swam the Catalina channel, learns that advertising is cash. He is in vaudeville at $1,000 a night. Instead of buying a "quiet little bungalow" for his mother in California, he will be able to buy her a Beverly Hills house with swimming pool and projection room attached.

Do one thing well. That is what pays.

HOWARD GOULD'S wife sued him and the court gave her $30,000 a year. Charlie Chaplin's wife sues him and the court gives her, while she is waiting, $4,000 a month, or $48,000 a year. Gould is worth probably fifty or sixty millions. Chaplin is worth three or four millions.

Everything in this country improves in value, even the rights of an angry wife.

ONCE, upon a midnight dreary, when funds were low and prospects bad,

Do Not Make a False Impression

The world is a harsh judge and is perfectly willing to condemn us by outward appearances. In the street, at the theater, in the restaurant, every day people are judging us by what we do and say. They go away carrrying an impression of us—and it depends upon our manners whether it is a good impression or a bad impression.

That is why it is important to give attention to the little courteous observance and social formalities that bespeak the true lady and gentelmen, and make the world a better place to live in

A new etiquette booklet from our Washington Bureau tells in a simple, direct way how to meet the every day problems of social conduct. Enclose six cents in stamps for your copy.

Frederic J. Haskin, Director, The East Liverpool Review-Tribune Information Bureau, Washington, D. C.

I enclose herewith SIX CENTS in stamps or coin for a copy of the booklet on "Modern Manners."

21-FOOT STAGE REPORTED HERE AS CREEKS GO BEYOND BANKS

Lock Men at Dam No. 8 Expect 28 or 30 Feet.

RAINS BLAMED

Flood Stage Reached by Other Rivers in State.

Fed by a two-day rain, the Ohio river may reach a flood stage within the next 24 hours, rivermen here said today.

A gauge of almost 21 feet was reported at dam No. 8 at noon, and the river was rising at the rate of six-tenths of a foot an hour.

Flood Stage is 33.9 Feet.

Although without definite advices from Pittsburgh, where rain was still falling during the forenoon, and Allegheny river ice floes were moving, lock men at East Liverpool predicted a stage of 28 or 30 feet would be reached here.

Flood stage at the dam is 33.9 feet. The water reaches the River Road between the downtown and East End district at about 33 feet. Houses in Jethro and other lowlands are flooded by a 30-foot stage.

The rain, which followed snow Tuesday afternoon, is said to be general throughout Ohio, West Virginia and the Allegheny mountain watershed, which is drained by the Allegheny and Monongahela rivers.

Ice Gorge Dynamited.

The village of Irondale, Jefferson county, was endangered yesterday when an ice gorge formed in Salt run, near the vehicle bridge. The gorge was moved by charges of dynamite and soon the creek which had overflood its banks and reached the back yards of several homes had receded. Practically all danger of a flood in that section had passed today, it was believed.

Both the north and west forks of Beaver creek which merge at Fredericktown were swollen today, residents of the district said, but there was no danger of a flood in the village, which occupies a site high above the creek level.

Beaver creek, which flows through Lisbon, was out of its banks at several places. The lowlands in the vicinity of Lincoln Gardens, at Brown's bridge in Madison township were inundated.

Sandy creek, near Hanoverton, was also overflowing.

Rural mail carriers in the vicinity of Millport in the west end of the county are reported to have been unable to make deliveries yesterday because of flooded highways. Unimproved roads have been turned into seas

By GEORGE R. HOLMES.

MEXICO CITY, Jan. 20.—A temporary injunction against the operation of the new petroleum law, pending a response by the government to charges that the law is illegal, was today granted to three large oil companies which have filed injunction suits.

The duration of the injunction is for three days.

No matter what the decision of the lower courts may be, it is expected that the dispute will be carried to the supreme court.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 20.—Settlement of the land-law controversy with Mexico by peaceful negotiations, rather than resort to an open break, was still regarded as the paramount policy of the administration today, despite Secretary of State Kellogg's denial that he had committed this government to arbitration.

Secretary Kellogg's latest statement was coincident with reports from Mexico City quoting President Calles as saying while he favored peaceful adjustment there could be no arbitration of the Mexican constitution itself.

In diplomatic quarters here, these statements were taken as a necessary part of the diplomatic game. Neither government is desirous of exhibiting any signs of receding from the position it has assumed in the controversy, and both governments have to contend with domestic opposition of more or less strength. Hence, it is pointed out, the approach to arbitration must be cautious.

Coolidge's Attitude.

President Coolidge has summarized the Mexican problem as embracing the question: "Shall the property of American citizens be confiscated without its being paid for?"

Put bluntly on that basis, the controversy does not lend itself to arbitration, for this government cannot put itself in the position beforehand, at least, of being willing to concede that the question is open to doubt.

President Calles has summarized the controversy thus: "Has Mexico the right to adopt a constitution?"

On that basis, the Mexican government similarly cannot concede that the question is open to arbitration, for to do so would put the Calles regime in the position of being willing to arbitrate Mexico's sovereignty. Adoption of a constitution is an attribute of sovereignty which no government could relinquish.

Ohio Coal Miners Crush Proposal for "One Big Union"

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 20.—Hopes for an Ohio miners "one big union," vanished here today when delegates to the 37th convention of District No. 6, United Mine Workers, overwhelmingly defeated a resolution offered from the convention floor.

Following a partial report of the resolutions committee the convention endorsed the old age pension bill offered at the present legislature, and the bills introduced to limit the activities of justices of the peace to their own townships.

SMITH ILL AS HE AWAITS TOGA

WASHINGTON, Jan. 20.—Senator-designate Frank L. Smith, Republican, of Illinois, was considerably relieved today from an ear affliction with which he has been suffering. An abscess in the ear was lanced last night and afforded relief. Smith expected to again be present in the senate today, where his claims to a seat are being contested.

LONDON, Jan. 20—Further rioting broke out at Foochow today where the Nationalists are beyond the control of the Chinese authorities, according to a Central News dispatch from Shanghai.

The rioters were reported to have looted one American and two British schools at Foochow.

The latest reports from Hankow stated that banking facilities were disorganized due to the demands of the banks' employes for increased wages.

SALEM MAN GETS PRISON SENTENCE

Pleading guilty to an indictment charging him with issuing a fraudulent check, W. M. Brown, Salem, was sentenced to serve from one to three years in the Ohio penitentiary by Judge W. F. Lones in common pleas court, Lisbon, yesterday. The indictment charging him with obtaining money under false pretense has been dropped.

William House, also of Salem, who was indicted for breaking and entering in the day time and committing larceny, has been sentenced to serve from one to two years in prison, following a trial by a jury. Motion for a new trial has been overruled.

ASSAULT CASE JURY DISAGREES

After being locked up for two hours, a jury in common pleas court at Lisbon disagreed in the case of Elizabeth Kay of Middleton, indicted by the January grand jury on two counts charging assault and battery.

The case went to the jury at 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon. Shortly after 5 o'clock word was sent out from the jury room that an agreement appeared impossible.

The charge against Mrs. Kay was preferred by her sister, Mrs. Bertha Lyder.

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 20.—L. C. Price, Democrat, former resident of Tuscarawas county, has been named state prohibition inspector, according to an announcement made here today by state prohibition commissioner B. F. McDonald.

ADMINSTRATION CHIEFS LAUNCH FINAL DRIVE FOR SENATOR-DESIGNATE

Friends of Illinois Man Resort to Art of Demosthenes in Efforts to Talk Governor Len Small's Appointee Into Being Allowed to Take Oath of Office.

COLONEL IS HALTED AT PORTALS WITH MAJORITY WAITING TO BAR HIM

Led by Senator Watson of Indiana, Republican Spokesmen Seek to Gain His Admission by Force of Argument, Demanding Respect for State's Sovereign Power to Name Man.

By WILLIAM R. HUTCHINSON.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 20.—Unleashing a flood of oratory in the senate, administration leaders this afternoon launched a final drive to talk Col. Frank L. Smith (R.) of Illinois, into being allowed to take his oath as a United States senator.

With Smith halted at the portals and knowing that a majority of the senate is waiting to bar him, Republican spokesmen sought to gain him admission by the force of argument. Led by Senator Watson (R.) of Indiana, they demanded the senate respect the sovereign power of Illinois to name a senator of his own choice.

Although Smith appeared certain of disappointment, administration forces were wielding a tremendous influence to gain his temporary admission to the senate. As the debate entered its second day, a re-check of an earlier poll indicated Smith would be denied the oath of office by a vote of 48 to 37. Unless there develops a last minute turnover, even his supporters conceded his defeat.

Democratic-Insurgent Coalition.

The battle over admitting Smith found the old Democratic-Insurgent coalition revived and uniting against him. Their attack was based chiefly on the Reed campaign committee's revelations that Smith accepted $207,000 in gifts from public utilities of Illinois for his primary campaign while serving as chairman of the state's utilities commission, that his personal expenditures were $287,000—far more than Newberry's—and that in all $450,000 was spent in his behalf. With this record in the primary, the coalition maintained that Smith was not entitled to ever become a member of the senate.

The administration threw its support to Smith and its spokesmen contended that he was entitled to his oath of office, even if his alleged primary misdeeds justified his expulsion later. The Republican leaders argued that the senate had no right to reject the credentials given by Governor Len Small, but rather were compelled to accept them on their face.

Bitterness In Debate.

The debate meanwhile developed considerable bitterness. The Insurgents particularly were angered by the attitude of regular Republicans, pointing out that the senators who are now defending Smith were the first to demand that one of their own group—Senator Nye, of North Dakota—should be denied the oath a year ago.

Both factions expressed a willingness to decide the issue by a vote before adjournment tonight. Unless there are last minute changes, it was apparent Smith would be denied the oath. The first day's debate, however, showed that Senators Borah (R) of Idaho, King (D) of Utah, and Steck (D) of Iowa, who were reported opposed to Smith, had been won over to the plan to give him the oath. While this reduced the majority against Smith, it still left him a half dozen votes short of a seat in the senate.

May Pass Upon Woods' Nomination.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 20.—Unless forced to postpone it because of the Smith case, the senate today will pass upon the nomination of Cyrus E. Woods, of Pennsylvania, as a member

Boy, Who Floats Out Into Lake on Ice, Believed Lost

CLEVELAND, Jan. 20.—Hope virtually was abandoned here today of rescuing a boy who floated out into Lake Erie last night on a cake of ice.

The youth was seen signalling for help about a mile from the shore. Coast guard boats and fire tugs ploughed through ice choked waters in an effort to save him but darkness overtook them.

Although the search was maintained all night, it is believed that the youth succumbed to the cold and slipped from his icy craft.

Police are making a check in an effort to establish the missing boy's identity.

Captain Greene, 64, Ohio River Packet Line Owner, Dies

CINCINNATI, Jan. 20.—Captain Gordon C. Greene, 64, widely known in all Ohio river cities and founder of the Greene steamboat line which operated extensively along the Ohio, died in his Hyde Park home here today.

Capt. Greene, owner of 25 steam boats during his career, was perhaps the best known riverman in the middlewest.

MURDER PUZZLES CANTON POLICE

CANTON, O., Jan. 20—Another murder mystery faced the Canton police department today, following the discovery late yesterday of a man's body in the settling basin of the garbage disposal plant.

Chief of Police John Wise declared that a hole in the back of the victim's head indicated that he had been murdered.

Identification was made difficult as the man's clothing had been torn off as the body was swept through a sewer main.

KENTUCKY EVANGELIST, WHO ADMITS SOULS ARE NOT SAVED AT PRIZE RING, TELLS CHURCH-GOERS HIS IMPRESSION OF TUNNEY-DEMPSEY FIGHT

Dr. Clyde L. Fife, one of the Radio Log Cabin Boys from Kentucky, who sat at the ringside on the night that Jack Dempsey lost his heavyweight championship crown to Gene Tunney, last night told a capacity crowd at the Tabernacle church of Christ, Pennsylvania avenue, his impressions of the Philadelphia battle.

Seeing a title prize fight does not corrupt an evangelist from the Blue Grass state, judging from the sermon preached by Dr. Fife.

Taking as a pattern the Apostle Paul, who went to the Roman races, saw the contests and then preached a sermon on "Let No Man Take Thy Crown," Dr. Fife went to the Tunney-Dempsey battle, saw the bout and took the same text.

During his sermon Dr. Fife said:

"Having been requested by one of the more conservative New York papers to go as a press correspondent to the Dempsey-Tunney prize fight in Philadelphia and write my impressions of the fight, and to draw such lessons and 'write your reactions, impressions as from one of the most famous evangelists in the United States.' I herewith gladly present what I have to say and straight off the bat.

"First of all, let me say that it was the most marvelous crowd I was ever in; 140,000 people from all parts of the world. The vice-president, cabinet members, senators, foreign ambassadors and nearly all the elders and deacons of churches whom I ever knew. They would sock me on the back and say: 'Hello, Clyde, what are you doing here?'

"'Reporting for a New York paper.'

"'Well, what do you think of that?'

"If you can conceive a mighty valley with hills on each side, silhouetted against the dark blue sky and all in the shape of a bowl and people sitting thick as blades of grass, you can imagine the immensity of it all, for it looked to be a quarter mile long and half as wide anyhow. Every soul there saw everything. One could read the finest type of a newspaper under the white light. A great, immense and marvelous county fair crowd, two per cent, women, known as the weaker sex and wrongly so-called.

"There it was—in the cradle of American liberty, a soldier boy, a marine, clad in a marvelous dressing gown—the gift of his buddies and the marine insignia on the back of it. It was enough to make thrifty Ben Franklin and peaceful, brotherly, William Penn, turn over in their graves—140,000 present and a $2,000,000 gate.

"Yes, 140,000 pop-eyed fans as orderly as any church I ever attended. Not a detail overlooked by the master of this mightiest assembly ever gathered on American soil.

"I talked personally with Tex Rickard. Just a plain man about the exact size of Billy Sunday, and quiet, unmoved. Wore blue serge suit worth about $20, a gray hat like mine and not the slightest trace of affectation. I liked him immensely. He said he was glad I came and treated me like I was just a brother cow puncher from Goldfield and had he known I have slept on the ground out in that country, he might have liked me even better.

"The men who came there pure and clean for a gala day, went away as clean as they came. Rich men were there with their boys. I am poor, but I wished to God for my Junior, for there wasn't a thing he could not have seen. But those who were rotten in life went away the same way. I never saw a man drunk, I never smelled any whiskey on any one and saw only one pint bottle and it was empty and had been set under a drinking fountain. Every man in his place. Tex Rickard never came in sight of the fight.

"It was a marvelous amount of cash for an evening's pleasure, this two-million-dollar gate, but no one would come again tonight to see it done over. It was settled and those fans play the role of bankers, business men, and all lines of professional life this morning.

SECRET SERVICE MAN HAS TASK KEEPING UP WITH 'FIRST LADY'

WASHINGTON, Jan. 20.—Mrs. Calvin Coolidge emerged from the senate restaurant.

MRS. CALVIN COOLIDGE

She had been listening to a debate on the Mexican and Nicaraguan situations, in which she is much interested, and dropped into the restaurant for a bite before returning to the White House. She lunches frequently in the senate restaurant.

As Mrs. Coolidge proceeded toward the east exit from th ecapitol her secret service bodyguard, Jim Healey, fell in, a discreet few steps behind her.

The doorkeeper touched his cap. "Shall I call your auto, ma'am?" he asked.

"Oh," said the "first lady" with her dazzling smile, "I'm on foot."

IT'S a good four miles from the White House to the capitol and back, but Mrs. Coolidge walks it almost every day, when congress is in session.

Nor is that all the walking she does. Mrs. Coolidge is one of the most notable pedestrians in Washington. She walks far and she walks fast. Jim Healey has to step to keep up. He trails the "first lady" an average of eight or ten miles a day in fair weather, and often she dons a raincoat and ventures out when it isn't so fair.

She wears the simplest kind of dress, with skirt a little more than knee length, and common-sense heels on her rambles.

IT'S thus that Mrs. Coolidge keeps her girlish figure at 48.

The president is taking on a bit too much flesh. He, also, is a walker, when he has the time, but business interferes. He misses a great many constitutionals. His doctor made him cut out his breakfast sausage recently.

Mrs. Coolidge eats what she likes. She's diet-proof, with the exercise she gets.

THE White House mistress has made pedestrianism quite a fad in Washington society.

It isn't as classy as it was for a woman in the smart set to be seen always rolling by in a high-priced limousine. The sweller thing is to get into a walking suit and pair of stout shoes and go for a hike, head up and elbows crooked, a la Mrs. Coolidge, down the Avenue of the Presidents, or out to the Tidal Basin, or over to the capitol.

It's all right for the flappers, but it makes some of the dowagers pant.

A few have adopted the custom of having a lackey tag along behind, to look like an escort, like Jim Healey, in the "first lady's" wake.

WHEN the president stirs out he has at least three attendants with him —one big husky almost abreast of him, with a couple more a dozen paces in the rear and maybe one or two keeping a watchful eye on the party from over the way.

His wife finds Jim Healey guardian enough.

She's as democratic as can be, and speaks to everybody who speaks to her, which hundreds of people do who know her only by sight and whom she doesn't know at all.

There are a few homes where she calls, too, on her excursions. Theoretically the members of the presidential family call on nobody, but these visits are unofficial. Whenever you see Jim Healey on somebody's doorsteps, waiting, you know Mrs. Coolidge is inside.

Jim has a responsible job and a hard one, on shoe leather, but it has its attractions for a man who likes the open air.

Hold Five in Man's Death.

LORAIN, Jan. 20—Five men are in custody here for investigation in connection with the death of James Beattie, 61, shipyard worker. Coroner Miles E. Perry, of Elyria, declared that the man had been killed by a blow on the head. Associates of Beattie stated that he had fallen down a hatchway.

Belgium has an airplane ambulance.

U. S. CLAY MINES LEASE TRACT

Warehouse to be Erected Near Beleek Street.

The United Clay Mines Corporation, headquarters of which are located in Trenton, N. J., today took over a one-acre tract of land along the C. & P. railroad near Beleek street, on which will be erected a warehouse for domestic and imported clays.

According to C. C. Engle, general sales manager, a railroad switch will be run to the site. Clay bins and a modern brick office building are included among the improvements which will cost about $25,000. Work on the warehouse will be started next spring.

The company operates mines in New Jersey, Maryland, South Carolina and Florida and also deals in ball and china clays imported from England. Clays used in the manufacture of general ware and paints and in the rubber and pulp paper industries will be handled, Engle said.

The company has maintained small yards in East End for about five years. H. A. Miles, 1240 Erie street, is the East Liverpool representative.

Saxony, Germany, is planning an extensive automobile road system.

A railroad is being constructed into the banana district of Panama.

MOOTED PROBLEM FOR HIGH COURT

A question of whether a person entitled to compensation for injuries under provisions of the state compensation act has the right to sue for damages, has been certified to the supreme court by the Cabell county circuit court. The case is that of E. S. McVey against the Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone company.

It was docketed by the supreme court yesterday.

McVey brought suit in the Cabell court for $25,000 for injuries said to have been received by his wife, when struck with an exchange plug jerked out of the board by an operator sitting at her right hand. The basis of the charges of neglect are that the incompetent and "reckless" operator was allowed to work by her.

A supplement to the main question certified is whether the declaration states facts to constitute a cause of action against the telephone company.

GISH PICTURE IS APPEALING

Lillian Scores in "Scarlet Letter" at American.

When Nathaniel Hawthorne wrote "The Scarlet Letter," the world knew that he had produced a classic, but it remained for Lillian Gish to prove to the world that he had also written one of the greatest dramas of all times.

"The Scarlet Letter," Miss Gish's latest starring vehicle, is a drama almost appalling in its magnitude. It took her six years to persuade a producer to let her play it, but her ambition is justified in the remarkable play now being shown at the Ceramic theatre. "The Scarlet Letter" is certain to take its place as a classic of the screen.

The theme of the new Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer production is the story of a woman surrounded by intolerant Puritans, who carries a badge of shame through life to shield the man she loves. In such scenes as the amazing pillory scene, where her lover, under pretense of exhorting her, voices his love and his remorse, and she vows deathless love, the drama of the situation is so tense as to be almost unbelievable.

Miss Gish is beautiful as well as compellingly convincing as the ill-fated "Hester Prynne" of the story, and Victor Seastrom's direction is remarkably fine. She plays the role of the Puritan girl facing life's greatest tragedy with an appealing wistfulness that grows into poignant tragedy as the powerful story unfolds.

In playing this part Miss Gish made what she referred to as a monument to her ancestors. Of early Puritan ancestry and herself a member of the Daughters of the American Revolution, the star took a deep personal interest in living the part of "Hester Prynne" before the camera.

Hanson New Type.

Lars Hanson, the Swedish star, makes his debut as her leading man. He is a figure of rugged strength, and a type entirely new to the screen. His artistry is immense. Henry B. Walthall gives a convincing portrayal of Dr. Prynne, Nemesis of the heroine, and Charlotte Corday as Mistress Hibbins, the village gossip. Karl Dane as "Giles" the village barber, Mary Hawes, William H. Tooker, James A. Marcus, Jules Cowles, Fred Herzog and little Joyce Coad are all ideally cast.

The settings are elaborate and beautiful, and the photography so beautiful that it at times suggests oil painting.

PLANT WORKERS TO STAGE SHOW

Legislative Over-Production

The legislative factories are beginning their work of law-making again. Here is one field where serious over-production is possible. Says the secretary of the national industrial council:

"An increasing number of new law promoting groups outside of those serving in the legislatures of the country are revealed in an investigation of the state legislation outlook. These organized instigators of new laws representing active minorities and special class groups are annually descending on state capitals in greater flocks, each with its own panacea or special class advantage in mind and endeavoring by legislative decree to restrain, reform or arbitrarily control the conduct, morals, business methods and domestic lives of othes.

"They virtually overwhelm any desire by legislators to enact nothing but that legislation which is essential for the effective and reasonable administration of governmental authority."

Almost everyone agrees that there are already to many laws. But everybody with a pet law to present to a legislature believes that restriction of law-making should begin after his is enacted.

Here is a place where private citizens should let the legislators know that restraint will be welcome; that they'd like to have legislators dare to say "no."

A Girl's $100

Of all the amazing facts laid bare in the government suit against former Ford stockholders, none makes a wider public appeal than the story of Miss Couzens' $100 investment.

When James Couzens, now United States senator, invested his own small savings in Henry Ford's new motor enterprise back in 1903, and had difficulty in getting together the few hundreds needed, he went to his sister, now Mrs. Rosetta V. Hauss. She had saved $100, and was willing to lend it to Brother James, not because she knew or cared anything about Henry Ford and his crazy inventions, but because she liked her brother and believed in him.

That little hundred went into the Ford pot and James saw that it participated duly in the Ford earnings. So it came about that in the next 10 years, Rosetta received $47,000 in dividends from the Ford Motor company. Then when it was recapitalized in 1915, she was given $50,000 in new stock for her holding. In the next four years, until Henry Ford bought out the minority stockholders, that stock grew to $260,000, while paying her dividends of $460,000. Her original investment of $100 had brought her three-quarters of a million in 16 years.

This is just a little story that is interesting because people and money are interesting. If there is any moral to it, perhaps it is that sisters should have faith in their brothers. And that may not be a safe doctrine to preach, because brothers, with the best intentions in the world, have been known to lose their sisters' money. Ordinarily faith without loans is safer. But what a glorious vindication this was of sisterly confidence!

The Chaplin Scandal

The world has not only liked Charlie Chaplin, but admired and respected him, as it awoke to his ability and significance. He had marital infelicities, like many another artist, but was very involved in any public disgrace. While scandal swept through Hollywood, it passed him by.

Now scandal whirls around him and threatens to submerge him. He is as pathetic a figure in life as he ever was on the screen.

It is well for the public to be fair to a sensitive and intelligent actor who has given it a vast amount of clean fun in the past and who may benefit hereafter a none too happy world by helping it to forget its troubles. Very serious charges have been brought against Chaplin in the divorce suit filed against him. They may or may not be true. He deserves his hearing, in public opinion as in court procedure. Fortunately the public is inclined to take this view of the matter, holding him innocent until he is proved guilty.

This argument applies as well to Chaplin pictures as to Chaplin himself. It looks unfair to boycott a picture because the actor who made it has been accused of unproved offenses. There should be time enough for that when both sides have been heard.

Physiological Movies

The surgeons haven't left much mystery about human benigs' nward parts, and soon there won't be any left at all. Everything will be made plain by a device on which three British scientists are now working.

It is a sort of moving X-ray picture machine. Evidently some other ray than the present X-ray will be used, to give the necessary speed of operation, but the principle will be the same. Instead of single photographs, then, of bones or teeth or organs, there will be regular movies of the organs in operation. The new camera will show digestive processes, the beating of the heart, the circulation of the blood, etc. Thus any case may be more accurately diagnosed, and much new light thrown on mysterious bodily processes and functions.

That's interesting and useful, but disconcerting to old-fashioned, modest persons, who really don't fancy having other people look right into them and see what's going on inside. There won't be much privacy left, as this scientific age proceeds.

WHO'S WHO IN NEWARK.

Back in those old sinful wet days, two gentlemen, both far overtaken in alcoholic stimulant, were seen under a lamp-post on a street corner in Newark, clinging to each other for support.

As a spectator passed them he overheard the following dialogue carried on in somewhat fuzzy accents.

Said Souse Number One:

"Do you know Bill Talbot?"

Said Souse Number Two after a moment of reflection:

"No; whuzzis name?"

NEW YORK DAYBYDAY
By O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, Jan. 20.—No American street is so apparently shock-proof as Broadway. It has the languid manner of having seen and heard everything. It is not unusual for an open stage door to reveal half naked maidens one-two-three-ing to a director's baton with no curious passers-by stopping to peep.

An amusing drawing—I think it was in Life—illustrates the Broadway mind. A man was telling a friend that a Lady Godiva was to ride a horse down the big stem at a certain hour next day. "I'll be there' said the friend. "I haven't seen a horse in a long time."

While the rest of the world was declaiming shrinkage of skirts it is not exaggeration to say Broadway girls were halting in mid-stream brazenly to rouge their bare knees. Fifth avenue makes the fashions and Broadway embroiders the idea.

Several years ago the avenue introduced sheer flesh colored stockings for women and a few weeks later Broadway was showing net stockings with a mesh as big as a dime and it was not many months later they were wearing no stockings at all.

Last summer I was eye-witness to a close-up of Broadway immodesty. In a taxicab next to mine sat a blonde smoking a cigarette. A light shawl was around her shoulders and she wore brief rhinestone trunks and brassiere, but no other clothes.

She was one of those leaping Lena shiver dancers doubling in a theatre and cabaret and being late to the cabaret on a sultry evening, flung a shawl around her shoulders and hopped into a taxi. She wouldn't think of doing such a thing save on Broadway.

Moralists decry such didoes as a shameless show of decadence. They are nothing of the kind. Broadway is merely to busy with its own selfish affairs to be interested in the immodesty of others. It can at least be said of it that it has learned to mind its own business. That, messieurs et madames, is something, even on Broadway.

Manhattan has few alleys. I know of only two. Yet mystery tales of the metropolis continue to tell of pistoled bodies, murderous dens and other symbols of crime in dark alleys. No one incidentally so far as I know has written the romance of American alleys. London mews have been glorified glamorously by eminent authors yet apparently the only person to live in our alleys was a Tin Pan Alley creation named Sally.

All of which is remindful of the change that has come to Tin Pan Alley—which is not an alley but a piano thumping district given over to popular song making. Ten years ago a hundred or more lived sumptuously from fruits of their songs. One hit a year meant a limousine life. A song writer who wrote three hits in succession went into bankruptcy. Those today making "smart money" can be counted on the fingers of one hand. Phonograph records, the radio and lax copyright protection are contributing causes.

In the waiting rooms of radio stations are usually a group of dreamers of transcendental dreams. They cherish an almost futile hope of being broadcast to fame. Once in awhile some announced artist is unable to appear and they are given a chance but opportunity is seldom. Yet they come day after day with their ukes, violins and instruments of brass. Others want to sing, play the piano or deliver monologues. Recognition has, of course, come to a slim few in this fashion but the great majority are doomed to disappointment.

With few exceptions, too, the radio announcer is paid chiefly in personal glory. Some are able to ballyhoo for enterprises in which they are interested and perhaps enhance receipts, but mostly it is a non-paying profession.

HASKIN'S LETTER
By FREDERIC J. HASKIN

Maps for Aviators.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Jan. 20.—With the growth of aviation has come an increased demand for maps to guide aviators on long flights. The Department of Commerce has been charged with furthering the interests of civil aviation, and since the preparation of route maps will undoubtedly be one of the most important methods of doing this, the Coast and Geodetic Survey is preparing "to take the air," as it were.

Col. E. Lester Jones, director of the Coast and Geodetic Survey, points out that less than half the area of the United States is covered by the kind of maps needed by aviators. And pilots of airplanes must have maps. A pilot who is frequently out of sight of land must be guided over the land, even as the navigator of a ship is guided over the sea by charts and aids to navigation.

Col. Jones goes on to say that the aviator who can not see the ground must depend upon a barometer, but this is set to give elevations above the sea instead of the actual land surface. He may, therefore, believe himself to be several thousands of feet above the earth when as a matter of fact he is in imminent danger of striking a mountain slope or peak. Therefore maps of aerial routes must in some manner indicate the elevation of the ground. Also topographic features such as railroads, highways, rivers, cities, woods, and open country should be shown in their correct shapes and positions.

Such information as the above may be obtained from topographic maps. The trouble is, however, that at the present time only about 40 per cent of the area of the country is covered by such maps. Also much of this should be resurveyed in order to bring the maps up to date, since they were surveyed 40 or more years ago.

Supplementing Topographic Maps.

Col. Jones continues, "The Coast and Geodetic Survey for years has been extending accurate triangulation and leveling over the interior of the country for surveying, mapping, and other engineering uses. With this triangulation the highway system and the railroad system of the country can be correlated and placed in at least approximately their right positions on maps. The elevations furnished by the survey can be used for furnishing mean sea-level datum for surveying, mapping, and engineering operations. The topographic map can not be accurately made if the fundamental control work of the Coast and Geodetic Survey in the form of leveling and triangulation has not been completed for the area that it is to be mapped."

Few large areas of the United States have continuous topographic maps and something should be done about this for the industrial and commercial uses of the people as well as that route maps for airplanes may be accurately and expeditiously constructed. Col. Jones says that with only a slight increase of the engineering personnel the fundamental control systems of the country could be completed within ten years. After the work is once finished it will never have to be done again. The accuracy of the system of geodetic surveying used by the survey is so great that the needs of all time will be met and it will only occasionally be necessary to replace a triangulation station or leveling bench mark when old ones have been destroyed in some manner.

An accuracy almost uncanny is shown in the recently completed survey of a line of levels across South Dakota. The line extends from Sioux Falls westward to Edgemont, South Dakota, and forms a loop with another line about 75 miles south, running from Edgemont back to Sioux Falls. The circuit is 1,035 miles long and the closing error of the circuit, or the difference between the elevation of the bench mark from which work was started and the elevation of the same bench mark computed through the leveling, was only about one one-thousandth of an inch per mile. The Coast and Geodetic Survey's average closing errors of circuits of this kind is about six one-thousandth of an inch per mile.

While co-operating in the making of aerial maps for aviators is one of the newest things being done by the Coast and Geodetic Survey, it is not the only one of interest or importance. For instance, mariners are furnished with tide tables two years in advance and the Coast Pilot, which might be compared to an automobile trail guide such as is furnished to motorists, is published and distributed at the cost of printing and binding. In addition to this, Notices to Mariners, a joint publication of the Coast and Geodetic Survey and the Bureau of Lighthouses, is issued weekly so that mariners may be furnished with the very latest available data.

The Coast and Geodetic Survey dates back to 1807, when during the administration of Thomas Jefferson Congress authorized the establishment of a national Coast Survey. This bureau was to be under the jurisdiction of the Treasury Department, and the plan adopted for its organization was that submitted by Ferdinand R. Hassler. It was, however, impossible to take any actual steps toward putting this plan into action until 1811, when Hassler was directed to go to Europe to arrange for the construction of the necessary instruments and standards. The war of 1812 further interfered and

By Edna Wallace Hopper.

My hair, wavy, fluffy and abundant, is the envy of countless girls. Yet I never have a Marcel wave.

I accomplish this by applying what I call my Wave and Sheen. I do it after every shampoo. Then I comb my hair backward to give this wave and fluff, and the curl endures.

You can have and keep any style of hair you like best by applying my Wave and Sheen. It is greaseless, it is glossy, and it keeps the hair in shape.

Have curls or waves if you want them, as I do. Or have smooth hair and keep it smooth. Wave and Sheen simply treats the hair and keeps it in any style desired.

Once you use this wondrous hair dress you will never go without it. It adds a wealth of beauty to any woman's hair. Any toilet counter will supply it. Simply ask for Edna Wallace Hopper's Wave and Sheen. The price is 75c, and a guarantee comes with each bottle. Go try it today at my risk.

YOUNG PEOPLE OF TODAY O. K., SAYS AUTO KING

Henry Ford Points Out They Have Been Given Freedom.

STAND ON FEET

Denies Charge That Motor Car Turns Youth Lose.

Editor's Note:—Playing the role of "mine host" at historic Wayside Inn, South Sudbury, Mass., Henry Ford, the world's richest man, gave to an International News Service special correspondent the first exclusive authorized interview ever granted to a noted woman writer on the subject of women.

Previously the Detroit automobile magnate described the passing of the old-fashioned mother, told how drudgery must be taken out of housekeeping and how the Ford laboratory is working on food products to be chemically compounded to eliminate production through domesticated animals, and household preparation of food.

By Theodate Geoffrey, world traveled journalist, mother of three children, author of "Powdered Ashes," "An Immigrant in Japan," etc., etc.

SOUTH SUDBURY, Mass., Jan. 20.—"I believe the young people of today are better than they ever have been because they have been given freedom and have learned to stand on their own feet."

Henry Ford made this statement with a strong emphasis, although his ordinary conversational tone is so low and quiet it is difficult to follow him.

His Opinion of Jazz.

It was his way of answering the oft-made charge that the automobile in turning young folks loose, away from parental control, had contributed to license and immorality. Henry Ford does not think so.

"Better than ever before," he insisted. "You know, if you cage up a lion for a long while, and then suddenly release him, it is pretty hard to answer for what he will do. He will probably be pretty wild because he is not accustomed to liberty. But if you were to let him run loose, and settle into the feeling of freedom he would go into certain ways of acting and you could have confidence in what to expect of his habits."

"Jazz?" he repeated the word, in answer to a question.

"Jazz is music with the tune taken out."

"I like some tune in the music to which I dance, but when they commercialized dancing and jazz they took all the tune out of it."

I had watched, a little earlier, Mr. and Mrs. Ford in the old ball room of the old "Red Horse Tavern," immortalized by the poet, Henry Wadsworth Longfellow. They were taking a lesson in the intricate maneuvers of the lancers, to the strains of an orchestra of four players, all workmen in the Ford factories, which they had brought with them from Detroit.

I asked if he looked for the revival of old-fashioned dancing to make people take more of their recreation in their own home.

"No," said Mr. Ford, frankly, "you can't expect the young people to do much with music or dancing in the homes. Records for the Victrola have helped and the radio; but recreation is really more of a community affair. Get a crowd together and they have more fun."

Attend School House Opening.

Mr. and Mrs. Ford had come from Michigan to Sudbury this week especially to be present at the opening of the very little red school house to which Mary and her little lamb went. Fourteen children from the families in the neighborhood are studying there.

"We have sixteen hundred children in our school at Dearborn," went on Mr. Ford, "and they all get instruction in practical arts and manual training.

Opposes Psychological.

"No, I do not advocate psychological tests to pick out what job a child shall be trained for. Let them study and try things and they will soon sort themselves out to the jobs they like and can do well. We get the timber for executives in our personnel by that natural process. A man soon shows what work he likes, is promoted, makes good.

"We give the children plenty of chance to see the way things were done in the old times, and to show them the fundamental processes. They can think out improvements. You have to let people think things out for themselves.

"We have the old mill on this prosperity, now restored and running, so that the production of bread, for instance, from the growing of the grain on the farm through the grinding and milling, and so forth.

"As a matter of fact, we have five village industry plants here as Sudbury already. One for instance, has to do with the weaving cloth. The children, as they graduate from the school, will have the opportunity of going into whatever industry interests them, and they can choose because they will have had practical experience of the various sorts, to judge by."

WELLSVILLE CITY HAS ENOUGH FUNDS TO MEET NEEDS

ELMER WALKER TELLS AUDITOR OUTLOOK'S O. K.

Eckfeld and Two Councilmen Make Trip to Lisbon.

LEVY UNCHANGED

Council Can File Amended Appropriation Later in Year.

The city of Wellsville will be able to operate through the year in good financial condition, according to an announcement by County Auditor Elmer Walker today following a conference yesterday at Lisbon with City Auditor Fred Eckfeld and Councilmen Connor and Peters.

Auditor Eckfeld and the solons had been authorized by council at a meeting on the night previous to confer with the county authorities in an effort to obtain a half mill levy increase to bring in more municipal revenue for the year, it being felt that receipts for the year would be insufficient to permit the municipality to operate conveniently.

The same levy that was in existence for operating expenses last year was made for the current tax duplicate, according to County Auditor Walker.

"This levy for operating expenses," asserts Walker, "stands at 2.26 mills has heretofore."

A comfortable balance was shown in all funds, according to the auditor, who pointed out that "with money being received from other sources during the year, it is quite likely that Wellsville will come through the year in good condition. The council can file an amended appropriation later in the year and then can be included those funds as received from other sources which will include fines and other possible receipts."

The following notice is being sent by the auditor to all those in charge of financial affairs of taxing districts:

"I hereby certify that the appropriations filed in this office by your taxing district for the year 1927 do not exceed the amount of the official estimates of revenues and balances of said taxing district, as made by the budget commission of Columbiana county, Ohio, for the year 1927."

No funds can be spent by any taxing district until after a copy of the notice has been received by the fiscal agent of that district.

WOMAN SAVES MINE EMPLOYE

Stops Engine as Blacksmith is Caught in Belt.

The presence of mind of Mrs. Maggie McNicol, of Salineville, probably saved the life of Frank Starkey, a blacksmith, employed at the Columbia Coal mine, two miles east of Salineville, when the latter was caught in a moving belt recently.

Mrs. McNicol, who chanced to be visiting at the plant, went into the engine room just as the accident happened and realizing the situation, shut off the engine.

Starkey was severely bruised and cut but, a preliminary examination revealed, sustained no broken bones.

ICY STREETS CAUSE MOTOR CRASHES HERE

Two Trucks, Two Pleasure Cars Towed in for Repairs.

NONE INJURED

Two Skid Over Hillside on Kountz Avenue Road.

Trucks owned by James Pugia and Feldman's Grocery store, and pleasure cars operated by O. F. Candoo and Earl Lockheart figured in motor accidents in Wellsville during the last two days as a result of slippery condition of streets.

Pugia's truck, engaged in hauling coal, slid off the roadway above Kountz avenue. A large tree in the path of the truck prevented it from descending the embankment. The front end of the machine was damaged.

Repairs to the Feldman company truck also were necessary after the machine skidded up over a sidewalk at Eighteenth street and rammed a telephone pole.

Car driven by O. F. Candoo slid on the ice east of the county bridge and crashed into the heavy curbing next to the embankment. The wheels were damaged.

Occupants of Lockheart's car were shaken up when the machine slipped over the Kountz avenue hill road. The car's momentum was checked in time to prevent it from turning over.

The four machines were towed into the Gilbert McGeehan garage, in Wells avenue.

IN MEMORIAM.

In loving memory of my darling wife Irene who died one year ago today:

There is no death! The stars go down
To rise upon some fairer shore;
And bright in Heaven's jewelled crown
They shine forevermore.

This attraction will be staged as the second half of a double bill with the Wellsville and Salem girls' teams figuring in the preliminary.

Salem has been hitting a fast clip this season, with victories in recent weeks over Alliance, Akron East, Wooster, East Liverpool and other teams of a like caliber.

The first game will start at 7:30 o'clock.

REPORTS FROM STOCK MARKETS

NEW YORK, Jan. 20.—Stocks of the prominent and financially strong American oil companies retained their position of leadership in the early trading in the stock market today. Aggressive pool work in Sinclair, Mid Continent, Phillips, Marland and other well known oils resulted in a heavy turnover in the oil shares at a fractionally higher range of prices.

Selling of industrial stocks today was based somewhat on possibility of a contraction in the volumn of construction business, one of the corner stones of the post-war business boom.

Offerings of the motor stocks were much smaller in volume than in the two previous sessions of the market and prices were generally steady. Rails were quiet, with a slight buying movement in the St. Pauls and other low prices speculative issues. Profit-taking appeared in the oils in the second hour and early gains were wiped out.

Beware Warning Signals of Failing Glandular System

Science Now Knows That Tired, Weak, Worn-Out Conditions Often Caused by Glandular Insufficiency.

THOUSANDS of men and women are weak, worn-out, run down and exhausted, losing strength and losing weight, and fail to recognize the cause, which is often glandular insufficiency, or a weakened glandular system.

Glands exert a remarkable influence on normal health and vigor, according to eminent medical authorities, and when the glands fail to function, health fails.

Science now points a new way to vigorous health and vitality—glandular treatment. Now eminent physicians of this country and Europe prescribe glandular treatment for glandular insufficiency. Remarkable benefits result often in a short time.

If you are weak-worn-out and run down, seek the thrill of vigorous health and vitality this new way.

Glandogen, the new scientific gland tonic, provides a simple method of taking glandular treatment. Glandogen is prepared in convenient tablet form, for men and for women. Accept no substitutes. Insist on genuine Glandogen, the original gland tonic.

FORM BOYS' CLUB AT YELLOW CREEK

At a meeting of the Yellow Creek Township Farm Bureau held at the township house this week, a movement was launched for the formation of a 4-H club for boys in that township. A committee composed of Willet Boyd and Paul Serafy was appointed to locate boys who are interested in this class of boys' club work and make plans for an early meeting of this group. Boys between the ages of 10 and 18 years are eligible to membership in the 4-H club, work in which is included pig, calf, poultry and potato activities.

Girls are to be enrolled in the Food and Clothing clubs, and this club work in Yellow Creek township last year was in charge of Miss Margaret Smith, who was designated the club leader. In this county last year 430 boys and girls were enrolled in club work, according to records just announced by County Agent Floyd Lower.

Mother! Now You Know How To Help Your Puny, Weak Child

It's You Duty to Aid Him To Grow Strong, Active and Sound in Body and Mind.

That little boy or girl of yours—that doesn't weigh enough—that isn't strong—has no appetite—lacks vigor and is perhaps backward, listless and timid.

What are you going to do with him?

Have you ever heard of McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Compound Tablets sugar coated and as easy for ailing children to take as candy?

Every druggist in America sells them—60 tablets, 60 cents—and the supremely good combination of upbuilding agents surely does help the sickly, run down, puny, frail little ones.

No need to give him any more nasty Cod Liver Oil—McCoy's Tablets, rich in vitamines, are made to take the place of that good but evil smelling, stomach upsetting medicine and they surely do.

Try them as directed for 30 days, mother; and if at the end of that time you are not delighted with the improvement in your dear little one, get your money back.

STRONG SERMON BY EVANGELIST

Rev. C. E. Rostofer Speaks on "Greatest Sin in Chester."

Rev. C. E. Rostofer, of Ashtabula, spoke last night at the revival services in the First Christian church when "Women's Night" was observed. His subject was "The Greatest Sin in Chester." Large crowd attended.

He spoke in part as follows: "The essential thing in any life or calling is to be aroused to a deep sense of need. Many in Chester as elsewhere have lost their sense of need of a saviour and this has led to indifference, carelessness and a dissipated life. It was the mission of John the Baptist to arouse in those cold, selfrighteous, stiff necked Pharisees a sense of need of a saviour; a conviction of sin and this is a conviction that a saviour is needed.

"It is the mission of the gospel today to awaken within us the conviction of our need of the Christ. This is Chester's greatest need. How can a man escape if he neglect so great a salvation. The gospel has sounded out from the pulpits of Chester for years and many have heard it but carelessly replied, we have no need of a saviour, my soul is safe as far as I know. This is the unpardonable sin, for the soul has become hardened, deadened and cannot respond."

Tonight has been designated as "Men's Night." Robert Thomas will sing a solo. Rev. Rostofer will have as his subject: "A Sermon to the Pastors of Chester." Women of the congregation will also attend the services.

REGULATION OF OHIO BARBERS IS ASKED IN BILL

PLAN LICENSE BOARD; EXAMS ARE PROPOSED

Present Tonsorial Shop Workers Would Register.

NEW TAX SYSTEM

Proposal to Restrict Auto Levies to Tags and "Gas."

LEAD ALL—PLAN LICENSE— n

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 20.—The house this afternoon was expected to take action on the resolution by Representative J. E. Finefrock, Stark county, proposing a correction and recodification of Ohio's school laws.

It is proposed that this work be done under direction of a special joint committee comprising two senators, two house members, the secretary of the Ohio Teachers' association, a president, or dean, of one of the State Normal school, and the inspectors of normal training.

The house late today is scheduled to recess until Monday night.

The senate did not meet today, having recessed over the week-end late Wednesday.

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 20—Regulation of Ohio barbers is sought in a bill, introduced by Representative H. S. Marshall, Cincinnati, pending in the house of representatives here today.

The bill provides for creation of a state commission to license barbers and to regulate this industry. Examinations would be provided for persons wishing to work as barbers. All present barbers would have to register after July 1, next, those not meeting requirements specified in the measure being compelled to take an examination.

A bill, providing for uniform method in levying taxes in local political subdivision and for preparation of budgets on the "pay-as-you-go" basis, was introduced by Representative C. H. Jones, Jackson. The bill is endorsed by the joint legislative committee on taxation and economy. It is a companion measure to the Krueger bill, now pending in the house, providing a uniform system for the issuance of bonds by these various local political subdivisions.

The Jones bill does away with the 10-mill interior limitation of the Smith one-percent tax act, provides an exterior limitation of 15 mills for combined tax levies, excepting those placed outside the limitation by a vote of the people, and restricts budgets to funds available.

A bill, by Representative O. S. Creighton, Marietta, increases from $25 to $50 the minimum fine which may be imposed upon a drunken auto driver. It also provides that such a driver may be deprived of driving rights for six months, in cases of first offense, and be imprisoned in the penitentiary from one to five years, if convicted a second time.

Itinerant jewelers in Ohio may disappear, if a bill, introduced by Representative Harry Davidson, Akron, becomes a law. The Davidson bill requires that jewelry sold at auction must be owned by the vendor six months prior to its sale, that the jeweler must be located in his place of business a year, or more, and limits him to one such sale annually. The sale must not last longer than 30 days. A penalty ranging from $100 to $500 is provided for violators of the proposed law.

Other measures pending in the legislature today include:

In the senate:

By Senator George H. Bender, Cuyahoga county, a resolution providing for submission at the November election of a proposed amendment to the Ohio constitution exempting automobiles from all taxes except license tag and gasoline taxes.

By Senator D. H. Dearmond, Butler county, authorizing abandonment for canal and hydraulic purposes that portion of the Miami and Erie canal between Middlestown and St. Bernard, Cincinnati. It is proposed to use the canal for a super-highway.

In the house:

By Representative Grant P. Ward, Franklin county, defining as public utilities companies and corporations, engaging, directly or indirectly, in supplying, for lighting, heating or power purposes, electricity, natural gas or oil, and transporting water, steam or air through pipes, or tubing, to customers, directly or indirectly, for heating or cooling purposes. The bill is designed to authorize the state utilities commission to regulate and fix rates for such concerns, including super-power electric transmission and pipe line companies.

By Representative J. E. Finefrock, Stark county, a resolution providing for recodification of Ohio's school laws. It is similar to the Comings resolution now pending in the senate.

IN MEMORIAM.

In memory of Mrs. Eliza Townley, who died one year ago today, January 20th, 1926.

Whose love can equal the love of a Mother;
Whose the devotion so loyal and true!
Who suffers so much with such a joy for another,
Who works with such pleasure as Mother for you!
You hail with delight the friendship of others,
You revel in love of the sweetheart you've won;
Yet where do you find a friendship like Mother's,
Unbroken till death calls and lifes work is done.

Lovingly remembered by Sons, Daughters and Grandchildren.

CHILE AND PERU DENY ARMING

WASHINGTON, Jan. 20.—Both the Chilean and Peruvian embassies here today disclaimed any knowledge of the reported arming of Peruvians against Chile following the break up of the Kellogg Tacna-Arica settlement negotiations.

Both embassies also stated there had been no development in the Tacna-Arica situation since the delivery of the Peruvian note to Secretary of State Kellogg on Monday. Nor has the state department made any further move toward bringing them to an agreement. Indications at the state department are that this government has exhausted its powers and will make no further move.

CRACK IN HILL BECOMES WIDER

Pennsylvania Avenue "Mountain" Moving, Says Engineer.

The 300-foot crack in the earth above Pennsylvania avenue near the Walter Bulger residence, which has been menacing street car and automobile traffic, was wider today, due it is believed, to thawing temperatures and a steady rainfall.

City Engineer Flay Clapsaddle visited the scene this morning, to make measurements of the earth movement by means of stakes which were driven December 26, the day after the crack made its appearance.

The ground, at the westerly end of the fissure, had moved several inches but so far as the engineer was able to determine there was no change in the crack near the Bulger home.

Representatives of The Steubenville, East Liverpool & Beaver Valley Traction company reported no slides along the avenue today.

Lawrence Copeland, United States weather observer at Millport, reported one and one-half inches of rain from Tuesday noon to last midnight.

Mahoning River at Flood Stage.

CLEVELAND, Jan. 20.—An unseasonal thaw, accompanied by heavy rains, has brought a mid-winter flood threat to many parts of Ohio.

The Mahoning river at Alliance has reached flood stage and water is standing several inches deep on the Lincoln highway east of that city.

Interurban tracks in several parts of Stark county have been inundated and transportation facilities crippled.

The Akron-Cleveland bus lines of the Northern Traction company have been temporarily suspended, due to the impassibility of roads in many places.

The Tuscarawas river has risen to an alarming stage at Dover. Workmen were forced to dynamite an ice gorge to insure a water supply.

Lorain reports several factories facing shutdowns as flood waters backed into their boiler rooms.

Further Rainfall Expected.

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 20.—With the Ohio rivers of the southern watershed approaching or past the flood stage, Weatherman Alexander today predicted flood stage for the Ohio river tributaries, and a flooding of the lowlands bordering on the Ohio river.

Reports from towns on the Ohio river near Cincinnati are not alarming, Alexander said, but with future rainfall expected tonight and Friday he expected the flood stage of 50 feet might be reached at Cincinnati sometime Friday when the flow of tributaries reach this stream.

At Coshocton the Kokosing river has reached the 25-foot stage while the flood stage is 20.5 feet.

The Scioto river at Circleville this morning stood 10.4 feet, compared with a flood stage of 10 feet.

The Olentangy, at Delaware, stood at 8.3 feet, and was rapidly approaching the flood stage of 9 feet.

At Athens the Hocking river gauge showed 14.5 feet and was expected to reach or pass the flood stage of 17 feet tonight or Friday.

At Zanesville the Muskingum river registered 20.5 feet, with a flood stage of 25 feet.

Railroad Worker Drowns.

CIRCLEVILLE, O., Jan. 20.—Search was being made today for the body of William Truex, 21, St. Paul, who was drowned when he fell from the top of a bridge over Big Walnut creek south of Asheville late Wednesday.

Employed by the Chesapeake & Ohio railroad, Truex was using a pike pole, trying to save new trestle work from being carried away by the raging waters. The pole became stuck in a large cake of ice which pulled him off the bridge. His body was carried down stream.

SPEAKER-COBB EXONERATION IS PREDICTED

New York Report Says They Will Get Clean Bill.

TRIS CONFIDENT

Rumored That Johnson Will be Made Pensioner.

NEW YORK, Jan. 20.—Ty Cobb and Tris Speaker are almost certain to be "exonerated and restored to good standing" as a result of the Johnson-Landis show down next week, according to a report in circulation today. The report was that Johnson would be retired as head of the American league and given a pensioner's job as president-emeritus, while Cobb and Speaker, already vindicated by Johnson's latest statement that they were dropped for incompetence and not dishonesty, would be, of necessity, restored to good standing.

CLEVELAND, Jan. 20.—In anticipation of being vindicated by Commissioner K. M. Landis, of all connection with an alleged "thrown" baseball game, Tris Speaker has gone into training to condition himself for re-entering the game.

The former pilot of the Indians today began a two-hour grind in a local gymnasium to limber his muscles for the baseball diamond next season.

Speaker refused to discuss his case, except to reiterate his previous statements that he expects complete exoneration when American league officials meet in Chicago next Monday.

Capital Hints Peace

Seek Middle Ground.

Somewhere between two poles of interpretation lies the middle ground which most observers here believe will be found, and which will enable both governments to emerge from the situation with dignity and equity. But considerable diplomatic jockeying, and considerable maneuvering, will be necessary before it can be reached, observers here believe.

Meanwhile, the Robinson resolution, urging the state department to arbitrate, reposes in the foreign relations committee. It is believed the resolution will command a majority of the committee any time it is put to vote. Senator Borah, chairman, favors it, as do his supporters, as well as the Democrats. A combination of insurgent Republicans and Democrats could pass it in the senate.

Because of the Smith fight on the floor, the foreign relations committee cancelled its scheduled meeting today and will meet tomorrow.

Peace Move in Nicaragua.

MANAGUA, Nicaragua, Jan. 20.—New efforts towards peace between the Diaz government and the Liberal party led by Dr. Sacasa, now in revolt are reported in progress.

Some Liberals are understood to have suggested to Dr. Sacasa that he appoint delegates to a peace conference to be held in Managua or aboard the United States cruiser Rochester.

President Diaz, it is understood, has made a tentative proposal that peace terms be discussed on the basis of the Conservatives offering the Liberals participation in the government, providing they accept the United States as a guarantor of future elections.

Efforts to have mediation by Salvador have thus far failed, as President Diaz apparently has not found the proposed Salvador mediators acceptable.

The government announces the decisive defeat of Liberal forces at Narajio, near the Costa Rican border, stating that the Liberals were forced to take refuge in Costa Rica.

MRS. CHAPLIN STEP AHEAD IN DIVORCE FIGHT

Charlie Gets Receivership Lifted, But Must Give Bond.

MONEY TIED UP

Contents of Safes in Star's Studio Disclosed

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 20.—Eighteen-year-old Lita Grey Chaplin was still ahead today in the divorce battle with Charles Chaplin in spite of the fact that Chaplin's attorneys have succeeded in securing a court order lifting the receivership from the famous comedian's Hollywood studio.

Mrs. Chaplin, through her attorneys, succeeded in making the receivership lifting order a move without any significance whatsoever because of the proviso attached to the order by Superior Court Judge Walter Guerin, calling for the deposit of a $1,000,000 bond before the order becomes effective.

Possible removal of the receivership from the studio, however, would not remove the restraining order placed on the comedian's personal properties and assets.

Mrs. Chaplin's attorneys by their determined efforts to block any move that might release the Chaplin millions succeeded in spreading on the court records secrets of Chaplin's finances for all the world to see.

Judge Guerin fixed the bond of Chaplin's Hollywood studio at $1,000,000 after receivers W. I. Gilbert and Herman Spitzel had disclosed the contents of two safes they had opened in the studio offices.

SIX HOT SHOTS ON BIG FIGHT

"I never saw a woman with a cigarette at the Dempsey-Tunney prize fight, and when you smoke them at home, sissy, you do worse than the women you sneered at for going to the fight.

"I never saw a man drunk and never saw but one half pint bottle of moonshine and it was empty and stuck under a water cooler.

"Jack stayed out of the ring too long. That is why the church goes to the devil before the onslaughts of the world filled with backsliding men and women with fatty degeneration of the heart and wheezing like a 10-year-old bull dog.

"Dempsey was asleep and hanging on the ropes in the third round, I believe, when he had socked Tunney with a wallop that would have killed a Jersey bull. Right there he lost his crown. It only takes one mistake to ruin a life and a career.

"Prohibition has stripped organized sport of its filth and lousy rags.

"Jack Dempsey was licked by Jack Kearns through litigation before they ever got to Philadelphia. Worry kills more men than wars."

Kentucky Evangelist

"The first lesson I learned is the immeasurable power of organized publicity. Good road, radio, airplanes, autos and rail service all helped. Gove the press time and they can make or damn any enterprise on earth.

"I learned the killing power of worry from Dempsey. Litigation, misunderstood. He fought two minutes, rested one. But we all wane in time. From John L. Sullivan to Gene Tunney, they all fall like a star.

Learns Soul Saving.

"We can't save souls by going to prize fights, but I learned helpful hints to soul winning I never dreamed before. The trained, sincere soul winner will bring home the bacon in souls saved.

"I got from this fight a point of contact I felt I was losing with men of the world. I was becoming critical of them and needed to understand them better, so I thank God I went to this memorable battle of the ages in the fistic world and believe by this new contact with men I shall reach many this year far on in sin.

"Next to me sat a man who seemed to know every hair of every fighter's head. When the lights came on again, I looked at my friend and he wore a surplice and was an Episcopal minister.

"Dr. Elliott of Harvard died the other day. He got about six inches in the papers. Rudolph Valentino lay a corpse at the same time with good four pages daily with a page of pictures. The world is not interested in brains and old men. They are keen on young men.

"I noted no evidences of suffering on the part of any of the fighters. If there was any, it was veiled. I have seen football players in my home town knocked out more times and deader to world than the man whom Monte Munn socked on the jaw.

"Is this an over-stimulation after the war? Are the people crazy to invest millions in a single stadium and tens of millions in admissions? To what extent will this go? Will the church come out on the top or on the bottom? Will this government stand under such gate receipts or will this country pass into the hands of Moscow? Is this the period of dissolution coming before the last days as described in the Bible? These are only a few of the questions that swept over me.

"I think this a wave of over-stimulation, a product of the frenzy of war, in a measure; but I also think that organized athletics and sports have come to stay. This will continue four or five years yet and then will come the greatest revival of religion the world has ever seen and it will come on the 19th centenary of the day of Pentecost, toward which I am living now and working.

History Repeats Itself.

"History repeats itself. Such festivals of sport preceded the downfall of Babylon, Greece, Rome, Spain, Portugal and other nations. What then must it spell for us, oh God? Of course theirs was attended with the depths of drunkenness and cruel brutality. But it had something of the same trend.

"I attribute this lavish expense to unprecedented prosperity of this country and to our national disease, which I call conspicuous consumption. In our last meeting in Wisconsin a young wife brought out what she called a $600 fur coat. It really cost about $175 but with that coat she put a sword right into every home in that town. Those women went after their husbands for $600 coats like she tigers with a bunch of kittens. It finally died out. An old Negro mammy blessed out her Negro husband for everything on her mind when he offered to buy a second-hand Ford. But when she was assailed by the neighbor who boasted of having had three major operations, she said to Sam: 'Sam, you black niggah, you go on and get dat secon han Ford. No black hussy like dat will evah boast roun over me. No, suh!'

"After this fight I re-read my Bible on the life of Jesus and Paul and found Jesus going where the people went. They said 'He associates and is the guest of harlots and sinners' yet he only reached out and had a message for such. Paul went down there to that Roman Arena. He was a Roman and did as the Romans do. So he talks about striving in these races and says: 'Let no man take thy crown' and that is my text for a moment.

Seek Incorruptible Crown.

"The liquid dew of youth, the splendor of coronation comes only to the victor. From the victorious Ben Hur in his chariot race to the moment when Referee Riley held up Gene Tunney's right hand, a sign of the victor, this striving has been going on. All the promises and crowns are for the overcomers. The loser sits in sorrow and defeat.

"If these strived for a corruptible crown, how much the more should we for the incorruptible? The corruptible perishes with the using, appetite fails, body sinks into the grave. When a man fails death stands by to give him the final wallop that lands him into eternity.

"The incorruptible crown stretches across two eternities. It never dims by use or competition, the cumulative power is in making men ready for eternity. The struggle ends only in death. When the good Queen of England was awarding medals for bravery she walked up to a poor boy with an arm and leg off and part of his face shot away and asked his name and what was the battle? The attendant responded: 'Inkerman was the battle and Trowbridge was his name.' 'Oh, God when will cruel wars ever cease?' and she stooped and kissed him as a mark of love and appreciation. I want every one here tonight to start again for the incorruptible crown and bear much fruit lest some man take thy crown."

of the interstate commerce commission.

A confidential poll showed 56 senators opposed to confirmation of Woods and but 36 ready to approve his appointment. As the vote probably will be taken behind closed doors, however, there were indications that these figures might be overthrown. Both Senator Reed (R.) of Pennsylvania, leading the fight for confirmation, and Senator Goff (R.) of West Virginia, leading the oposition, predicted victory.

The poll, however, showed 20 Republicans lined up against Woods, including Senators Borah, Couzens, Edge, Ernst, Frazier, Goff, Howell, Johnson, LaFollette, McMaster, McNary, Norbeck, Norris, Nye, Oddie, Pine, Sackett, Schall and Stewart. But three Democrats were reported favorable to Woods. Senators Hawes, Mayfield and Underwood. If the same lines are maintained on a secret ballot, it was apparent that Woods would be rejected.

The fight over Woods found the senate in a series of complicated factions. The groups opposing him included friends of the "open shop" mines in Tennessee, Kentucky and West Virginia, along with th ewhole insurgent bloc. The factions friendly to Woods included most of the conservative bloc and senators from states having union mines.

Maybe you and the good wife are thinking about a new home. If so, we would be glad to talk your plans over with you. No obligation, understand. Just a little visit. Come in and see us.

We've sort o' lost interest in Mars. What if people do live on it? We couldn't sell 'em any lumber.

Don't you kind of envy the fellow who owns his own home? Maybe you have a home-owning idea in mind.

Do any of you masculine readers carry a pocket-piece? We are surprised how many do. We know a man who has carried a potato for many years. It is withered, shrunk and petrified until it has completely lost its identity. The surface is smooth and glossy. We know another man who has carried an 1834 half dollar for years because that was the date his mother was born.

Maybe it doesn't cost as much to own a home as you think it does. Have you investigated?

Ever Hear This One?

The preacher closed his temperance sermon in a burst of oratory. "If I had my way," he shouted, "every drop of liquor in this country would be poured into the river! The congregation will now sing No. 262." And then he couldn't understand why the audience laughed. The name of the hymn was "Shall We Gather at the River."

'WE'RE IN NAVY' IS SCREEN HIT

Beery-Hatton Picture Rocks Ceramic With Laughter.

If the laughter which rocked the Ceramic theatre last night may be taken as evidence, the knockout landed during the opening sequence of "We're in the Navy Now," spells the audience's final verdict.

The whole gamut of the United States Navy's comical side is traversed in this superb Paramount feature. "We're in the Navy Now" sweeps over the prizefight arena with a rush of laughter and settles down to consistently exhilarating clean comedy in fun-infested scenes aboard an army transport bound for France.

As a pair of "goofy" gobs, the two stars,—Wallace Beery and Raymond Hatton, zig-zag through the Navy's intimate life in riotously funny fashion. The company includes Chester Conklin, as a transport captain; Tom Kennedy in the role of a petty officer; Lorraine Eason, the heroine; and Donald Keith, radio operator.

As a comedy cast—that coterie of artists is might hard to beat.

"We're in the Navy Now" hasn't missed a single laugh situation. It lands with a punch that will delight every ex-service man. It is just as truthfully funny about the Navy as "Behind the Front" was of the trenches and—it's even richer in comedy. Edward Sutherland, whose capable direction brought doughboy life to the screen in "Behind the Front," directed this new picture.

Hines declared that 17,000 loans to soldiers have been made by banks all over the country.

TIRED OUT AFTER HOUSEWORK?
When Your Steps Drag and Your Hands Feel Heavy
SOMETIMES life hardly seems worth living after a busy, tiring day. Aches and dull pains, perhaps a headache, or perhaps just a general feeling of being too weary to take any interest in anything.
But you shouldn't feel that way. Ordinary housework shouldn't wear you out. You need Plant Juice, Nature's own tonic of herbs, roots, barks, leaves and blossoms. Plant Juice works wonders, and is pleasant to take. Read what Mrs. Morris of 108 E. 13th Street, Wilmington, Del., says:
"Three years ago I suffered from indigestion and nervousness, and had a general breakdown. At night I just laid awake waiting for daylight to come. I was so weak I could not do my housework, and was just a wreck. I was discouraged as I spent hundreds of dollars not even getting relief. I began on Plant Juice in a half-hearted way, but the results were remarkable. My stomach feels like a new one, and I can eat three solid meals a day and enjoy every crumb. My nerves are calm and steady; I sleep the whole night through and wake feeling right smart and my housework is a pleasure. I have not had a day of sickness since I first took Plant Juice and that was three years ago. Before taking Plant Juice I weighed 92 pounds, today I weigh 128."
When you notice a big improvement after the first bottle, don't stop taking it. Give Plant Juice a chance to do you some real good. It acts on liver and bowels. Regulates and tones you up in a natural way—no griping.
Your druggist can supply you. Ask for the original Dillingham's Plant Juice. It has helped tired people for over 30 years.

Asks Bill to Make It Felony to Drive Auto While Drunk

COLUMBUS, Jan. 20.—Driving an automobile while under the influence of drink will be made a felony in Ohio if the Ohio Police Chiefs' association and state legislature follow the recommendations to be made here today by H. E. McClure, police chief at Mansfield.

The chiefs' legislative committee will meet with Chief Harry E. French of Columbus, president of the organization and draft new bills to be presented to the legislature.

Chief McClure in asking for the passage of this proposed bill points out that heavy court fines and jail sentences have failed to stop the practice of driving while drunk, and will demand a more drastic punishment.

Sciatic - Neuritis

The sciatic nerve, situated at the back of the hip joint is frequently the subject of Neuritis, giving rise to the painful disease Sciatica. The symptoms are intense pains which shoot down the thigh to the foot, often aggravated by walking, and with painful points along the course of the nerve, very tender to the touch.

The trouble is a very obstinate one and does not readily respond to ordinary treatment. It takes more than the usual pain sedative even to alleviate the pain. The best way to get relief from the persistent nerve racking pains of Neuritis is to get a bottle of Allenrhu Special Formula No. 2, which comes in capsule form. Take them as directed and in about 24 hours you should be able to notice that they have considerably reduced, if not almost banished, all pain and soreness. Continue faithfully and in a reasonable time you should be able to work and rest in comfort once again. J. D. Holloway and Mathews Med. store keeps Allenrhu Special Formula No. 2 in stock all the time and sells lots of it.

THREE MARRIAGE LICENSES ISSUED

Louis B. Copestick of West Virginia, a former resident of East Liverpool and Maudt Utt, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Utt of East Liverpool have procured a marriage license, and were married at the parsonage of the First United Presbyterian church at Lisbon by the Rev. J. C. Cameron.

Ervin C. Miller of Louisville, O., and Erma Meyers, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Erma Myers of Columbiana have obtained a marriage license. They are to be married by the Rev. Steiner.

Oren Tumey of East Liverpool, formerly residing at Bedford, Ind., and Ruby Harman, a stenographer, and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Harman of East Liverpool, but formerly residing in Maryland have been granted a marriage license. They are to be married by the Rev. Fowler at East Liverpool.

Case Settled.

The case of the B. F. Goodrich Rubber company against the Crubaugh-Chevrolet company of Lisbon has been settled and the proceedings dismissed.

The Goodrich company sued Crubaugh for $1,350 for tires sold and delivered and refused, it is alleged, to make adjustments on defective tires returned to Crubaugh by customers.

In the settlement made, Crubaugh was allowed full compensation for defective tires sold and the Goodrich company was paid $1,050 in full settlement of the claim and interest.

Verdict Returned.

A verdict for $2 592 has been returned by a jury in common pleas No. 2 in favor of the plaintiff, Albert L. Thayer and Rolland M. Johnson, partners and architects, against the First National bank of East Palestine. The petition which was filed October 1, 1923, sought a judgment for $2.160 and interest. The claim was for service as architects for the defendant interest.

Action Dismissed.

The action pending in common pleas court since October 8 last by J. N. Davidson against H. M. FREE DELIVERY PLANNED HERE

Provided postal requirements have been met, free delivery service will be established in Lisbon early in February, according to Postmaster J. Frank Adams. It has been made plain, however, that the service will not be established until 85 per cent of those residing within the corporate limits have complied with the requirements of the department.

In order to facilitate the early establishing of this service, the Firestone bank has announced its intention to distribute residence mail boxes free to applicants.

A survey of the village of Lisbon was made by the postal department early last year, when street signs were erected and within the last six months all houses were numbered.

Cited for Contempt.

Because Rolland Sprowl failed to pay his wife $10 per week for the support of a minor child after he filed an action for divorce against her, the court has cited Sprowl into court Jan. 21st at 10 o'clock to show cause why he could not be held in contempt. The support entry against Sprowl was made by Judge Spence Sept. 9th last. Sprowl has defaulted in his payments.

Report Affirmed.

In the matter of the application of the trustees of the A. M. E. Zion church of Salem to mortgage their property, an application for which was filed in court Nov. 16 last, the report of the trustees has been affirmed. The trustees sought a loan on their property for the purpose of completing an improvement program that has been aproved by the congregation.

Sale Confirmed.

A sale has been confirmed and a deed and distribution ordered in the case of the McKay Carriage company against G. A. Anderson for the foreclosure of a mortgage.

Similar entry has been made in the case of the Peoples Savings & Loan company of Lisbon against John W. Barnhart, an action that has been pending since August 11 last.

14 Divorce Actions.

Of the 37 new cases filed in common pleas court since January 3 up to the close of business Wednesday evening, 14 have been actions in divorce. This is a higher percentage of divorce actions filed in such a brief period of time than has been recorded in a year.

Court Schedule.

The appellate court of the Seventh Ohio judicial district will open at Ashtabula, Jefferson county, next Monday. Judge L. T. Farr will leave Lisbon Sunday for that county seat. The court will not sit in Columbiana county until the week of April 4. The fall term will open Nov. 14.

Motion Sustained.

A motion to secure the costs in the case of A. R. Johnson against Solomon Winslow and others has been sustained by Judge Lones. The plaintiffs have been ordered to deposit $25 to secure costs in this action within the next 30 days. The claim is for $1,200 for the alleged loss of property.

Old Case Revived.

An entry in one of the oldest cases pending in common pleas court has just been made when leave was granted the plaintiff, Minne Moore, to file a petition in the appeal from a lower court, wherein Lewis Ritchey is defendant. This appeal was filed in common pleas court Sept. 7, 1923.

Judgment Recorded.

Judgment on a cognovit note has been recorded in common pleas court for $1,176 in the case of the Salem Finance and Discount company against W. H. McGaffick and Lui Guliani.

Leave To Answer.

In the case of G. B. McCormick against F. C. Stuller and Corwin Stuller, for the foreclosure of a chattle mortgage, the court has granted the defendants leave to answer the petition of the plaintiff at once.

"My Catarrh is all gone"

What freedom in those words! Only those can realize who know the distress of clogged nose, catarrhal deafness, offensive breath, raising of mucus, and lowered vitality due to catarrh. Yet thousands still endure catarrh needlessly, because they are treating symptoms instead of the cause.

Catarrh is an inflamed condition of the mucous membrane—the delicate lining of the air passages of nose, throat and head. When this is corrected, catarrh disappears.

Salves and ointments give only temporary relief. But Hall's Catarrh Medicine because it goes directly to the cause has been successful for over 40 years. Ask your druggist. Price 85c. F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio.

Elks Retain Lead In County Amateur Basketball Circuit

TRIM LISBON IN GREAT GAME AT ROLLAWAY

Salineville is Handed Trimming at Columbiana.

EAST LIVERPOOL ELKS continued their drive toward first half championship honors in the Columbiana County Amateur cage league by toppling Lisbon last night at the Rolloway, 42 to 31, in a contest that saw a Lisbon team fully 50 per cent improved over the aggregation that bowed to the Antlers in a clash here earlier in the season.

While Bill Powell's lads were winning from the county seaters Salineville was taking an artistic trimming at Columbiana, the Boosters, who have been dead in their tracks for a couple of weeks, coming out of their lethargy to land a 55-39 decision in a free scoring battle.

The race waxes hotter with the end of the half, which arrives with next week's games, rapidly approaching. Damascus and Salem, closely pressing the Elks for titular laurels, had easy sledding during the week, each taking a couple of games by forfeit. Last night's contests ended the week's schedule, so far as actual play is conterned, with the exception of the Columbiana game here Saturday night. Wellsville was billed at Damascus tonight, and East Palestine at Salem, while the Mullins quint was scheduled for a return go at Wellsville tomorrow night. These three contests are forfeited, with the Quakers and Salem benefiting.

Although Guard and Captain Smith Anderson is back in town, he did not get into last night's battle, Joe Canne filling his shoes so well that he played the entire game alongside the clever "Chuck" McConville.

Wilson and Pusey rode the "pony express" in front of Center Wilde, this trio doing all of the scoring with the exceptions of three field goals and a foul by Canne and a foul by McConville. After watching them perform, Lisbonites averred they had "their money's worth."

A score or more of East Liverpool fans who took in the game felt none too easy in the first quarter as the Lisbonites, flashing a scoring spree that probably startled even themselves, rang up an 11-2 count on the Antlers in the first period. Regardless of whether Lady Luck had anything to do with it or not, the county seat combine bucketed their first seven tries at the hoop. All straight through, one after the other, fouls and field goals.

It might have taken the starch out of any squad but Powell's boys went nonchalantly about their work and proceeded to just about double Lisbon's streak in the second period. The Antlers rained the ball on the hoops for 21 straight points in that second stanba and when the shooting was all over the count stood: Elks, 23; Lisbon, 18.

In the third period the Elks' margin increased by three points, the tally being 32 to 24 at the intermission.

In the final canto the visitors collected 10 more points while the home guards were getting seven.

Johnson and Smith, new men on the Lisbon five since its performance here, boosted the team's strength considerably and the squad, as a whole, showed a well rounded out game.

Wilson, forward, was high scorer last night, with five field goals and three fouls for 13 points. Wilde registered six field goals for 12 counters.

BISONS' TITLE HOPES DEALT CRUSHING BLOW

Hamill and Tinson Lost to Team for Month at Least.

BETHANY, W. Va., Jan. 20.—Disaster, in a double measure, forged its way into the camp of Bethany college varsity basketball team here today, just at the time when Coach Nuss had practically eliminated the "over confident" spirit which has prevailed here from the beginning of the season, due to an ample share of seasoned material. It not only upsets the team after this big drawback has been erased, but it also rates the Bisons as "underdogs" in their titular conference battles of this week.

Jack Hamill and "Tiny" Tinson are the members of the team who were dealt severe blows. Hamill, due to sickness, has been removed to the Wheeling General hospital, and will probably be out of the game for the remainder of the season. He has not yet had an opportunity to show his wares, but Coach Nuss is living in hopes that he will recover by the end of January and be able to finish up the season.

Tinson's case, however, is probably the more serious to the team, as he has been a main cog in the regular lineup since the season opened. Tinson has been called home for an indefinite period because of sickness.

With these men not to be counted on for the titular contests this week and next at least, the Bison mentor has turned his attention toward perfecing a new combination. Alf Carey has been in Tinson's place, and Markley, Rush, Baker and Ryan will be forced to bear the brunt of the substitutions.

Games with Thiel and Westminster colleges Friday and Saturday are facing the Green and White cagers, and but one day remains for Coach Nuss to perfect the newly working five. However, he believes that Captain Beckwith and Carl Hamill have again "found themselves," and will be able to outscore the flashy forwards of the Pennsylvania schools in the crucial contests awaiting the West Virginians.

BOUT MAY MAKE FEATHER KING

CHICAGO, Jan. 20.—The all-star, double-windup boxing show offered by Promoter Jim Mullen at the Coliseum tonight, is attracting wide attention throughout this section. Possibility that a featherweight champion may be manufactured during the mixup between Ray Miller and Eddie Shea, has perked interest in the attraction. Mullen says he will ask the Illinois Boxing Commission to declare the winner of this bout the featherweight king. They go ten rounds to a decision.

In the second stellar performance, Spug Myers of Pocatello, Idaho, and Billy Petrolle, the "Fargo Express" will exchange punches with the hope in view of getting a shot at Sammy Mandell's lightweight crown. Either of these two bouts should be a credit to any show. All four men have trained faithfully and are reported in tip-top condition.

SPORTSMEN HEAR LEAGUE OFFICER

Rev. R. K. Caulk, rector of the St. Stephens' Episcopal church, will address members of the East Liverpool-Wellsville branch of the Columbiana County Fish and Game Protective association tonight at a meeting in the Ingram building.

A smoker and business session will be held in connection with Rev. Caulk's address. Rev. Caulk is vice president of the League of Ohio Sportsmen and probably will discuss activities of the organization.

The session will start at 8 o'clock.

Movin' On

JACK SCOTT

JACK SCOTT was released by the Cincinnati Reds in May, 1922, because of an injured arm that the club bosses figured had ended his pitching days. The other day the New York Giants used him in a wholesale trade, sending him to Philadelphia. Is still considered good enough to be used as trading material at least.

Won 16 and lost 7 games for Giants in 1923 and played a part in winning the pennant for McGraw. Sent to the Toledo club on option in 1924, he proceeded to win 20 games while losing the same number for the disjointed Toledo club. Recalled by the Giants in 1925, he won 14 games and lost 15, and last year managed to win 13 while losing 15.

Got his start with Macon in the Sally League in 1916 and received a tryout with the Pirates that same season. Played with Macon again, Columbia and Nashville, before the Boston Braves paid $750 for him. Failed to turn in any brilliant records with the Braves in three seasons and was traded to Cincinnati for Rube Marquard and Kopf.

Fight Results

AT NEW YORK—Bruce Flowers, of New Rochelle, N. Y., knocked out Johnny Ryan, of Ireland, in the third round.

Jack McVey, of New York, won decision over Eddie Dempsey, of Philadelphia, ten rounds.

Eddie Anderson, of Wyoming, won decision over Joe Souza, of Freeport, N. Y., ten rounds.

RENEY, MORRIS LAND MATCHES

A one point margin gave Ed Reney a victory over McDowell in the American pocket billiard tournament last night. The final count was 75-74.

C. Morris, however, found the going easier against T. Watson winning his match handily, 75 to 25.

Daher vs. Bennett and Hannan vs. Osborne are matches scheduled for tonight.

DEMPSEY MUST TAKE TURN AT TITLE CHANCE

Rickard Replies to Rumors of Bout With Tunney.

By DAVIS J. WALSH.

NEW YORK, Jan. 20.—Jack Dempsey either must fight the ultimate survivor of the Delaney Sharkey-Maloney heavyweight series or forfeit his immediate chance for a return whatever-it-was- with Gene Tunney for the championship.

This, in effect, was Tex Rickard's reply today to stories in circulation that another Dempsey-Tunney meeting already was in the bag and that, the present heavyweight tourney being a lot of applejack, Rickard was to so connive that Dempsey would get the "shot" and the others would get the air, which generally can be found outside. The reply might be resignated as a commentary on Dempsey's recent allegation that he wasn't interested" in Rickard's tournament.

It was, incidentally ,the promoter's first attempt at rattling the sword as far as Dempsey is concerned, although Rickard wished to disclaim that such was his intention.

"Dempsey will be here in about three weeks," he said, "and I don't think we will have any trouble about what should be done next summer. However, anybody who says I am trying to chase Dempsey into another Tunney match without giving the other contenders a chance is merely trying to make trouble for me.

"I will not put Dempsey in with Tunney next summer, unless he first proves that he is the best man for the spot. By that time, I will have developed a real challenger as a result of my tournament and I'd be crazy if I didn't make the most of such a man. I'll send him in with Dempsey if Jack will go, or with Tunney himself, if Jack decides against my plans. In either case, we will have a real title fight between two real fighters."

The suspicion is general that Jack is concerned only with one more fight, if that many. He left that impression with me before departing for the west some months ago.

"I'll fight my way back into condition with a lot of exhibitions," he said on that occasion. "You get all the work you need that way."

Ruppert Is Keyman In Landis-Johnson 'Showdown' Battle

Which Way Colonel "Jake" Will Jump in Monday's Meeting to be Watched Anxiously by Both Sides; Yank Owner's Influence Known to be Tremendous.

By Gene Hoffman.

CHICAGO, Jan. 20.—Colonel Jacob Ruppert, owner of the New York Yankees, was viewed today as the "key man" in the formations now being drawn for baseball's "showdown" battle, scheduled for Monday of next week, between Commissioner K. M. Landis and Byron Bancroft Johnson, president of the American league.

Col. Ruppert' influence is known to be tremendous, not only in his own circuit, but in moulding the policy of the national sport. Observers here, who have followed the Landis-Johnson feud closely, believe that whichever way the colonel jumps, that way goes the victory.

The "showdown" will be forced January 24 at the Congress hotel here when major league officials meet with Commissioner Landis, ostensibly to delve further into the mysteries of the fast-fading Cobb-Speaker scandal. Landis called the meeting after Johnson charged the commissioner with "tarring" two of baseball's greatest players, and trying to "pass the buck" to the American league.

In view of all that has gone before, this meeting can be nothing but a test of strength between the commissioner and President Johnson. The latter was conceded a fair chance to hold his own, until he aroused the ire of one of his erstwhile supporters, Col. Jake Ruppert, by hinting that "something was wrong" with the 1922 world series.

The Yankees lost that series to the Giants, and naturally the colonel did not relish this reflection on his men and organization. According to reports from New York, Ruppert "exploded" when he read Johnson's alleged statement.

Johnson appeared considerably concerned over the "explosion" of Ruppert. The American league prexy was emphatic today in denying that he had ever charged anything was wrong about the 1922 series. He said the whole trouble was that an imaginative reporter had jockeyed his (Johnson's) words so that they implied things he did not say. Johnson admitted he did mention the 1923 world series in talking about scandals, explaining that in view of the scandal epidemic it was surprising Landis had not seen something to investigate about 1922 because the Giants had won in five games.

"If at the time of the 1922 series I had been given a clew as to any wrong doing, I certainly would have investigated just as I have had agents go into other th gs," Johnson explained.

Whether this explanation will appease Col. Ruppert and win him back to the Johnson fold, remains to be seen. Ruppert has been one of Johnson's staunchest supporters for years, and it was believed that if there was one man in baseball who could work a miracle Monday by again patching up a truce between Landis and Johnson, it was Ruppert.

Which way the Colonel will "jump," may be revealed Sunday when the American league directors meet here with President Johnson to arrange final details of their program at Monday's "showdown" affair.

Save for the brief explanation concerning the 1922 world series, Johnson, as well as Commissioner Landis, remained incommunicado today. Neither would comment on any phase of the impending duel.

Concrete Streets, like Concrete Roads, are a good investment—not an expense

Defiance County Farmers Enter New Era of Prosperity Via Concrete Roads

Twelve years ago the farmers of Defiance County, Ohio, were suffering big losses as a direct result of bad roads.

After heavy rains, many of these roads became seas of mud, and it was impossible for days at a time to get to market at all.

But in 1914 Defiance County began to build concrete roads, and today has mile after mile of this firm, rigid, unyielding type.

Farmers in every section of the county can now deliver their poultry, eggs, milk and other perishable produce in prime condition—no matter what the state of the weather.

Nor is the farmer the only one who has benefited by the coming of concrete roads. Prosperity has steadily increased all along the line.

For example, the City of Defiance has developed into an important produce center, where several nationally known produce houses have opened receiving stations doing an annual business which runs into the millions.

The simple truth is that concrete roads soon pay for themselves, and they continue to return dividends in the form of greater all-round prosperity year after year—with practically no expense for maintenance.

Answers to Questions

By FREDERIC J. HASKIN

The keynote of the times is efficient service. In supplying its readers with a free Information Bureau in Washington the Review-Tribune is living up to this principle in deed and fact. We are paying for this service in order that it may be free to the public. Submit your queries to the staff of experts whose services are put at your disposal. Enclose two cents in stamps to cover the return postage. Address the East Liverpool Review-Tribune Information Bureau, Frederic J. Haskin, Director, Washington, D. C.

Q. How much does a new born elephant weigh? L. R.

A. The United States Zoological Park says that the approximate weight of an elephant at birth is 160 to 200 pounds.

Q. How many books on religion were produced in 1925 by American authors? W. E.

A. In a table compiled by The Publishers' Keekly the number of such publications is given as 706.

Q. What is the area of the Virgin Islands? A. R. C.

A. One hundred and thirty-two square miles.

Q. Can local surveyors obtain any of the data of the Coast and Geodetic Survey? F. L. M.

A. Four or five years ago the Survey inaugurated the practice of placing at the disposal of local and county surveyors data accumulated by the bureau so as to encourage more accurate surveys. Since then cooperation has been extended to approximately 4,000 surveyors. Through printed digests, in which counties are listed alphabetically, the descriptions of Coast and Geodetic Survey tri-angulation stations, magnetic stations, and precise level bench marks have been brought to the attention of surveyors of twenty- seven states. Digests for the other states will be prepared as soon as possible.

Q. Does the Washington Monument sway? J. L. H.

A. The Washington Monument bends slightly. This is rendered perceptible by means of a copper wire 174 feet long, hanging in the center of the structure, and carrying a plummet suspended in a vessel of water. At noon in summer the apex of the monument is shifted by expansion of the stone a few hundrdths of an inch toward the north. High winds also cause perceptible motion, depending upon the velocity. In still weather vibrations of the earth's crust are also registered by this instrument

Q. How many graves are there in Arlington? A. P. T.

A. An all inclusive count totals 35,460.

Q. Was Julia Marlowe born in the United States? L. G.

A. Caldbeck, England, is her birthplace.

Q. Does silk or wool retain body heat better? K. W. G.

A. Silk and wool are both non-conductors of heat. The latter retains body heat somewhat more than silk because of the air-holding spaces in the fibres and because of lower evaporation.

Q. In the Bible, what people are included in Gentiles? G. A.

A. In the Scriptures, the term Gentiles implies all peoples who did not accept the Jewish faith. They therefore comprised all nationalities except Jews.

Q. Please explain the term "fourth dimension." B. D. B.

A. The fourth dimension is a type of geometry, which conceives a hyperspace of "N" dimensions, in which space is conceived not of points, but of lines. Under such division, space has four dimensions, since four determinations are necessary to fix a line in space. Mathematicians agree as to the practical value of this idea as it leads to important simplifications of the mathematical language and gives greater clearness to the concepts of real geometry.

Q. When was the statute of Baron Von Steuben in Washington unveiled? J. F. G.

A. The date of the unveiling of the statue of Von Steuben in Lafayette Park, Washington, D. C., was December 7, 1910.

Q. How long did the glacial Lake Agassiz cover the land? J. J. N.

A. It is impossible to say how long a period the glacial waters of Lake Agassiz covered the greater parts of Manitoba, Saskatchewan,. North Dakota, and Minnesota. The lake from its earliest measurements appears to have been 110,000 square miles with a length of 700 miles,.width of 250 miles, and a depth of 700 feet. Besides the reclaimed land know known as the Red River Valley there remains still of Lake Agassiz the shrunken remnants constituting Lake Winnipeg, Lake Manitoba, Rainy Lake, Lake of the Woods, and Red Lake.

Q. In what school was carrying the ball introduced into football? P. C. B.

A. The introduction of the carrying feature into football is attributed upon a memorial tablet at Rugby to a schoolboy named William Webb Ellis, who in the closing minute of a drawn game in the autumn of 1823, "with a fine disregard for the rules of football as played in his time, first took the ball in his arms and ran with it, thus originating the distinctive feature of the Rugby game." In the 40 years that followed many clubs sprang up throughout England, some playing the kicking and others the carrying game, but all handicapped by a lack of uniform rules.

Haskin's Letter

Hassler was not able to complete his commission until the end of 1815. Actual field work was therefore not possible until 1816. This continued for two years when it was suspended and not resumed until 1832. The scope of the work of the Coast Survey was increased in 1871 so that state surveys were included, and in 1878 this service became known as the Coast and Geodetic Survey.

In their work of surveying the coasts the engineers take many chances which would not be permitted the usual sea captain. It is their business to sail uncharted waters, noting dangers that might lurk in wait for the unsuspecting vessel. They are the ones who dragged the Alaskan waters so that pinnacle rocks might be avoided by the merchant vessels.

A Year Without a Wreck.

It is said that formerly one of the principal ways of designating such rocks was by naming them after vessels which had been wrecked upon them. That a certain number of vessels would be so wrecked each year was taken much as a matter of course among those living in Alaska. After the Coast and Geodetic Survey had wire-dragged the area conditions improved until last year not a single wreck was reported.

A study of earthquakes is being made by the survey so that these may be accurately predicted in order that people in the area so affected may be warned. It is, of course, impossible to prevent such phenomena, but people may be given some notice of an impending shock, so that they may be prepared. With respect to this, Col. Jones is particularly earnest in urging people to build their houses with a due regard to their stability to withstand such shocks.

One might go on indefinitely telling of the wonderful and often thrilling work of this organization. As one official has said, "almost any question, foolish or otherwise, involving any of the material sciences—astronomy, geology, mathemathics, hydrography, seismology, et al.—can be answered by some one of the scientists in this bureau." The best part of it is that these scientists seem able to put into actual use their scientific theories.

SYNOPSIS.

Quexter, narrator of the tale, is an American employed by a bank in Paris. He starts for Geneva to visit the headquarters of the League of Nations, stopping at Dijon between trains. He shares his room with another American who says he is a schoolmaster studying abroad. During the night the "schoolmaster" disappears.

Quexter arrives at Geneva finding that the League is discussing the illicit drug traffic. At the municipal casino he sees a stout, flashily dressed Italian whom he had noticed at Dijon and overhears part of a conversation between him and another man, with mention of a "Stella" and a mysterious "Center" under whose orderes they all seem to be. Quexter picks up a bunch of flowers thrown by a dancing girl and finds a handkerchief among the stems. He uses it to bind up a cut finger and later sends it to the laundry.

Next day the stout Italian—Baldassare Marce—calls on him and demands

the handkerchief. Quexter will give him no satisfaction and that afternoon he is kidnapped. Left to himself he escapes from the house only to fall into a well. He finds an outlet, swims through it and comes to a door which leads into a dungeon in which he finds the man who shared his room in Dijon being kept prisoner. Marce and a Jap are with him and are evidently planning to kill him shortly. By a ruse the two Americans escape and get to Geneva where they appeal to the police for protection. Quexter sleeps that night with the American who turns out to be a detective interested in unraveling the secrets of the illicit drug traffic for the American government.

The morning after the escape Quexter wakes up to find Claypole, the detective, disguised as an old man in the room advising him to get up and eat breakfast.

CHAPTER EIGHTEEN.

"You look surprised," he remarked. "I've been up these two hours, gallivanting around in these togs and playing the part of dear old grandad from the backwoods come to see the great town and all the folks on the sidewalk."

"What have you been doing?" I inquired.

"I have been putting a little ginger into those police," he replied. "They are getting their blamed warrant signed by the old fellow with the grippe. In about ten minutes we hike in a police automobile to old Count Emilco's two-storied tenement."

"Then I must be pretty smart," I said, devouring the last remnants of the omelette.

"No immediate hurry for you," replied Claypole. "You won't be making this trip with us."

I put down my fork and looked at him rebelliously.

"Claypole," I said, "I told you last night that I intended to see this business through. I'm right in with you, and I don't mean to be put out."

Claypole laid a hand on my arm.

"I know," he said. "But I've got another job for you. Do you know why I look like a dime character in a wild and woolly western film?"

"I do not."

"Well, friend, I have just rambled round to the high-class laundry establishment where your linen is now hanging out on the little old clothes line."

"I see. You've been after the handkerchief," I said.

"You bet," replied Claypole, "like a customs officer after a bootlegger, but they didn't take to the idea of entrusting your washing to any one short of Robert W. Quexter himself, so I guess you will have to step along and fetch it."

"Very well," I said, lathering my chin, "I will go the moment I am dressed. Where is this laundry to be found?"

"It's a kind of convent," said Claypole, "in a little one-horse burg in France where they take in washing. This was apparently a usual practice in Geneva which, as a glance at the map will show, is surrounded on all sides save one by French Savoy. The particular convent which did the washing for some of the principal hotels in Geneva was situated at Ferney-Voltaire.

I had just finished shaving when a sudden thought struck me.

"Claypole," I said, "what about the little Japanese who was sent to retrieve the handkerchief yesterday? He will surely have contrived to get it by now."

"I think not," Claypole replied. "I'm pretty sure that it has not yet left the care of the holy nuns. Have you read the newspapers this morning?"

"No," I said.

Claypole handed me a copy of La Suisse open at the local news, where I saw a small paragraph marked with a line of red pencil. It was as follows: Automobile versus motor cyclist.

At 6:55 p. m. yesterday evening an automobile driven by M. C-P. resident, Avenue de Chantepoulet 415 bis, came into collision with a motor cyclist at the junction of the Avenue de Secheron and the route de Lausanne. The car was proceeding from Geneva in the direction of Versoix, and the motorcyclist in the opposite direction. The motor cyclist was thrown from his machine, a distance of 7 meters, sustaining severe injuries to his head. The victim received first aid at police post No. 17 in the rue Butini, and was afterwards transported to the cantonal hospital. His condition is grave, and he has not yet recovered consciousness. The name of the unfortunate man is not known, but he is of Japanese nationality. The gendarme Jacot conducted the preliminary investigations into the cause of the accident.

I laid the paper down and looked at Claypole.

"Strikes me," he said, "that the unfortunate messenger of the lord high muckamuck who calls himself the Center is now knocking at the heavenly gates."

"They have sent another man," I pointed out.

"Sure," he replied. "But somehow I think they have been a darned sight too busy chasing around after us. I got a kind of hunch you will find the handkerchief in the laundry."

I was by this time nearly ready.

"Look here, Claypole," I said, as I knotted my tie, what is the use of the handkerchief, anyway? I can't conceive why they should be wanting it so badly?"

Claypole did not answer for a moment, and as my back was turned to him I could not see the expression of his face. Presently he said:

"I will be frank with you. The fact is, I simply don't know. But clearly it is so vital that the gang will stick at nothing in order to get it."

I had a glimpse of his face in the mirror in front of me as he spoke. His quiet smile had disappeared; his eyes were hard and keen; and the racy slang of his ordinary speech was in abeyance.

"You remember," he went on, "I told you about poor Harold Lynch. He was murdered. We were never able to find out who did it, but I am pretty well sure it was the same gang. He was after a cigar case, but he never got it. This time it is a handkerchief."

"What will it be the next time?" I exclaimed.

"There is not going to be a next time," said Claypole quietly, "not if Cyrus P. Claypole and Robert W. Quexter can prevent it."

"I need not warn you of the danger," he continued. "That reminds me. I've got the police, after much persuasion, to give us some of that protection we asked for yesterday."

He rose and approached the window.

"There they are," he said, "They don't look particularly bright, but they were the best I could find. They have orders not to lose sigh of you for an instant. They will follow you to the laundry, but you must behave as though you did not know of their existence."

I looked over his shoulder and saw in the street below two undistinguished individuals, quietly dressed, who were loitering on the sidewalk.

"There's a taxi waiting for you at the corner," continued Claypole. "Come straight back here when you have got the handkerchief and wait for me. Got your passport?" he added.

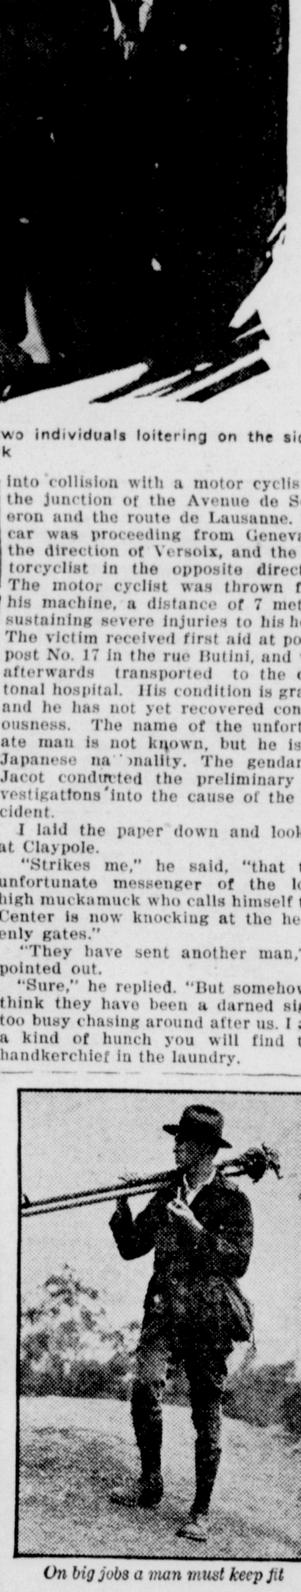

I nodded. He looked at me a moment, anxious as I thought, and unusually excited. Then with a return to his normal manner:

"Let's away," he chanted, "and part the glories of this happy day. Flourish and exteunt omnes."

We shook hands, and I left the room.

Surveyors kept in fine trim by simple first-aid measure

A member of a survey party, sent out by the government of British Columbia to do subdivision work three hundred miles from civilization reports that the men were kept in fine trim throughout the trip by a simple first-aid measure.

"The chief brought along as a part of our first-aid supply a bottle of Sloan's Liniment," he writes. "And through weeks of exposure and hardship we found it our best help for sprains, bruises, stiff muscles and rheumatism."

Sloan's gives real relief because it doesn't just deaden the pain. It helps your body to throw off the cause.
